JONES HAS 69; SHOWS WAY IN AMATEUR GOLF

Atlantan's Card, 1 Better Than Par, Leads Field by One Stroke.

JOHNSTON VIRTUALLY ELIMINATED WITH 83

M'CARTHY, FORMER G. U. STAR, GETS ACE

Dunlap, Ouimet, Goodman, Von Elm Near Leaders; Voigt Makes 76.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Golfing fireworks exploded all over these historic premises today as the one and only Bobby Jones skyrocketed into the lead for the first 18 holes of the two-day 36-hole qualifying test for the United States amateur championship.

The great Georgian, blazing the way, as he began his last battle for a clean sweep of all the major golf honors of 1928, shot a brilliant 36—33—69, 1 under par, 1 stroke in front of his nearest two rivals—19-year-old Sidney Noyes, jr., of New York, a Yale freshman, and Dr. Oscar F. Willing, 40-year-old dentist, from Portland, Oreg.

Noyes finished the last nine holes in 32, 2 under par, to post the first par 70 of the day and set the pace until he was overhauled by Jones. Dr. Willing, among the late finishers, posted his fine 37—33—70 after barely missing a 70-foot putt that would have given him a tie with Jones.

College Champion Fourth.

Fourth place went to another youngster, George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York, the national intercollegiate champion, who scored 35—36—71 during the first day's struggle that was featured otherwise by the virtual collapse of the defending champion, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, and a hole in one on the 215-yard seventeenth by Maurice J. McCarthy, jr., of New York, Metropolitan title holder.

Johnston, his putting touch so completely gone that he took 41 strokes on the greens and as many as 4 on a single green, finished with 43, 40—83, and faced the necessity of cutting perhaps 10 strokes off his score if he is to qualify in defense of the crown he won at Pebble Beach last year.

The records fail to reveal any previous instances of a defending title holder not qualifying. Johnston was confident, even after his miserable showing today, that he would stage a comeback, even if he had to shave it as close as Jerome D. Travers did in being forced into a play-off to qualify in 1913. Despite his close call, Travers went on to win the crown again that year.

Defending Champ Forsaken.

Johnston, as he steadily lost ground and strokes, presented the extraordinary picture of a champion being forsaken almost entirely by his gallery and so woefully weak on the greens that he needed at least three putts to get down on six of them. "Jimmy" was almost as unsteady off the tees and before he was through had been in more traps and hazards than he usually finds in a half dozen rounds of golf.

McCarthy's hole in one, the rarest feat in the game, was the first ace recalled by officials since Robert A. Gardner achieved it in the qualifying

Son of President Has Tuberculosis

(Associated Press.)

The illness of Herbert Hoover jr., elder son of President and Mrs. Hoover, yesterday was diagnosed as a "very early tubercular infection of a small area in the chest."

Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, in making the announcement, said since the lesion had been discovered early, the outcome is "viewed optimistically" and a full and complete recovery is believed likely.

The President's son is to remain at the presidential lodge in the Virginia mountains, at an altitude of about 2,500 feet, until cold weather. Then, Capt. Boone said, he will be brought back to Washington for another examination, after which the future course of his treatment will be determined.

Months of constant work were said by the White House physician to have left the 28-year-old son of Mr. Hoover in a generally rundown condition.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The waste that results from motor vehicle accidents in the United States has reached appalling proportions. During last year 31,000 persons were killed and 1,000,000 injured. This reads like the fatalities and casualties of a battlefield. A particularly discouraging feature was the 10 3-10 per cent increase, which exceeds the increase in the number of registrations. Deaths have doubled since 1922. The economic loss is estimated at $850,000,000, which is $350,000,000 above the previous year. Many of the States and the Nation at large have awakened to this terrible menace and are taking steps through investigations, commissions and conferences to meet it. Since, during this year, fatalities have not increased, some progress is indicated. Accidents to pedestrians and children have decreased.

The National Safety Council has reduced the accidental death rate in industry 30 per cent in eighteen years. This same agency with all its allies is working on highway security. Some way must be found to curb recklessness and provide safeguards for operation. Elevated structures over railroads for through traffic are undoubtedly coming.

Every consideration of humanity and economics requires a solution of this pressing problem.

CARDS DEFEAT PHILS TO HOLD ADVANTAGE

Cubs Remain 2 1-2 Games Behind by Victory Over the Boston Braves.

ST. LOUIS WINS, 15 TO 7

Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Pounding the ball to every corner of the park, the St. Louis Cardinals moved a little nearer the National League pennant today with a 15-to-7 victory over Philadelphia. The victory still left the Cardinals out in front by two and one-half games, as the Cubs also won.

Beginning a heavy barrage in the second inning, the Cardinals kept at the task until they had piled up nineteen hits, including eight doubles. Mancuso collected four hits, while Bottomley and Watkins connected for three each. Willoughby, Collard and Hansen proved easy for the pennant-bound Cardinals, while Phillips, who hurled the last two innings, was the only pitcher able to check the Cardinals' wild onslaught.

St. Louis started its scoring rampage in the second inning, counting four times in each of the second and

Mrs. 'Bud' Stillman To Attend Harvard

Backwoods Wife Will Sit in at Classes With Son of Millionaire.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—James "Bud" Stillman, who chose a bride from the backwoods of Quebec, now plans to take her to school with him.

The son of the wealthy James A. Stillman, of New York, said today his wife, the former Lena Wilson, of Grand Anse, Quebec, would attend some of his classes this fall at Harvard Medical School. Mr. Stillman is in his third year at Cambridge.

"Of course Mrs. Stillman will get no credit for the courses," Mr. Stillman said. "She just attends as an outsider who is interested in the subjects because I am." He said he would have to get permission from the professors in charge of the various courses and there was a rule permitting it.

PRIVATELY PAID DRY AGENT HELD IN JAIL

Undercover Man Locked Up in Danville, Va.; Wanted as Rum Case Witness.

HIRED BY COUNTY HEADS

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 22.—O. O. Goben, who for the last two weeks has been operating as an undercover agent between Gretna and Reidsville, N. C., is in jail here pending his removal to Topeka, Kans., where he is said to be wanted as a witness in a a major prohibition case. Sought by Federal authorities for more than a year, Goben was arrested at Gretna by J. P. Flournoy, Department of Justice agent, of Washington, D. C., after the Federal authorities had learned from the local police chief, J. H. Martin, that Goben was in this section. His bond was set at $5,000 and he was lodged in jail after failure to give it.

Goben's arrest has ended the trail of Department of Justice men which has extended in many States. He was recently employed as an undercover agent by a group of Pittsylvania County citizens through Prohibition Inspector W. T. Shelton, who refused to have anything to say about the matter or to supply the names of the county citizens who employed Goben.

It is learned that they include educators, bankers, town officials and ministers. Goben claims to have been promised $150 and expenses a week. He already had purchased a quantity of liquor which has been turned over to Inspector Shelton pending arrests.

Goben claims to have prevented a murder and robbery, which was planned by gangsters of the Middle West. Upon his report, before his arrest, that he had gained the confidence of such a trio by becoming friendly and "operating" with them and that it was planned to kill a store proprietor at Sycamore after robbing him, Sheriff Charles Murphy, of Chatham, arrested James Barber and E. R. Stoneback, of Omaha, Nebr., who are in the local jail charged with plotting to murder and rob. Both have confessed, according to Chief Martin. Barber was arrested at the same time as Goben.

Goben claims to have operated in many States as a private undercover agent. He is a former Federal undercover man.

Dry Chief States Slaying Of Agent Will Be Avenged

Woodcock Confers With Officer in Charge of Elizabeth Brewery Killing Inquiry; Roadhouse Owner to Be Charged With Crime if Apprehended.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Amos W. W. Woodcock, Federal prohibiton administrator, visited Philadelphia today on his inspection of various enforcement districts and while here acquainted himself with the progress of the investigation into the killing of John G. Finiello, Philadelphia dry agent slain in Elizabeth, N. J., last Friday.

The administrator said that politics would not interfere with the work of his agents, and declared the men involved in the killing of Finiello would be brought to justice at any cost.

After a conference with Commander John D. Pennington, in charge of the New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania enforcement district, Mr. Woodcock visited the United States District Attorney's office, talked with Federal Judge Joseph Buffington, and then spent a few minutes in Federal court, where Judge William Kirkpatrick was presiding at an alcohol diversion trial.

While the administrator was in the city, John L. Liebert, Philadelphia, alleged brewmaster at the Rising Sun Brewery, where Finiello was killed, was held in $25,000 bail on charges of illegal possession and manufacture of beer and maintaining a common nuisance. Commander Pennington said, after questioning Liebert, he had been exonerated of any connection with or knowledge of the killing of Finiello.

Further action in the investigation into the killing led Federal authorities on a search for Michael (Mickey) Duffy, whom they described as a Philadelphia gangster, and Max Hassel, of Reading, Pa. These men, they said, were wanted for questioning.

Commander Pennington today sent this letter to all agents in his territory:

"The deliberate and wilful murder of Agent John Finiello while performing the lawful duties of his office in serving a Federal search warrant, has caused widespread sorrow among his friends and associates. His murder is a challenge, not alone to the Federal Prohibition Service, but a challenge to our Government.

"The merits or demerits of prohibition cease to be a factor in the pres-

RIGHT TO SELL ITEMS RETAINED BY BROKER

Requirements for License Are Easy to Fulfill by Merchants.

Clerks and Clientele Alike Put on Defensive When Policemen Enter.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

Back in 1913 the legislators on Capitol Hill decided that pawnshops were inimical to the welfare of the community and by placing drastic restrictions upon them drove them from the District. This permitted the entry of a horde of dealers who operate enterprises which are virtually the same as the pawn business.

It was thought that the 3 per cent a month charged by legitimate dealers on pledges was exorbitant. So to drive them from the city it was ruled that a license fee of $500 would be required annually; that a bond of $5,000 must be posted for the proper conduct of the business; and that only 1 per cent a month might be charged as interest.

This law had the desired effect. All legitimate brokers found that they could not operate on this basis and transferred their business beyond the District boundaries. Some are now operating in nearby Virginia under the Virginia law.

As Legally Practiced.

These merchants charge 3 per cent on loans up to $250 and 2 per cent per month on loans exceeding this amount. If the pawner wishes to extend the period of his loan, he may do so without additional charge.

When the client offers a pledge of some value to these dealers he is given a pawn ticket. The pledge may be redeemed at any time upon payment of the loan, plus interest charges.

The legislators became so occupied in noting the efficacy of their legislation that they failed to observe the unhealthy brood that gathered under the pages of their law to ply the trade the legislators had outlawed.

Methods in Capital.

When the law went into effect there was a mushroom growth of second-hand dealers along D, E, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets. By the simple method of withholding the redemption ticket, they believe that they are within the law.

The financially embarrassed individual asks these District dealers how much can be advanced on a piece of jewelry. The dealer offers a certain amount. Then the name of the pawner is taken. A verbal agreement is made to hold the pawn for a certain length of time. No record of the transaction is given to the patron.

For instance, if a diamond bracelet is offered as a pawn, the market value of which may be $1,000, the dealer will lend you $250 on it. You pay interest at the rate of 25 to 50 per cent for the first month, and each succeeding month there is another 10 to 25 per cent interest charge.

No Ticket for Pawner.

If the dealer holds the article for a year the client pays something approximating the total value of the article. In many cases the dealer will sell the pawn before the redemption date. If the client objects the stock answer is, "We bought it from you; we had a right to sell it if we wished."

Since the pawner has no record of the transaction and must trust to the dubious honesty of the dealer, he is without redress unless he has had a witness to the verbal agreement.

In addition to this, the dealer also charges anything he wishes when the

MANCHU CHIEF RULES PEIPING IN REBEL ROUT

Chang Hsueh-Liang May Set Up Dictatorship in Old Capital.

HUGE PRICE EXACTED TO INTERVENE, CLAIM

Gen. Ten Yen-Kai, Acting Head of National Regime, Dies at Battlefront.

Tokyo, Sept. 22 (A.P.). — Chang Hsueh-Liang, dictator of Manchuria, ruled tonight in Peiping, his troops having driven out without fighting the rebels of the Northern China War Lords Alliance.

Suspicion was strong that Chang, 30 years old, would attempt to set up his own government in China's ancient capital, formerly known as Peking, as his father, Chang Tso-Lin, often did in descents from his capital at Mukden.

Chang struck when northern rebel and nationalist government troops were exhausted by six months of internecine warfare and unable to make marked gains. Although claimed by the nationalists as their ally since May, he had remained aloof until the time came to become the deciding factor.

Civil War Appears Ended.

For the present the Civil War appears ended. Generals Yen Hsi-Shan and Feng Yu-Hsiang, leaders of the northerners, are heading their armies from Peiping toward Taiyuan, the Shansi province capital of Gov. Yen.

Many students of China affairs predicted Yen and Feng would encamp in Shansi mountains, gathering strength for another onslaught upon the government. If they did this, they would be repeating their action of last December when they withdrew their armies from Honan after exacting heavy tribute from the Nanking government.

Reports were current Chang Hsueh-Liang had received Chihli province, including Peiping and Tientsin, and $10,000,000 from the nationalists as reward for his intervention.

Central Government Pleased.

Other reports were Chang would act independently and attempt to extend his rule from Manchuria south to the Yellow River. Although believed to entertain this belief, Nationalist officials acclaimed Chang's occupation of Peiping as a triumph for the central government.

One concrete fact stood out: One trainload of the 40,000 Manchurian soldiers had entered Peiping, while other trains were nearing the old capital, having passed Langfang, and were less than 50 miles from their goal.

Peiping civilians, accustomed to changes of war lords, hastened to declare loyalty to the new ruler and conditions were peaceful. Even the northern rebel leaders, hurrying to safety, stated their intention of maintaining friendly relations with the Manchurian. But, they said, they were steadfast in their intention to overthrow the Nationalist regime.

Fealty Pledges Received.

Dispatches to Rengo News Agency from Peiping said that civilian elements hastened to pledge fealty to the new regime, established by Chang Hsueh-Liang, Manchurian governor, who has intervened in the Chinese civil war between the Nationalist government and the Northern rebels.

Peiping newspapers published glowing welcomes to the Manchurian forces and the local Kuomintang organization, political party supporting the Nationalist government, revived itself, staging a large automobile parade, flaunting banners which said "Down with the enemies of the Nationalist revolution."

Dispatches to Rengo said that al-

A Reciprocal Advantage

Some months ago a certain manufacturer said, "We have cut our advertising in keeping with our policy of retrenchment during a depression" . . . Business in this manufacturer's line has begun to pick up, but he has discovered that a smart competitor has already taken the lead in sales through aggressive policies . . . The market today belongs to the "buyer" and the buyer has discovered that only the merchant with genuine values cares to publicly offer them. Advertising is proving of greater and greater advantage to the prospective purchaser and more and more productive for the merchant who offers desired quality at a fair price.

Tuttle Laxity Rapped In Helen Morgan Raid

Campbell Says District Attorney Left Him "Holding Bag."

By MAJ. MAURICE CAMPBELL.

"This case against Helen Morgan was made with your approval and you promised to prosecute it under the internal revenue laws," I told United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle. I reminded him that on the afternoon before the raid, December 30, 1927, his assistant in charge of prohibition cases, Robert B. Watts, had sat in my office for three hours and discussed the plans with me, approving the seizure of the club's furniture.

"But," said Mr. Tuttle, "you didn't tell Watts the name of the club you intended to raid."

And that revealing remark sums up, in my opinion, most of

Churchman Advises Step as Friend Because of Bitterness.

DOUBTS THAT LEADER REALIZES OPPOSITION

Copies of Letter Sent to All of Southern Episcopacy.

AINSWORTH RECEIVES CHARGES OF ELDERS

Inquiry, Official Hints, Unlikely to Be Begun for Sometime.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 22 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—The resignation of Bishop James M. Cannon, jr., from the Methodist Episcopal Church has been urged by Bishop Horace M. Dubose, of the same church here, it was made known today.

In a letter addressed to Bishop Cannon at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, on August 18, Bishop Dubose urged Cannon to "make the supreme personal sacrifice" in order to allay "a bitter feeling of resentment growing against you in the church."

Bishop Dubose said that copies of the letter had been sent to all other bishops of the church and that as yet he had received no answer to his missive.

"I felt it my duty to write to Bishop Cannon because of the serious state of feeling that I realize has grown up against him owing to his stock-market activities and his failure to answer questions put to him in the United States senatorial investigation," Bishop Dubose said.

Silent on Marriage.

He made no mention of Cannon's marital affairs in the letter, he said, and refused to comment on them today.

The letter, which he disclosed in part, follows:

"I can only feel that you are unadvised of the bitter resentment against you on the part of the thousands of our best laymen and hundreds of our loyal pastors. I feel that I should be lacking in loyalty to you, the episcopacy and the church if I should fail to so apprise you."

"I did not demand his resignation," Bishop Dubose pointed out, "for I have no right to do so. I was merely acting as a brother and friend."

Bishop Dubose, through all of Cannon's embroilments previously has expressed complete confidence in his fellow churchman's integrity and ability to come through his difficulties unscathed. He said that he does not want to prejudice public opinion against Bishop Cannon in potential church trials.

Retains League Post.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 22 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Bishop James Cannon's official connection with the Antisaloon League of Virginia depends upon his standing in the Methodist Episcopal Church South and league action upon new evidence of alleged stock gambling will follow church action, said the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Antisaloon League of Virginia, today.

At the same time it was announced from Birmingham that Bishop William N. Ainsworth has received the new charges against Bishop Cannon preferred by Dr. J. P. Mastin and Dr. Costen J. Harrell, of Richmond; Dr. I. P. Martin, of Abingdon, and Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman, of Baltimore. Bishop Ainsworth declined to make public the details.

These four elders demand a committee of investigation which can suspend Bishop Cannon if they find him guilty, ending trial before the 1934 general conference. Letters in Bishop Cannon's handwriting are known to constitute the main evidence in the new case.

GOV. RITCHIE ASSAILED

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—With the Maryland Democratic party on record as favoring placing the problem of prohibition in the hands of the States and permitting the manufacture of beer and light wine in the meantime, the Republican convention today nominated its State candidates on a platform containing a prohibition plank.

Mayor William F. Broening of Baltimore, unopposed in the primaries September 8, was formally nominated for governor to oppose Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, renominated last Thursday by the Democrats for a fourth term.

"One-man government" and Gov. Ritchie's record were assailed by the Republicans both in the platform and in addresses at the convention.

"The evils of the old-time saloon are now generally admitted and the Republican party is unalterably opposed to its return," said the platform on prohibition. "Public preaching and condoning of violations of the national liquor laws have been resorted to as a screen for the various shortcomings of the present administration, and the purpose now is through this means to divert public attention from the fourth term, which is the chief issue of the campaign.

"We recognize that there is a divergence of opinion among honest and patriotic citizens as to the wisdom of the eighteenth amendment, and we

OUTLAWING OF WAR DEBATED BY LEAGUE

FERRARA ROW SETTLED

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 22 (A.P.). The old problem of whether the League of Nations should have a "big policeman" to enforce its awards stepped in today to complicate the league assembly's efforts to amend the league covenant to outlaw war completely.

Debate on this point was begun in the assembly's judicial committee, which is considering proposals for harmonizing the covenant with the Kellogg pact.

It soon became apparent in today's discussion that some of the league members regarded the move to plug up the war hole in the covenant as in reality a move to weaken this instrument which was described as "the charter of peace."

Under the influence of the British premier, Ramsay MacDonald, and the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand, the assembly last year declared itself in favor of revising the covenant to eliminate war as a national policy.

Eleven jurists sitting as a committee since that time have drawn up amendments for this purpose, but the vexing questions of sanctions and how strong these penalties shall be remain to destroy unanimity in working out the proposed change.

As disclosed in the committee debate and by informal discussions, some States fear that introduction of the Kellogg pact, with its reliance on

U. S. Department Helpless To Ban Advertising Planes

Noisy Speeches Broadcast Over City Do Not Come Within Jurisdiction, Aeronautic Secretary Says in Letter to District Commissioners.

If the District Commissioners want some one to help them stop airplanes from flying over the city and blaring down on the ears of citizens various advertising speeches they will have to look elsewhere than to the Department of Commerce.

Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, told the District Commissioners in a letter made public by the Commissioners yesterday that the department, which controls pilots through their flying licenses, is unable to take any action" about the recent visit of a "voice from the sky" advertising airplane which flew over the National Capital for two days advertising a certain make of automobile.

The Commissioners wrote the Department of Commerce saying that such advertising was a violation of municipal regulations and many residents objected to it and asked the aid of the department. The pilot of the plane, the Commissioners said, took off in Virginia and landed outside the jurisdiction of the District police.

"Our jurisdiction," Mr. Young replied, "extends only to such questions as altitudes of flight, acrobatic flying, dropping of objects, and similar regulations, all of which pertain to safety of operation and do not touch upon such matters as the one in question.

"At the present time it is not a condition of the licenses granted to pilots that they shall not violate the laws or ordinances of the jurisdiction over which they fly. It seems apparent that such a general provision would be very difficult of enforcement.

"We have had one or two complaints similar to the one you have raised and are now considering the matter to see what, if any, action the department can consistently undertake.

"We are always very glad to cooperate with municipal authorities to the full extent of our jurisdiction, but we are, of course, limited to the authority granted the department by the act under which it functions in matters pertaining to aeronautics.

"I am sorry that we are unable to take any action in the present instance, but we can assure you of our complete cooperation whenever it lies within our power."

Hepburn said today. "I was not familiar with his personal affairs, nor was I familiar with the contents of the letters he may have written on the stationery of the league. As long as Bishop Cannon is a churchman and bishop in good standing with his church he will remain in his present position as a member of the executive committee of the league. His future status in the league depends, of course, upon his future status in his church."

Ainsworth Hints Delay.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, chairman of the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, indicated tonight that investigation into new charges filed against Bishop James Cannon, jr., probably would not be started for some time.

The college of bishops meets in Charlotte, N. C., in December. Bishop Ainsworth's only comment was that there "probably would be nothing new in the case for some time."

Bishop Ainsworth received a copy of the complaint filed against Bishop Cannon today from Dr. Forest J. Prettyman, of Baltimore; Dr. J. T. Marsten, Richmond; Dr. I. P. Martin, Abingdon, Va., and Dr. Costen J. Harrell, Richmond, Va. He declined, however, to reveal any details of the complaint, explaining it to be official in nature.

Under church law, the chairman of the college of bishops is required to appoint a committee of 12 traveling elders to investigate such charges filed against a bishop to determine whether they warrant consideration by the general conference of the church. The law provides that if the committee should find the charges warrant investigation by the conference, the accused bishop be suspended until the conference meets. The conference meets next in 1934.

Sailing Due to Charges.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Intimates of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, today asserted that he secretly sailed homeward from Brazil last week after receiving cables from friends that additional complaints were to be brought against him before church authorities in the United States.

The bishop sailed aboard the liner American Legion from Santos on September 16, without notifying any local member of the Methodist Church of his intention. News of his sailing was confirmed yesterday.

His oldest friends in Rio say that he had commented he might leave for home almost any day, after he had received word of the complaints, but that he had told nobody the date of his departure.

Post in Brazil Filled.

This note was intended to announce his departure to members of the church in Brazil and to state his reasons for it.

It is understood he told one friend here that he desired to refrain from embarrassing Brazilian church officials by his presence when newspapers published the news that further complaints had been lodged against him in the United States.

It was also said that when the Independent Methodist Church of Brazil was created on September 2 by a special conference at Sao Paulo, Bishop Cannon's career as Bishop of Brazil was automatically ended.

The conference chose J. W. Tarboux, of Miami, Fla., first bishop of the independent church.

Youth Held in Theft At Summer Cottage

James J. Walling, 17, of Wisconsin avenue near Q street northwest, was held for investigation at the Seventh Precinct yesterday after police said that witnesses had placed him in the neighborhood of a summer cottage on Canal road, where $43 was reported stolen Sunday night.

William F. Martin, 2341 Third street northeast, said that $18 had been taken from a suit of clothes that he left in the cottage, and Kenneth W. Brown, 1219 K street northwest, reported that $25 had been taken from some of his clothing. The thief gained admittance by jimmying a window. Walling denied any connection with the crime.

62 Singers to Vie In Radio Audition

Winners Will Be Chosen to Enter Finals Later in Season.

Sixty-two young District singers will compete in the studio of Station WRC at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon for the privilege of representing Washington in the fourth national radio audition.

The group, all of whom are between 18 and 25 years of age, comprises 29 sopranos, 11 contraltos, and 22 tenors, baritones, and basses. Four or five young men and an equal number of young women will be selected by the judges to participate in the District finals at a date to be announced later. The winners will then have to compete in a sectional contest before reaching the national finals.

Albert W. Harned is chairman of the District committee in charge. Kenneth W. Berkeley, manager of WRC, is coperating in staging the local contest.

Hebrews to Dedicate Chapel at Cemetery

The Eleasavetgrad Cemetery Association's new marble and limestone chapel at Fifteenth place and Alabama avenue southeast will be dedicated Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies to be participated in by District of Columbia Hebrew Beneficial Association, the Tifereth Israel Assocition, the Congregation Vohliner Anshey Sfard, the Southeast Hebrew Congregation and Kesher Israel Congregation of Georgetown.

After dedicatory addresses, memorial services will be held for all who are buried in the cemetery. Morris Garfinkle is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Robbery Solution Seen With Arrests of Three

With the early arrest yesterday morning of three young men who are said to have been caught tampering with the lock of a store at Ontario road and Ontario place northwest, police believe they are near solution of a series of storebreakings occurring here recently.

Lieut. J. H. Fowler and Sergt. N. O. Holmes, of the Tenth Precinct's motor patrol, arrested the three, who gave their names at Severance A. Farmer, of Tewsbury place northeast; William Louis Knight, of Seat Pleasant, Md., and Timothy W. Temple, of Tennessee avenue, near Frist street northeast. Police declared that they were chiseling the lock on the store's door when discovered.

PIT'S WHEAT INQUIRY WAITS ON HYDE DATA

RUSSIA SELLS ABROAD

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Formal investigation of alleged abuse of wheat-hedging facilities by Soviet Russia was opened by the Chicago Board of Trade today and then halted to await specific information from Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

The business conduct committee of the board held a brief session following the close of the market—which left some grain prices the lowest in 24 years—and issued a statement indicating it could not proceed until the information it has requested is received. Meanwhile, the statement said, the committee plans a thorough investigation of the transactions alleged by Secretary Hyde.

What effect the impending investigation might have had on the market, if any, was eclipsed by more portentous developments. Russia offered large quantities of wheat abroad at 10 cents lower than similar wheat from North America. North American wheat export business was virtually at a standstill. The United States' visible supply of wheat reached 202,620,000 bushels, a total never before equaled, and still another factor to contribute to the general weakness was the report of good rains in Argentina.

New Denial Issued.

Other than the statement of the business conduct committee, Board of Trade officials were reluctant to comment on any of the dispatches from various parts of the country, relating to the stir caused by the Hyde charges. Among these was an answer to Hyde's latest statement from E. Y. Belitzky, vice president of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate.

Belitzky denied the syndicate sold short 10,000,000 bushels of wheat in operations extending over several months, as Hyde had charged, and said the selling took place on three days and totaled 7,765,000 bushels. He said no effort was made to keep secret the hedging operations.

To other statements, in which it was suggested the Government should go beyond the Russian charges and investigate "grain gambling," officials referred their inquisitors to a book called "The Wheat Pit," by Edward Jerome Dies, of the Board of Trade. In it Dies explains the necessity for hedging as a means of insurance, and declares the speculator balances the market.

Short Selling Defended.

"There is little merit in the statement that short selling depresses prices by creating a fictitious supply," Mr. Dies says in a chapter entitled "That Wicked Short Selling."

"If the supply of wheat were to be judged simply by the amounts offered for sale, there might be some reason in the argument," he continues. "But in a broad, liquid market where there is displayed all the crop information of the world, the volume of grain offered by short sellers has no bearing whatever on the conditions of actual supply. The short seller by no means creates a fictitious supply of grain. Nor is he able by any such process to depress prices."

New York, Sept. 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Reports of an impending congressional investigation of short selling of wheat by the Amtorg Trading Co., representative of the Soviet government, were received with mild amusement in most Wall street grain brokerage houses today.

Action Defended by Most.

With one exception, representatives of the largest commodity houses expressed the opinion that the Amtorg was perfectly justified in selling short, and declared they would be willing to take business from Amtorg if it were offered to them with sufficient money to margin the account.

The general opinion was that no attempt had been made to depress the wheat market and that the amount sold was so small in proportion to world production that it would have little effect. Whatever effect it did have, it was declared, would be counterbalanced when Amtorg was forced to buy in the grain to cover the short commitments.

While Washington was blaming the Amtorg for depressing prices, the world visible supply advanced today to 202,620,000 bushels, the highest ever on record, and an increase of 3,847,000 bushels over last week. The increase in visible supply had more to do with decreasing prices than any other factor, brokers said.

Automobile Production Drops to Year's Low

(Associated Press.)

Automobile production in the United States last month was the smallest registered in any month this year. The Department of Commerce yesterday placed the total August output at 223,046 as against 263,363 during July and 498,628 for August of last year.

The Commerce Department reported also Canadian automobile manufacture had dropped to 9,729 last month, as against 10,188 in July and 14,214 in August, 1929.

Earth Shocks Recorded in Capital.

CUBAN CHIEF SILENT ON WALSH WARNING

COTTON SCOUTS REVOLT

Havana, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Cuban government today declined to comment on the statement made by Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts, that a condition of political unrest exists in Cuba, warranting exercise of United States influence to prevent grave disorders in this republic.

Copies of the senator's declaration, as published by Associated Press newspapers here, were submitted to President Machado late last night for his official comment.

The executive said that he would make no official statement. Cabinet members and other government officials took the same position.

Mr. Walsh's statement, received in full here, aroused much comment on the part of the rank and file of citizenry.

Nationalists Issue Statement.

The Nationalists Union, which has been fighting to postpone the November elections in order to have time to organize into a recognized political group, called a meeting of its chieftains, and issued the following statement.

"The senational statements of Senator Walsh are in our opinion a final and decisive synthesis of the political and economic situation through which the Republic of Cuba is passing at present under Gen. Machado's government.

"It can be added that the elections of November 1, if they are held, will be directly opposed to law, inasmuch as the Crowder code has virtually been suppressed and the electoral census scandalously falsified.

"The first step to take is to solve the political situation which stirs the country and is gradually leading it to a state of chaos, then measures must be adopted to reorganize public finances and reestablish confidence in economic affairs."

Prominent Men Sign.

The signatures of Col. Carlos Mendieta, recognized leader of the Nationalists Union; Dr. Cosme de la Torriente, former Ambassador to the United States, acting president of the Society of International Law; Roberto Mendez Penate, president of the union, and those of Juan Gualberto Gomez, Aurelio Hevia, Aurelio Alvarez and Gen. Francisco Peraza, other nationalist heads, were affixed to the statement.

The warning sounded Sunday night by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, that revolt is brewing in Cuba unless the United States intervenes to assure the people of the island a fair election received a cold reception at the State Department yesterday.

Under Secretary Cotton, acting head of the department in the absence of Secretary Stimson, informed newspapermen that official dispatches received from Cuba do not indicate an alarming situation in Cuba. Mr. Cotton indicated that he saw nothing in the situation calling for action by the United States.

He added that Ambassador Guggenheim, who conferred with him and with Secretary Stimson last week, does not share the alarmist view.

HEBREW SERVICES USHER IN NEW YEAR

Rites Will Continue Today at Synogogues in the Capital.

DR. SIMON IS SPEAKER

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, bringing to the religious Jewish mind thoughts of the sacredness of life's responsibilities and a renewal of pledges to all that is idealistic in the Jewish faith, is being ecelbrated in Washington.

The holiday oicially started last night at sunset, and at 8 o'clock Dr. Abram Simon preached a special New Year sermon at the Eight Street Temple. The synagogue resounded to the ancient chants of the Jewish people.

Dr. Simon's sermon was based on the Joyce Kilmer poem, "The Tree." He spoke of the brevity of existence on the earth, and told his congregation that Rosh Hashanah symbolized a direct protest against the materialism of modern life.

This morning shofar services will be held at the temple at 10:30 o'clock, when the rabbit will review the past year and especially incidents and happenings of the year which affect the Jewish people. He will explain the meaning of the word "shofar," which originated when, many years ago, a shofar, or ram's horn, was sounded to arouse those whose faith was lagging.

A special musical program has been arranged and will be broadcast from 11 to 12 o'clock this morning through Station WMAL.

Ohev-Sholom Synagogue, at Fifth and I streets northwest, has also made elaborate preparations for the observance of Rosh Hashanah. Joseph Feldin, prominent Brooklyn cantor, will be the chief speaker at the services which will be heard this morning. A male choir under the direction of Max Goldberg has arranged special programs for the celebration.

Services will be conducted in both English and Hebrew, Rabbi J. T. Leob said yesterday. Rites will be held in the synagogue from 7 this morning until 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the same hours will be observed tomorrow, he said. He greeted his congregation with a short New Year message last night at 6:30 o'clock.

On Sunday the congregation of the Eighth Street Temple will assemble at its cemetery for services in memory of relatives and friends buried there. Special prayers will be said by Dr. Simon.

Alabama Bank Bandits Get $20,000 in Holdup

Farmersville, Ala., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Three unmasked men entered the Farmerville State Bank through the back door today, held employes at bay and escaped with money estimated at $20,000.

As one of the men drew a gun on W. W. Porter, the cashier, and other employes, the others looted the vault and cash drawers systematically. They fled in an automobile. A posse of citizens gave pursuit.

Child Injured by Motorcycle.

Barbara Jefferson, 7-year-old colored girl, of 1083 Twenty-first street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon for lacerations about the head, received when she was knocked down near her home by a motorcycle, operated by Harry E. Zevely, 422 Fifth street northwest. The girl was removed to her home after treatment.

Capper Asks General Quiz Into Grain Short Selling

If Chicago Board Can Not Establish Way to Limit Futures Trading to Legitimate Hedging Government Should Step in, Senator Asserts.

Topeka, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Investigation by Secretary Hyde into "grain gambling" on the Chicago Board of Trade was urged today by Sen. Arthur Capper, Republican, of Kansas.

Characterizing the recent Russian wheat transactions on the market as "a drop in the bucket compared to the short selling by bear interests," Senator Capper said in a radio address that only a few years ago "grain gamblers" sold nearly 300,000,000 bushels of wheat short on the Chicago market in three days, causing a drop of 62 cents a bushel.

"I sincerely hope," Senator Capper said, "that when Secretary Hyde gets through investigating the short selling by the Russian government, he will go ahead and investigate short selling by members of the Board of Trade.

"And if the Board of Trade can not figure out a way by which trading in grain futures can be limited to legitimate hedging—grain price insurance that will stabilize the price—then I say the government ought to regulate the Board of Trade to the end that the grower and the consumer both will get a square deal on the market.

"If the Board of Trade will not purge itself of this gambling evil, it will become necessary for the Government to do it, as proposed in bills already introduced in Congress."

Senator Capper said the Department of Agriculture had authority under terms of the Capepr-Tincher grain futures act to investigate short selling on the Chicago Exchange.

Denver Bars 15 Frosh; Proselyting Is Charged

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter, of Denver University, said today fifteen Salt Lake City, Utah, high school athletes who enrolled in Denver University last week had been refused admission because their enrollment constituted a "clear case of proselyting by the Denver Alumni Chapter of Phi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity."

Chancellor Hunter's announcement was made after an investigation of the situation was asked by Dr. George Thomas, president of the University of Utah. The investigation disclosed the proselyting was accomplished without the knowledge of University of Denver officials, Chancellor Hunter said.

E. J. McCormack, president of the Beta Pi Alumni Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, Denver, took the entire responsibility for inducing the Utah athletes to come to Colorado.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IS CLOSE TO 70,000

MARK TO BE INCREASED

Washington public schools opened yesterday with a record first-day attendance of 69,946, an enrollment of 2,525 more pupils than on the first day last year. Of this number, 47,392 were enrolled in white schools and 22,554 in colored.

These figures were obtained by telephone from various school principals yesterday afternoon at the office of O. D. Strayer, District school statistician. The record enrollment is expected to be swelled by several thousand in the next few days when tardy pupils return. Fully 75,000 are expected to be enrolled before school activities get into full swing.

Unprecedented records are predicted for high schools such as Central and McKinley. Figures for individual schools will not be released until enrollment for the year is completed. During the school year from September, 1929 until June, 1930, a total of 81,581 students was enrolled in Capital public schools. These figures are expected to be exceeded by many thousands in the ensuing school year.

The first day of school went off without a hitch, according to reports received by school officials at the Franklin Building. No complaints of a serious nature were made by parents, teachers or students. Superintendent Frank W. Ballou and other officials were able to proceed with pressing duties without interruption.

The big task of teaching the record number of children will be undertaken by approximately 2,700 teachers. More room is being given pupils through additions at the Buchanan and Park View Schools and a good eight-room colored school in Southwest Washington. The old Abbott vocational school at Fifth street and New York avenue northwest has been abandoned, and classes have been transferred to the Columbia Junior High Building at Seventh and O streets northwest.

All kindergartens are assured of remaining open until October 14. If a good average daily attendance is not shown by this time, classes with a low attendance will be closed and teachers transferred to fill vacancies in the first four grades of elementary schools.

Due to the fact that several members of the Board of Education are not in the city, the board will not meet tomorrow. The next meeting is slated for Wednesday, October 1.

Estranged Pair Breaks Store Window in Fight

Meeting in front of a store at 1219 G stret northwest yesterday morning, an estranged husband and wife engaged in fisticuffs which resulted in the breaking of a large plate glass window. A crowd of nearly 100 spectators was dispersed when the emergency wagon from the First Precinct arrived on the scene.

Charges of assault and disorderly conduct were preferred against the husband, Anthony Calista, of Childress street near Holbrook northeaht. His wife, who lives on Massachusetts avenue near Thirteenth street, was charged with disorderly conduct. Both were released under bond for their appearance in Police Court today.

Man Heat Victim As Summer Ends

Temperature Reaches 93; Today Is First Day of Autumn.

The official lat day of one of the hottest summers recorded here in many years brought a maximum temperature of 93 degrees, and one heat prostration. Albert Smith, 72-year-old inmate of the Soldiers' Home, collapsed at Ninth and D strets northwest early in the afternoon, and was taken to Emergency Hospital in a serious condition.

Autumn officially arrived in Washington ata 1:38 a. m. today, according to the Weather Bureau.

At 4 p. m. yesterday the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk registered an even 100 degrees, but the official temperature reading at the same hour was 93. The day's high humidity reading was 31 degrees.

The murcury sank steadily toward evening, and at 10 o'clock last night stood at 86. The fact that today will be autumn, while yesterday was summer, will make little difference in the temperature, the Bureau reported.

Restaurant Watchman Found Badl yStabbed

Eng Fat, night watchman for the Lotus restaurant, on Fourteenth street near New York avenue northwest, was found in the restaurant early yesterday morning in a dazed condition. Examination showed that he had twelve stab wounds on his head and one on his mouth.

Asserting that he was attacked by a group of young white boys about 2 o'clock in the morning, Eng told police he did not know how they gained entrance, nor did he know any reason for the attack. His condition is not regarded as serious, though he went without medical attention for four hours. After being treated at Emergency Hospital he was taken to his home, on Fifteenth street near M street northwest.

Elevation at thousand-foot intervals is being added to road signs in California.

A Certainty—Instead of a Speculation

Few things are more annoying to the "manager of the home" than erratic ice service. Regular delivery by the American Ice Company is a certainty—not a speculation. That is perhaps why American has so many enthusiastic friends among women who direct their homes efficiently.

Every day—at the same hour—almost at the same minute—a member of the American delivery corps appears cheerfully with his block of sparkling, diamond-clear ice. No need to wait and wonder, to fret and fume, when American knows your ice requirements. You can be certain—no matter what the weather—of a regular supply of this pure, transparent ice.

RUSS WHEAT SALES TROUBLING BRITISH

Record Postwar Offerings Cause Prices to Reach Very Low Levels.

EXPERTS' REVIEW CITED

London, Sept. 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Heavy offerings of Russian wheat again featured today's trading in Liverpool and on the Baltic exchange here. Opening prices at Liverpool sagged considerably later in the day and this afternoon the market there continued depressed on cheap and free offers of Russian wheat. There is fear that Russian supplies will continue to be offered and that the downward price trend will continue.

S. Gampbell, one of the best known grain trade authorities in the City of London, said in an interview here today that last week Russia shipped 346,000 quarters of wheat (2,856,576 bushels) from Black Sea ports.

"This is a post war record," he declared. "The ports of destination of this wheat are not known. Of this amount only 14,000 quarters (115,584 bushels) has a specified distination—57,792 bushels to Italy and 5 similar amount to Greece. The balance was shipped 'for orders'—that is the vessel carrying it receiving instructions as to the port of destination by wireless.

Gain Equals Canadian Acreage.

"Assisted by a mild winter in the area under grain cultivation Russia this year harvested about 154,000,000 acres against 134,000,000 last year—an increase approximately equal to the total Canadian wheat acreage."

Fear of even greater competition from Russian wheat in future as the country approaches pre war production figures was indicated by Mr. Gampbell when he continued:

"Although shipments from Russia to all places this year are a postwar record, it is very significant that they are still only a fraction of prewar shipments. Russian prewar official statistics show an average shipment of all grain of 54,000,000 quarters (445,824,000 bushels) per annum in each of the years from 1909 to 1913, inclusive. At most, shipments this year will be only a third to a quarter of that amount."

Canada's Acreage Doubled.

He then pointed out that after Turkey's entrance into the war, cutting off Europe from Russian grain supplies, Canada doubled her wheat acreage by 1921 as compared with 1913. In the latter year it was a little more than 10,000,000 acres and by 1921 the figure rose to more than 21,500,000 acres.

"The recovery of Russia to anything like her prewar position as a grain exporter," Mr. Gampbell concluded, "is a most serious thing for Canada, particularly because the qualities of Canadian and Russian wheat are very much alike. The prairie producing provinces of Canada and the black earth regions of southern Russia are the only two large areas in the world with that type of soil and the wheat produced there is of exceptional quality. It is a hard type especially suitable for mixing with the softer wheats of Europe."

(Copyright, 1930.)

Situation Seen As Acute.

London, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The position of the British wheat industry, which experts say has been badly hit by price cutting and alleged dumping on the part of Russian dealers, became even more acute today.

"Although things have been terribly bad for a week or so, it was not until today that the bottom was knocked right out of prices," said a leading member of the Corn Exchange. "Probably never before has the situation been so grave for the British and the Dominion's farmers."

An official of the Corn Exchange said that "in all the years I have been on the exchange I can not remember such a terrible situation in the grain industry." This official asserted quotations on the Liverpool and Baltic exchanges had reached ridiculously low levels.

"Grain planted, grown and reaped by serfs under the Soviet government is easy to sell at a much lower level than the price of British merchants," he concluded.

Gas Company Testing Appliances in Survey

The Washington Gas Light Co. is making a house-to-house survey of gas equipment in order to prepare for the advent of natural gas about the first of the year and the increased load which the company expects as a result of its proposed reduced rates.

Fifty men are engaged in making this survey, which takes in the entire District of Columbia. The efficiency of the gas appliances already in use will be tested and the size of the service pipes ascertained. If the capacity of the latter is insufficient to allow the gas appliances to function at their highest rate of efficiency—as sometimes happens when more gas appliances are used than the pipes were originally planned for—new service pipes will be installed, free of charge, by the company.

LEGGE BACKS HYDE IN GRAIN PRICE QUIZ

ALIBI, STATES CARAWAY

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, yesterday joined Secretary of Agriculture Hyde in blaming Russia for the decline in the price of American wheat.

The action of the Russians in selling wheat short in Chicago, Chairman Legge, said, undoubtedly contributed to the fall in the price of American wheat. But to just what extent it contributed, he said, was not yet certain.

On one point, Chairman Legge differed from Secretary Hyde, and that was with respect to the amount of wheat Russia has for export. According to information obtained by the farm board, Mr. Legge said, the amount of exportable wheat Russia will have this year is about 48,000,000 bushels.

Legge urged the farmers to purchase wheat now at a low price, and to use it as a livestock feed.

Would End Excitement.

"Then," he said, "there would be an end to all this excitement. There would be no wheat for sale."

Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican), of New York, chairman of the House committee that is investigating Communist activities in this country, yesterday announced that the representatives of three New York brokerage houses will be subpenaed to testify before the committee at a hearing in New York Saturday.

Officials of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate, which has been carrying on the wheat operations in this country, also will be summoned before the committee, Representative Fish said.

The committee, he said, will seek to determine just how much wheat Russia has sold on short orders in this country. After the New York hearing, he said, the committee will move on to Chicago and resume its investigation there.

Congress May Be Told.

The net result of the investigation by Fish's committee probably will be a formal report to Congress in December. Fish himself admitted this. The Russians have violated no law in selling wheat short, he declared, but simply have followed a practice that is common in such dealings.

Whether the Chicago Board of Trade is guilty of violating the grain futures act in allowing the short selling, the committee will seek to determine when it reaches Chicago.

Senator Caraway (Democrat) of Arkansas, yesterday charged that the Republican administration, in making the charges against Russia, simply is "dragging a red herring across the trail and attempting to provide an alibi for the Farm Board's failure to bolster the price of wheat."

Why, he asked, should Russia attempt to depress the price of wheat when she is in the business of selling wheat?

LAMONT SEES HALT IN TRADE DECLINE

Heavy Buying by Retailers Expected by Secretary, Citing Low Stocks.

RAW MATERIALS ACTIVE

(Associated Press.)

A silver lining in the clouds of business depression that have hovered over the United States in recent months was discerned yesterday by Secretary Lamont.

"It is perfectly clear," the Commerce Secretary said in a statement, "that business on the whole has ceased a marked decline which was characteristic of a number of earlier months and there are some distinctly encouraging features."

Mr. Lamont added that the most encouraging signs were the growth of export trade as revealed by August statistics and the distinct increase in retail trade in this country.

"The increase of exports during August," he said, "was more than is customary at this season. The gain already manifested in retail trade is more than usually occurs at this season. Moreover, the stocks of retail stores are exceptionally low and there is good reason to believe that their purchases from manufacturers and wholesalers will increase materially."

Mr. Lamont added that business men already are buying raw materials far ahead of the current consumption and that this was a natural reaction to the present low level of commodity prices. The Government, the Secretary said, is not responsible for the extra buying.

"Every good executive," he explained, "knows more about his business than any one else possibly can know, and sound business men do not have to be told that a low peak in commodity prices represents a signal for intelligent buying."

Key Bridge Traffic Held Up by Road Repairing

TWO HELD IN DEATH OF RAIL DETECTIVE

Virginia Prisoners Are Said to Have Confessed They Slew Clements.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—A grand jury in the October term of Chesterfield Circuit Court will consider charges of murder against Robert Morgan, 28 years old, alias Oscar Beadenbaugh, and William Foye, 18, both Negroes, who were held today following a preliminary hearing in connection with the slaying of L. B. Clements, Atlantic Coast Line detective, near Petersburg, on September 2.

Morgan was identified today as Oscar Beadenbaugh, of Henrico County, by John A. Archer, forest warden, and J. B. Lyne, deputy sheriff of Henrico County. The Negro admitted his identity.

Morgan was arrested in Charleston, S. C., and was brought back to Virginia Saturday night. Capt. J. A. Dorsey, chief of Atlantic Coast Line detectives, said the Negro confessed to the slaying of Clements.

Foye has been held following his arrest shortly after the body of Clements was found alongside railroad tracks near Petersburg. Officers said he confessed to slaying Clements several days after he was arrested. Since then Foye is quoted as saying he confessed in order to give Beadenbaugh time to escape.

Officers also stated that Beadenbaugh confessed to the slaying of W. W. Smith, another Atlantic Coast Line detective, in Fayetteville, N. C., on August 27.

Richmond police were seeking to connect the Negro with the slaying of C. C. Morey, bus driver, at Richmond, on March 1.

State penitentiary officials said today Beadenbaugh is an escaped convict. He was said to have been sentenced to five years on the road force by a Richmond court on July 5, 1927, for "malicious shooting" and that he escaped from a road camp in Bland County on July 2, 1929.

The preliminary hearing today was held before Judge John W. Snead, Chesterfield County trial judge.

Father Dies in Fire With 17 Months Child

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 22.—Esco Arnett, 29, colored, and his 17-month-old infant were burned in a fire which destroyed their home on Timberlake road, 2 miles from Lynchburg, early this morning.

The man's widow told firemen that he came home intoxicated and that she left after they had a short quarrel. She went next door to pass the remainder of the night with a relative. The baby was left sleeping in the house with the husband.

HARMONY MEETING CALLED AT NORBECK

Montgomery County Chiefs Invite Antis to Forget Primary Trouble.

RITCHIE-LEWIS TO SPEAK

Montgomery County's Democracy Thursday night will attempt to heal its wounds and achieve harmony within its ranks at a meeting in the Manor Club at Norbeck. Antiorganization leaders, candidates and workers have received invitations to attend the meeting and to "forget and forgive."

Some of Maryland's most prominent Democrats will be present at the meeting. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and David J. Lewis, former representative, who is seeking to oust Representative Fred Zihlman, Republican, will share honors as principal speakers.

David Winebrenner 3d, Maryland's secretary of State and political leader of Frederick County; U. S. Senator Millard Tydings, Maj. E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County Democratic leader and present speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, as well as other prominent Democrats will be included on the speaking program.

Maj. Lee yesterday was frankly optimistic of the healing the rupture between organization and antiorganization Democrats. He declared that it probably will be true that a few of the anti's will join with the Republican forces, but most of them would remember that they are still Democrats when the crucial test comes, he added.

Plans for securing registration of all Democrats who have not registered heretofore in the county and other moves calculated to advance the cause of democrarcy in the county will be discussed at the meeting.

Berry E. Clark, newly elected chairman of the Democratic State central committee for Montgomery County, probably will preside at the meeting, which is being held under joint auspices of the State central committee and the candidates committee, of which Stedman Prescott, Democratic candidate for State's attorney, is chairman.

Woman Suffers Hurts As Cab and Car Collide

Miss Alice Lamserti, of 1833 New Hampshire avenue northwest, suffered a sprained back and body bruises late yesterday afternoon when a cab in which she was a passenger overturned at Nineteenth and M streets northwest, after colliding with a car driven by Alex W. Dickerson, of 1012 B street northeast. Neither Dickerson nor the cab driver, Harry J. Knott, of Capital Heights, Md., was injured. Both machines were badly damaged.

Miss Lamserti was sent to her home after receiving treatment at Emergency Hospital. No arrests were made.

Official Resigns Hagerstown Post

Quits as Inquiry Shows He Saved City $12,000 in Violating Charter.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Sept. 22.—William L. Middlekauff, president of the board of street commissioners of Hagerstown, today handed his resignation to Mayor Reuben Musey. His action followed the report of an investigating committee, headed by J. Vincent Jamison and named by Mayor Musey to investigate charges that Middlekauff received approximately $1,400 in addition to his regular salary in violation of the city charter.

Middlekauff admitted upon the stand when appearing before the committee that he had received that amount for supervision of the installing of a boiler at the new light plant and other work and the committee held that while he violated the city charter he had saved the city approximately $12,000 and that the work was a real public service.

Middlekauff has served on the street board for eighteen years under both Democratic and Republican administrations. In his letter of resignation he said that he had refused to take any action until the investigation was completed and that he felt that the committee had exonerated him.

Leesburg U. D. C. Delegates Named

Middleburg and Blue Ridge Chapters Also Elect.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 22.—Loudoun Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Leesburg, has elected the following delegates and alternates to the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Virginia Division to be held at Staunton, September 30 to October 3, inclusive:

Littlejohn, Mrs. C. A. Shryock, Miss Virginia Aldridge, Mrs. Maude E. Galleher, Mrs. Alice Pleasants, Mrs. E. P. Jackson.

Blue Ridge Chapter, Purcellville, has elected Miss Maria Copeland delegate.

Middleburg Chapter has appointed as delegates Mrs. S. Preston Luck, Miss Anne Lee Duffey and Mrs. Dan Smith.

Mrs. Magnus S. Thompson, of Leesburg, also is chairman of nominations for Virginia Division, U. D. C.

Mrs. J. M. Beckenbaugh Dead in Shepherdstown

Special to The Washintgon Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Sept. 22.—Nannie C. Beckenbaugh, widow of Dr. John M. Beckenbaugh, who died over 50 years ago, died here Saturday after a short illness. She lived with her brother, the late Gen. Henry Kyd Douglas in Maryland, for some years, but after his death moved here. The body was taken to the home of a son, John Kyd Douglas near Sharpsburg, Md.

She is also survived by three grandsons, Henry Douglas Cotton, Baltimore, Md.; Dudley Page Cotton, New York City and John Howard Beckenbaugh, Washington. She came of one of the most distinguished families of this section. Funeral services will be held from Trinity Episcopal Church here Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stock Interred in Woodbury

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodbury, Pa., Sept. 22.—Funeral services were held yesterday at the Lutheran Church here for Mrs. Elizabeth Stock, native of Frederick, Md., who died in the house here in which she lived 75 years, at the age of 97. Last January she received injuries in a fall which hastened her death. On Christmas day, 1852, she married Michael Frederick Stock. He was a cabinetmaker and after living at Salesville and Baker's Summit, Pa., they settled at Woodbury 75 years ago. She was the mother of fourteen children, five living. They are Dr. Jacob F. Stock, Woodbury, who is 76; Frederick, of Illinois; Robert, of Pittsburgh; George, of Martinsburg, and Miss Christine Stock, of Woodbury.

Mrs. Stock took an interest in political affairs and always voted. Last year she voted for her son, who holds a local office. Last November, she motored to Pittsburgh to spend Thanksgiving with her son there.

Twin-County W.C.T.U. Elects Mrs. Willison

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Charles C. Willison, this city, was elected president at the annual meeting of the bicounty convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Allegany and Garret Counties, held at Frostburg.

Other officers chosen were: Mrs. Andrew MacGannis, Frostburg, and Mrs. Ellen Lytle, Friendsville, vice presidents; Mrs. J. E. Utt, Cumberland, recording secretary; Mrs. Ernest W. Yates, Cumberland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jabez Mealling, Frostburg, treasurer; Mrs. William H. Gatehouse, Cumberland, director of evangelistic and jail work, and Mrs. Charles R. Morrison, Cumberland, director of flower, mission and relief work.

COUNTY DROPS CASE AGAINST POLICEMAN

Three Friends Also Freed in Prince Georges After Raid on Home.

HOME FOR BABY SOUGHT

Charges of disorderly conduct against four persons which arose from a raid on the home of Howard Dove, town policeman, of Mount Rainier, July 12 were dismissed last night by Justice of the Peace Hugh O'Neill, of Bladensburg. Judge O'Neill held that the prosecution had no case of disorderly conduct against the policeman and his companions.

The Dove home was raided by Chief of Police Eugene Plumer and town police after Mayor John Beall had issued an ultimatum to the police to clean up the town or get out. Policeman Dove, George Buckholtz, former chief of police of the town; Leonard Pitkin, father-in-law of Dove, and Amos Norton were charged with disorderly conduct.

The defense claimed that the party in progress was a birthday party and that there was no undue amount of noise. Former State's Attorney J. Wilson Ryon defended the men.

A charge of illegal possession of 106 bottles of alleged home brew seized by the police is pending against Mr. Pitkin in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court and is scheduled to be heard during the October term.

Details of a questionnaire on county matters which is to be presented to Republican and Democratic candidates will be discussed at a special meeting of the Prince Georges County Municipal Officials Association Thursday night in the Municipal Hall at Hyattsville.

The questionnaire will embrace a number of county problems, such as policing, relationship between town and county and such questions as are considered necessary of settling. The candidates will be asked to take a definite stand on each question and to answer clearly and without evasion. The answers will be published and studied by members of the association.

The association is composed of officials of the various towns of the county and was organized recently for the purpose of improving the relations between the various towns and the county.

Prince Georges County social service workers are anxious to find a home for a 5-week-old foundling girl who was left on a doorstep at Beltsville four weeks ago, it was announced yesterday by Miss Agnes Duvall, county social worker.

The baby is declared to be "perfectly adorable" by the nurses and social workers and they are anxious that the infant should have a home which would provide the proper facilities and include a large quantity of love, Miss Duvall said. The baby is being cared for by Mrs. Speakes, at 3003 Baker street, Brentwood, Md., where the infant may be seen by prospective foster parents.

A meeting of the Prince Georges County Fire Rescue Squad will be held Friday evening at the Bladensburg Fire House. Chief Andrew Gasch, who recently was elected following the resignation of Chief H. L. Leonard, will preside.

Death Imminent For Maj. Stedman

Representative, 89, Grows Weaker and Does Not Know Friends.

Death may be expected almost momentarily for Maj. Charles M. Stedman, representative of the Fifth North Carolina District, and the last surviving Civil War veteran in Congress, it was indicated last night in statements made at Mount Alto Hospital.

While hospital attendants refrained from saying that the 89-year-old legislator was dying, they declared that Maj. Stedman was in a condition regarded as the most critical since entering the hospital two weeks ago after an apoplectic stroke.

After a slight rally several days ago, Maj. Stedman began growing weaker Saturday night, and yesterday failed to recognize friends and attendants.

concede to any individual or group of individuals the right to advocate its retention or repeal by all lawful means.

"As to the obligation of public officials under their oath of office to support and enforce all laws as they may exist, there can be no question. Unless a public official is himself an exemplar respect for law and order must suffer."

"We believe with Washington and Lincoln that the Federal Constitution is a sacred obligation. The Republican party declares its adherence to this great principle and pledges its candidates to sincere observance of the same," was the conclusion.

"We are proud of the record of President Hoover in the national and international fields of statesmanship," said the platform in another section.

MANCHU DICTATOR IS RULER IN PEIPING

Military Coup Executed as Rebel Troops Evacuate Ancient Capital.

ACTING PRESIDENT DIES

though the Manchurian coup was undoubtedly the outgrowth of an understanding with the Nanking Nationalist government, relations of the Mukdenites with the Northern regime they are driving out are apparently of the most friendly nature. The Manchurians are advancing cautiously, dispatches said, obviously seeking to avoid a conflict.

Amity Is Conference Aim.

Conferences among Wang Ching-Wei, Yen Hsi-Shan and other leaders of the Peiping government resulted in a decision to maintain the friendliest relations with Chang Hsueh-Liang, while still holding fast their purpose of ultimate overthrow of President Chang Kai-Shek's Nanking regime, the dispatches said.

While Muken professes to be seeking unification of China, Japanese dispatches indicate that the coup actually establishes three major divisions, with Nanking the center, Yen Feng in the west, and Mukden in the north, with a buffer province of Shantung in the middle, where generals have had shadowy changing allegiances.

The Mukdenite occupation solves the vexed problem of the Tientsin question, which during the overlordship of Yen Hsi Shan was divorced from the national customs administration. B. Lenox Simpson, alias Putnam Weale, a British novelist, had been placed in control of the administration. Col. Hayley Bell, former commissioner under Nanking, has resumed control.

Customs Staff Returns.

Tientsin, China, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—There have been no further developments this evening in the evacuation before advancing Manchurian troops.

The maritime customs office regular staff is returning homeward after a meeting held in the Customs Club this forenoon, but is understood to be awaiting further orders before resuming duties. Meanwhile native customs officers are taking the place of regulars.

A brigade of Fengtienites departed for Peiping this forenoon. Two more brigades now in Tientsin are expected to depart tomorrow. Their journey has been interrupted on the Pukow Railway, where it is understood that a bridge near Tsangchow has been blown up by the Parshanites owing to a misunderstanding.

Acting President Expires.

Nanking, China, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The death was announced here today of Gen. Tan Yen-Kai, acting president of the national government of China in the absence of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, on the battle front.

Gen. Tan Yen-Kai was one of the most prominent figures in the national government. He was a member of the executive committee of the Kuomintang and was as well known for his efforts in the interest of civic and educational advancement in China as for his military accomplishments.

Gen. Tan Yen-Kai was one of seven ministers who took office in the Nanking government on September 20, 1927.

Was Able Executive.

The Nationalist government was founded as a union of all the anti-Communist forces within the Kuomtang party. When the Nationalists picked Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek as president, Tan Yen-Kai was one of his ablest lieutenants, who had the confidence of the foreign population and whose rapid military advances were received with encouragement, particularly by the officers of the Yale in China Mission and College.

Gen. Tan Yen-Kai in 1928 became an administrative member of the state council, and in December, 1929, was reported succeeding Chiang as provisional president.

He took charge of an immense project in January of this year to prevent a recurrence of famine and to provision large areas in which famine deaths were increasing.

Army Ace Injured In Motor Mishap

Capt. Hunter's Car Plunges From Road; Woman Companion Hurt.

Capt. F. O. B. Hunter, A. E. F. ace, and now attached to Bolling Field, is in a serious condition at Walter Reed Hospital, suffering from the effects of an automobile accident.

Mrs. Matthew Finn, of the Caravel Apartments, who was with Capt. Hunter, escaped with minor bruises and cuts. She is at her home.

According to reports, Capt. Hunter, who was to have stunted for the "circus" at the Army War College, was driving his machine on the road to Manassas. He lost control and the automobile ran down a 15-foot embankment, overturning twice.

He was thrown from the wreckage and suffered internal injuries and severe cuts on his head and legs. Both the injured were brought to Walter Reed Hospital in a passing automobile.

5,000 ENROLLMENT FOR SCHOOLS SEEN

OTHER OPENINGS LATER

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With an enrollment of 3,598 pupils, the public schools of Arlington County opened yesterday. The enrollment does not include the pupils of the Junior High School at Washington-Lee as they will not register until today. Indications are that the total enrollment, including the James Monroe School, which does not open until next week, will exceed 5,000.

Classes in the elementary schools will begin today. The pupils entering the seventh and eighth grades at Washington-Lee High School will report this morning for registration at 9 o'clock. All classes at the high school will begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Owing to construction work going on at the building, pupils of the ninth to twelfth grades will attend classes from 8 to 12:20, and the junior classes, the seventh and eighth, from 12:25 to 4:25.

Books at the various schools were distributed to all pupils yesterday and by Wednesday morning Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent, states that studies will be going on.

Promptly at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, Sheriff Howard B. Fields had an officer stationed at all schools fronting on the highways leading into Washington to protect the children in crossing. All officers have been instructed to see that the traffic laws which provide for a speed of 15 miles in passing all school buildings is enforced.

"The county has a record in that during the entire school year of last year there was not a single child struck by an automobile; and I am determined that the lives of the children of this county are protected," Sheriff Fields said.

Chief A. C. Schaffel, of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department, announces that effective immediately two firemen will be detailed in charge of the firehouse and apparatus each night. The officers and members are responding whole-heartedly in favor of the new system which provides a crew on duty each night until 10 o'clock. Early delivery is expected of the new American LaFrance combination pumping engine which the county has ordered for the department.

Recognizing that there exists an emergency as a result of the continued droughs, the county board of supervisors at its meeting held at the courthouse yesterday authorized Engineer C. K. Kinnier to proceed and make all extensions where it is found that 50 per cent or better of the frontage is to be taken care of in the applications for water extension which are now on file.

The extensions, which were authorized by the board, include the following streets: Straford drive, Shelley and Cothran streets, Buena Vista avenue, and a section in Alcova Heights.

Engineer Kinnier reported that he had in his office a number of applications for extensions which showed that from 30 to 45 per cent of the frontage had been signed up. He was instructed by the board to make every effort to have the figure reach 50 per cent or better in order that the extensions could be made.

Chairman Edward Duncan stated that the board will go the limit in providing water to those who need it, provided that they in turn will help to meet the board's requirements which are considered most reasonable in view of the fact that the county will be required to advance the major part of the funds to do the work as a majority of the applications are made on the deferred payment plan.

The board awarded the contract for resurfacing of Wilson boulevard at the center of Clarendon including North Clarendon avenue and Washington street which intersect at that point to the Northern Virginia Construction Co. The accepted bid was $15,954. The two intersecting streets will be improved for a distance of one block. South Clarendon avenue and Garrison road were not included in the contract as they are part of the state highway system.

John H. Olcott, president of the company, announced yesterday that he will start construction work today and will rush the project to completion.

The efforts of the committee from the Arlington District Library headed by Mrs. Mary Lockwood, which appeared at a recent meeting of the board in an effort to have the board provide suitable quarters for the library, was marked with success yesterday when Engineer Kinnier was instructed to proceed in an effort to purchase the adjoining lots to the Clarendon clinic for a library building.

It being brought to the attention of the board by Chairman Duncan that the streets and many homes in Virginia Highlands and vicinity will probably soon be flooded by heavy fall rains as the canal which took care of the situation for more than 42 years has been filled up, the board took immediate action and authorized Engineer Kinnier to proceed with the laying of pipe of sufficient size to take off the water. It was pointed out that it would be necessary to lay pipe for a distance of about 450 feet and inasmuch as the surveys have been made there will be no delay in the work. Chairman Duncan stated that the sewer will be in the nature of a storm sewer.

With the continued increased traffic on the highways of the county, Sheriff Fields appeared before the board and asked that an ordinance be drafted regulating the buses in the county. The ordinance would give the sheriff the authority to designate bus stops, enforce their use and to prohibit the public from using such bus stops as parking places.

The board, recognizing the request of the sheriff, instructed Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, Engineer C. L. Kinnier and the sheriff to meet and draft such an ordinance.

Continuing Sheriff Fields pointed out to the board that the General Assembly of Virginia has passed a law providing for a speed limit of 15 miles in passing school buildings asked that signs be erected in the vicinity of all school buildings.

The engineer was authorized to have traffic signs erected at all schools.

According to a statement given out last night by Chairman Duncan, of the board of supervisors of Arlington County, the American Oil Co., which at a recent meeting of the board had made application for a permit to lay three six-inch pipelines to pump oil from the river, where it was planned to construct a wharf to their plant in the lower part of Rosslyn, have withdrawn their application for a permit for the pipeline.

In making the statement, Mr. Duncan stated that he conferred with a representative of the company yesterday at the courthouse, the application was left on the desk of the engineer and it appears to him that the matter has been dropped.

The State highway commission will hold hearings at Orange, Va., on November 11 on the allocations of mileage added to the State highway system by the last General Assembly, according to a letter from the State highway commission received last night by Arthur Orr, president of the Straight-to-the-Bridge Boulevard Association.

Under the act of the Assembly, Arlington County will receive eight additional miles of State highway, one-half of which is to be allocated at the Orange meeting next month. Mr. Orr stated that while it is generally understood in Arlington County that the new mileage is to be applied toward the completion of the straight-to-the-bridge road, his organization will be represented at the meeting in November of the State highway commission to make a formal request for such allocation.

Under previous allocations of State highway mileage in the county the Lee boulevard was taken over together with 2.2-10 miles of the straight-to-the-bridge road beginning at Porter woods extending westward through Clarendon and Ballston. Approximately 2 miles more are needed to complete that road.

The John Marshall Highway Association has adopted the straight-to-the-bridge route as the Arlington County link of the memorial road to the former Chief Justice John Marshall which is being planned to extend from the National Capital to the northern entrance to the Shenandoah National Park at Front Royal, Va., passing the old home of John Marshall.

"In view of the recent statement of Capt. Chisholm, engineer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission," said Mr. Orr, "that the John Marshall highway should be completed in time for the 1932 celebration of the birth of George Washington, it may be regarded as a foregone conclusion that the State Highway Commission will allocate the necessary mileage to complete the road across Arlington County."

According to an announcement made yesterday by Claude O. Thomas, secretary to the Arlington County electoral board, all registrars will sit at the several voting precincts Saturday, October 3, from sunrise to sunset, to register all persons otherwise qualified to vote in the general election to be held Tuesday, November 4.

Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, registrar for Ballston, announced last night that she will sit at the Ballston firehouse on the above-mentioned day to register all qualified voters.

The Arlington Volunteer Fire Department and Ladies Auxiliary held a surprise shower last night in honor of the recent wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Schaffal, at their residence on Glebe road, near Columbia pike. Mrs. Schaffel is an active member of the auxiliary, while Mr. Schaffel is a past vice president of both the local department and the Arlington-Fairfax Counties Volunteer Firemen's Associations. Mr. Schaffel has also served the local department as its secretary-treasurer for four years.

The Lyon Village Citizens Association will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the home of J. C. Buchanan, 100 North Spruce street, Lyon Village. The principal question which will be discussed will be the proposed change in the county form of government.

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit, No. 139, will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at Clarendon.

Benjamin Briggman, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas, yesterday. His bond was fixed at $500.

Bartholomew J. Lenihan, 64 years old, a resident of Arlington County for more than five years, died from a sudden heart attack yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at his home, 1310 Buena Vista avenue, Clarendon. He is survived by his wife.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. W. H. Doerner

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 22.—Funeral services were held this morning from SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church for Mrs. Mary L. Doerner, aged 76, wife of William H. Doerner, retired business man. Burial was in the church cemetery. Pallbearers were Michael D. Reinhart, F. H. Doerner, George W. Hartman, Francis J. Glick, Peter Fraley and J. Francis Habig.

Mrs. Doerner was a daughter of the late Henry and Catherine Firlie. Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Wyand F. Doerner, and three daughters, Miss Mary Lou Doerner, Mrs. Theckla D. Price, this city, and E. E. Durbin, New Castle, Pa. She also leaves one brother, John H. Firlie, Pittsburgh, and one sister, Sister M. Lucy Firlie, of the Visitation Order, Roland Park, Baltimore.

M. J. Marques Chosen Deputy Wills Register

Melvin J. Marques, appraiser in the office of the register of wills, yesterday was appointed deputy register of wills by Theodore Cogswell, register, to fill the vacancy caused by the death last week of John A. Shiel.

Mr. Marques, who is 27 years old, has been connected with the office of register of wills for the last eleven years. He is a graduate of Business High School, and also of a local school of accountancy.

KINCHELOE IS NAMED TO CUSTOMS COURT

LONG TIME IN CONGRESS

Representative David H. Kincheloe (Democrat), of Kentucky, for sixteen years a member of the House, has been selected by President Hoover as an associate justice of the United States Customs Court, it was learned yesterday.

The appointment, which is for life, is expected to be announced at the White House today.

Kincheloe will succeed George E. Weller, who recently resigned after serving on the customs tribunal for eleven years.

The Kentuckian came to know President Hoover while the farm relief legislation was being considered in the House. He was a member of the committee on agriculture, which handled the legislation, and was frequently called to the White House for conferences with the President.

Kincheloe was born on a farm in McLean County, Ky., April 9, 1877. He attended Valparaiso University and Bowling Green College. He read law at Calhoun, Ky., and was admitted to the bar in May, 1899. His first political job was that of prosecuting attorney of McLean County, a post he held for four years. He was elected to the Sixty-fourth Congress and to every subsequent one.

As a justice of the United States Customs Court, Mr. Kincheloe will receive a salary of $10,000 a year, the same salary he now receives as a member of the House. The court holds its sessions in New York City, although under the law it may sit in any part of the country.

Charwoman Stabbed for Love of Another, Is Police Theory.

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The story of how Michael Jakubiak had lived on wages earned by his wife as a charwoman and at the same time had courted another woman was unfolded tonight when police said that they obtained his confession that he had slain his wife.

Jakubiak admitted in the presence of his four children that he had slashed his wife to death last Wednesday night as she was returning from her nightly scrubbing of floors in a downtown skyscraper. He said he did so because his daughters told him that his wife was untrue to him.

The confession came today after Mrs. Otto Jeffers told her husband that Jakubiak had made love to her and had proposed that they kill her husband and Mrs. Jakubiak so they might live together. Jeffers communicated this information to detectives.

President Ayora Blames Communists in Spread of Reports.

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—President Ayora, of Ecuador, in an interview granted the Associated Press correspondent tonight, blamed Communist circles for spreading rumors in other countries about an alleged revolutionary movement here. The president said the situation in Ecuador is politically normal, but that the Communists had hoped to start a revolution.

The only matter troubling the government is a strike among students of the Colegio Nacional. President Ayora said there was no reason why student demonstrations against university authorities should be taken as indicating political disturbance.

At Guayaquil, the provincial authorities issued a statement that they would allow a period of 48 hours for the solution of differences between the professors and the students of the Colegio Nacional. If they have not agreed at the end of that time the university will be closed.

KWKH Attorneys File Suit for Fee

Saved Frequency for Station of Henderson and Are Unpaid, Claim.

W. K. Henderson, of Shreveport, La., who operates Station KWKH, was sued yesterday in District Supreme Court by attorneys who represented him before the Federal Radio Commission.

The attorneys, William J. Jamieson and Herbert S. Ward, tell the court that Henderson employed them to defend him and his station before the commission and that they did so successfully, but never have been able to collect all of their fee.

According to the declaration of the attorneys Henderson was threatened with a loss of his station's frequency, but, due to their efforts, he was enabled to keep it. The attorneys state they asked a $2,250 fee and that Henderson paid them only $250.

Henderson's station has long been a storm center on the air, and the Radio Commission announces that many complaints have been filed against it. Henderson came into the limelight several years ago by his exploration of public officials through the ether.

Omaha Welcomes Delegate of Pope

Civic Greeting Extended When Eucharistic Sessions Open.

Omaha, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Amid scenes of splendor and a riot of color, Omaha tonight formally welcomed to the city the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Archbishop of Diocles and apostolic delegate to the United States, at the opening meeting of the National Eucharistic Congress.

The official welcome of the State and city was a civic affair and the spacious Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum was packed when the apostolic delegate arrived.

Gov. Arthur J. Weaver and Mayor Richard L. Metcalf were among the welcoming speakers. In response, Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi extended greetings of the Priests Eucharistic League. Appreciation of the welcome also was voiced by the Right Rev. Joseph Schrembs, of Cleveland, protector of the league.

Tomorrow Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi will celebrate a solemn pontifical votive mass.

COVENANT REVISION DEBATED BY LEAGUE

moral force, into the covenant will destroy the possibilities which lie in this instrument for employing or threatening to employ physical force to coerce a recalcitrant country. Others put their trust only in the moral influence of pacific pacts and are resisting efforts to put more teeth into the covenant while embodying in it the principle of the Kellogg agreement.

Portugal and Japan voiced the sentiment today that the idea of amending the covenant might not be entirely desirable. Japan asserted, indeed, that the assembly had not committed itself to revise the league's charter and that this principle remained to be determined.

The Austrian Delegate Hoffinger, however, expressed the belief the assembly has been committed to the task of embodying the pact in the covenant.

He supported the proposed amendments and agreed with the French that, in addition to denunciation of warlike action, the League Council should be given powers to assure respect for juridical or arbitrational awards.

British support of the proposed revision of the covenant has recently been weakened in effect by foreign Secretary Henderson's announcement that his country's ratification would be dependent on the conclusion of a general disarmament treaty.

With the airing of these attitudes toward revision today, hopes for a quick closing up of the gap in the covenant became feebler.

In another direction a change in the proposed amendments was informally agreed upon as of value in conciliating American opinion.

This agreement is that the proposed amendment providing that the council may in the case of certain disputes ask the world court to give an advisory opinion shall be eliminated.

The reconciliation of M. Nicholas Politis, of Greece, and Senator Orestes Ferrara, of Cuba, who had warm words last week over Cuba's opposition to the immediate enactment of the protocol for revision of the world court statutes, was greeted by the assembly with satisfaction.

M. Politis expressed regret if anything he said had wounded the feelings of Cuba or her representative. He explained that he had been concerned lest Cuba's position tend to render difficult the entry of the United States into the world court.

Senor Ferrara expressed appreciation of this explanation and said his country was anxious to facilitate America's entry.

The result of this friendly exchange was a more cordial frame of mind in Cuban quarters, which may bear fruit later. But the Cuban opposition to entry into force immediately of the revision protocol remains superficially unchanged.

England's Newest Princess To Become Margaret Rose

London, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—All Scotland is rejoicing because of the official announcement that the infant daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York is to be christened Margaret Rose.

Ever since the youngest member of the royal family was born, August 21, the Scotch people had been hoping she would receive some name reminding of her birth in Glamis Castle and her mother's Scotish nationality. Of all such names they chiefly hoped for Margaret, since it is intimately entwined with the whole history of Scotland.

The second name, Rose, was wholly unexpected and experts are wracking their brains to discover whether it has ever been borne by a member of the British royal family. The man in the street, however, is content to know that it forms a perfect combination with the first name Margaret and that it is being given to the infant as a tribute to the duchess' much-beloved and beautiful sister, Lady Rose Leveson-Gower (pronounced "Looson-Gore").

The little girl will be christened in Buckingham Palace early next month, and she will then become "her royal highness, Princess Margaret Rose of York."

Margaret, the eldest daughter of King Henry VII of England, was one of the famous "Margarets" of Scotland, she lived between 1489 and 1541, and married James IV of Scotland.

Another Margaret, notable in Scottish history, was the "Maid of Norway," titular Queen of Scotland, who died at the age of 17. She was the daughter of King Eric II of Norway and of his queen, another Margaret, daughter of King Alexander III of Scotland.

St. Margaret, who was the wife of Malcolm III, King of Scotland, was canonized several years after her death.

Selection of the name these two women had borne was made for the little princess after long consultations between the duke and duchess, King George and Queen Mary and the Lord and Lady of Strathmore.

Youth Today Seen Sound in Morals

J. Elmer Morgan Assures Parent-Teachers of High Attitude.

Swampscott, Mass., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—There has been no deterioration of the moral code of young people in recent years, J. Elmer Morgan, of Washington, chairman of publications, said today at the semiannual meeting here of the National Parent-Teacher Association Board of Managers.

"The attitude of the mass has never been so sound before," said Mr. Morgan. "That is the general feeling of the whole association."

The board decided to hold the national convention of the association at Hot Springs, Ark., next May 1 to 10. Mrs. Harry Cohe, of Columbus, Ohio, speaking for the art committee, said she believed great advances had been made in setting up art consciousness in school children through the joint work of parents and teachers.

DIAMOND ARRESTED ON REACHING U. S.

Rothstein's Former Guard Used Freight Ship Returning Home.

WANTS TO VISIT CAPITAL

Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Jack ("Legs") Diamond, notorious New York gangster recently deported from Germany as an undesirable alien, arrived today aboard the freighter Hannover.

Detectives met him and took him to a police station. They said he was picked up on suspicion and would be finger-printed, photographed and questioned. It was planned to give him a hearing tomorrow on the charge of being a suspicious character.

Diamond protested his arrest and insisted that he be permitted to go to Washington.

Arrest Is Protested.

"I haven't done anything wrong," he said. "This is just a lot of newspaper publicity. I was born and raised right here in Philadelphia. Why can't you treat me right?"

The 34-year-old New Yorker, former bodyguard for Arnold Rothstein, the murdered gambler, went to Germany last month with the intention of taking the water cure at a famous spa, but German authorities held that he was an undesirable and ordered his deportation. Several of the big steamship lines declined to accept him as a passenger and finally the police placed him aboard the Hannover, sailing from Hamburg, with a cargo of canary birds.

On the way up the Delaware Diamond told customs officials he didn't want to see any newspapermen. "I'll knock the block off the first one who comes near me," he said.

Newspapers Are Denounced.

"The newspapers," Diamond was quoted as saying, "are interfering with my liberty of movement. The papers have been so hot after me that the American officials abroad went along with the German officials and I got no cooperation from the consulate at all. I'm worried about my wife more than anything else, because of the untrue stories the German papers printed about my being friendly with a cabaret performer. When I was halfway across the ocean I had an offer of $7,800 from the Alcazar, the biggest cabaret in Germany, to appear there. It wasn't enough. I'll go back to Germany later, but just now I'm going to New York."

New York police have expressed a desire to question Diamond on the disappearance of Harry Western, a Catskill innkeeper, whose blood-stained automobile was found in possession of Diamond's henchmen in New York the day the racketeer sailed for Europe. Diamond has denied any knowledge of Western's disappearance.

Kupferman Record Defended by Judge

Attorneys Cite Remarks of Jurist in Reply to Campbell.

Former Representative Isaac Siegel of Siegel & Corn, attorneys for Samuel Kupferman, who is seeking reinstatement in the prohibition service, made the following statement.

"Major Campbell, in his article Thursday, has done Mr. Kupferman a gross injustice. We were the attorneys for Kupferman when his case was tried in 1928, resulting in his acquittal.

"Under date of September 3, 1928, Judge Isaac M. Meekins of North Carolina, who presided here, stated in writing as follows:

"'On the whole case I was a bit doubtful whether I should not direct a verdict of not guilty but finally decided to let the case go to the jury. Within a very short time—ten or twelve minutes—the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and I think very properly. In my opinion, the trial failed to disclose that Kupferman had done anything culpable or reprehensible and I think the civil service commission would do an act of justice to restore his civil service status.'

"Justice Knox, E. C. Yellowly, prohibition administrator at Chicago, formerly of New York; Col. William J. Donovan, former United States attorney, and R. Q. Merrick, prohibition administrator at Richmond, Va., have all testified to their high opinion of Mr. Kupferman's service."

Nine Put on Trial In Alcohol Racket

Subpenas Sent to Justice, Treasury Departments for Permit Data.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Nine men were placed on trial in the Federal district court today, charged with diverting large quantities of industrial alcohol to bootleg channels. Eleven men were indicted in connection with the alleged conspiracy, but two of them have disappeared.

Those placed on trial are Joseph Farrell, president of the Glenwood Distillery, of this city; Louis Lazarus, secretary and treasurer, and David Fitzgerald, one of the directors. The others are George D. Clymer, a former lieutenant of Pennsylvania Railroad detectives; Walter J. Reynolds, assistant yardmaster at Frankford Junction of the railroad; Reese Hannum and Harry J. Wahl, railroad employes, and William F. Croghan and John L. Geiger, former prohibition enforcement agents.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned, and the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice, through Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell, have been subpensed by the defense to furnish certain records in connection with alcohol permits.

Vote Shakes Swedish Cabinet.

Stockholm, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The cabinet's position was severely shaken and a political crisis was threatened by the result of elections to two county councils today. # TUTTLE LAXITY CRITICIZED

tice at Washington. He left me holding the bag.

Says He Had No Axmen.

Mr. Tuttle at least permitted the newspapers to build up a strong public sentiment against "Campbell's axmen." Repeatedly he qualified newspaper interviews on the case with the words: "If there has been destruction of property——"

And Mr. Tuttle showed the true politician's lack of fervor in facing any storm of public sentiment.

I had no axmen. If there was any destruction of property at Chez Helen Morgan it was done after my agents had left the premises.

About this Mr. Tuttle apparently preferred to take the word of his friend, J. Alfred Adler, attorney for the club, against my word. The 25 agents I had there all assured me that Adler's charges were untrue, and though I now know some of the agents were dishonest, I know that others would not lie to me.

Night Club Situation.

But the best evidence that there was no destruction was that all the furnishings which were removed from the club were, contrary to court order and Mr. Tuttle's agreement, returned to the club.

Shortly after I took office in 1927 my attention was called to the very vicious conditions in the night clubs of New York. I decided to take action against them.

I knew from experience that if I relied solely on the national prohibition act the places I raided would be in full operation again the next night. My object was to put them completely out of business. I resolved to use section 3453 of the revised internal revenue laws, which had been used with telling effect in other cities, notably Detroit. Under this it is permitted to seize and remove all property used in connection with the violation and forfeit them to the Government.

Mrs. Willebrandt Approved Plan.

To be sure that I would have the prosecutor's support, I discussed the matter with Mr. Tuttle and his assistant, Mr. Watts. It was decided to consult the Attorney General and get an opinion as to the legality of the procedure. After some weeks Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, approved the plan. Mr. Tuttle and Mr. Watts then gave their approval and agreed to prosecute.

In all this discussion Helen Morgan and her club were never mentioned. We discussed the matter as a proposed action against any night club I might select.

But, as Chez Helen Morgan in West Fifty-fourth street was the most popular club in town I had long since decided to make it my first case. Meanwhile my clever investigators had got into the confidence of Helen Morgan and Arthur Gordoni, manager. Night after night they were with Miss Morgan and Gordoni, and, after the club proper closed for the night (or more properly, morning) they would all go to the barroom upstairs in the rear and continue the merry making.

Bar and Brass Rail Upstairs.

There was plenty of liquor in all this. It was sold just as openly as in the days before the eighteenth amendment. Any one could walk in and buy drinks either in glasses or bottles; and if you wanted to put your foot on the brass rail all you had to do was go upstairs. There was a complete bar.

We had all the evidence I considered necessary and I set the morning of December 30 for the raid. The previous afternoon Mr. Watts came to my office and we discussed the details and plans for the night. He was very enthusiastic and seemed impatient to get going.

Still I didn't tell him the name of the club; neither did I tell my agents. I had very little confidence in some of them at that time, because of their political connections, and I wasn't taking any chances on a "tip-off."

I instructed my assistants to assemble 25 agents at Grand Central Terminal at 8 o'clock that evening and put them on a train and take them to Mount Vernon. This move was to throw them off the scent and make them think they were going to work in Westchester County. It worked.

I instructed another assistant to hire a large bus and have it meet the agents at Mount Vernon, put them in the bus, keep them there, and drive around Westchester until midnight. Of the entire 25 men riding around Westchester County that evening, only one knew their ultimate destination. After an hour or so of riding, they tumbled to the situation and enjoyed the joke at their expense.

Personally Took Part in Raid.

The bus came to the corner of Fifty-fourth street and Sixth avenue at exactly 12:45 a. m. The investigators in the club were to have on their tables bottles of liquor they had bought earlier in the evening, at the precise minute of the raid, 1 a. m. This was necessary because I was proceeding without a search warrant.

This was one of the two raids in which I personally took part during my three years as administrator. After my agents had entered, I went in after them.

Everything went off as planned. No one was allowed to leave until we had made our arrests. Miss Morgan, Gordoni, and a number of others who had sold liquor to my agents were carted away in a police patrol. And as soon as the place was cleared my men began to remove the furnishings to vans I had waiting outside. We were very careful not to destroy anything, and everything was carefully carried out. With the exception of some pictures I had removed from the walls, and some stalls fastened to the floor which were removed, there was absolutely no disfiguring of the interior by my men.

Unfortunately my men left the place without taking any photographs, as was our custom later; so except for verbal testimony we had no proof of the condition of the premises when we left.

Denied Property was Destroyed.

The next morning Watts called me up and told me he was informed that some of the furnishings that had been removed were destroyed. I told him this was not so.

But soon the newspapers were running wild with stories of the depredations caused by "Campbell's axmen." J. Arthur Adler, a former assistant United States attorney and a prominent member of Representative La Guardia's Republican Club in the Eighteenth assembly district, issued a statement charging that the property taken from the club had been destroyed. This was the sort of stuff the wet newspapers liked to believe about dry agents, and they were filled with condemnation. Mr. Watts telephoned me that Tuttle had just told him Representative La Guardia planned to start a campaign against me on the charge of vandalism.

All the time I knew the goods were in perfectly good shape in the Knickerbocker Warehouse.

"Of course, if there has been destruction of property"——Mr. Tuttle told the raging newspapers.

The only purpose of the charges of destruction was to discredit the raid as outrageous and to weaken the case in the eyes of a jury at the time of trial. It is an old dodge.

Everybody was heated up about it. Samuel S. Koenig, the Republican leader, told me that his work for the party during 364 days of the year could be ruined in one day by such an act as that by a Federal official.

Says Tuttle Warned Him.

After a week or so Mr. Tuttle called me and my assistant, William D. Moss, into conference with himself and Watts. He expounded the difficulties of prosecution. He certainly stated Helen Morgan's side in an able manner, and finally asked that Miss Morgan be eliminated from the case, notwithstanding the fact that she was implicated in the sale of liquor herself. Further, said Mr. Tuttle, the newspapers had printed charges of destruction and "if there has been any destruction, &c."

Mr. Adler had offered to settle the matter amicably, said Mr. Tuttle, if we would agree to return the mortgaged part of the seized property to the mortgagees, and promise not to prosecute Miss Morgan. Mr. Tuttle warned me that some congressman or Federal judge might see fit to make trotuble for me.

I listened to all this, promised nothing, and we agreed to meet again Saturday. On Saturday I declared I would not agree to any soft pedaling and would insist on Helen Morgan's prosecution, but I was willing to return the mortgaged property to the holders of the mortgages.

Waited for Ruling on Law.

These were trying days for me. I was being pounded in the newspapers for the "destruction" in the Morgan case, and at the same time the newspapers were hounding me for the Norris case, in which the grand jury, under Mr. Watts, was trying to indict the agents who had made the case.

I met Tuttle and Watts again on February 2, according to my diary. Tuttle announced he saw no evidence on which to prosecute Miss Morgan, and insisted that if she went before a jury in fine clothes she would have all their sympathy. If I would consent to the elimination of Miss Morgan, he offered, all the other defendants would plead guilty. The matter of conspiracy charges could be left until later. In this way, he said, the Government would have a complete victory.

I said that if he insisted on this I would insist on making another seizure case in which there could be no possible criticism or destruction. He didn't want any such test case in this district. I suggested that we get Washington to establish a national ruling on the use of internal revenue laws in prohibition cases. Tuttle and Watts agreed.

Had Photograph of Barroom.

After much telephoning and letter writing, Tuttle, Watts and I went to Washington, and on February 15 met Mrs. Willebrandt, Commissioner Doran, Alf Oftedal and Howard Jones now Assistant Commissioner of Prohibition.

I had suggested the conference, but the newspapers all had it that I had been called to Washington to be put on the carpet. It was Tuttle who found himself on the carpet.

Tuttle produced photographs given him by Adler, showing piles of rubbish in the Helen Morgan Club, a broken telephone coin box, and a smashed door. Mrs. Willebrandt said they looked pretty bad. I objected that there was no evidence that my men had caused this havoc, that it might well have happened after they left. The door in question, I pointed out, was open when I was there; and there was no need to force an entrance. I showed Mrs. Willebrandt a photograph of the barroom. She said it certainly was convincing.

Tuttle stated that his delay in prosecution had saved me embarrassment, and that he had persuaded Adler not to start criminal and civil actions against me. I replied that my situation had become acute because of Mr. Tuttle's delay, which had given the defense opportunity to set up a newspaper case.

I insisted that since this matter had been taken up with Tuttle and with Washington two months before I acted, I should not be left holding the bag. Mrs. Willebrandt and Mr. Jones declared that the Department of Justice was behind me 100 per cent.

Campbell Told to Decide.

I didn't believe Tuttle expected this kind of talk. He did not appear happy. However, he told of his friendship with Adler and their many talks about the case.

Mrs. Willebrandt declared vigorously against Tuttle's desire to compromise, said there was too much compromising in his office. She opposed his desire to drop charges against Miss Morgan, and insisted she should be included in a conspiracy case. But Mrs. Willebrandt and Dr. Doran left the decision in the matter to me.

I was in a dilemma. I believed that if I insisted on a conspiracy case, and Tuttle was left to prosecute, we would probably get nowhere. But if it were compromised and the bar fixtures and other unmortgaged furniture were forfeited, I would have a precedent for future night club cases. I decided on the compromise.

About two weeks later Tuttle notified me he had effected a compromise, and on February 27 I went to see him. He seemed embarrassed. Mr. Adler had dug up some new claims, for lost property and the theft of $300 from a cash register, but Tuttle said he had persuaded Adler to overlook these. The real cause for his embarrassment came out when he told me that he was not able to carry out the compromise agreed in at Washington, because Gordoni refused to plead guilty of anything. And another defendant he said, would have to be dismissed. That left two waiters and two bartenders to plead.

Refused to Act Half-Heartedly.

With regard to the seized property, Tuttle wanted to tell the newspapers that the barroom fixtures would be forfeited, but that the Government did not believe the rest of the furnishings should be forfeited. I objected that the newspapers would say "Campbell is wrong." (As a matter of fact, they did finally say that I was "spanked.")

We had some outright talk, in which I told him that in a wet community like New York we couldn't enforce prohibition without criticism, as he seemed to desire; and if he persisted in this attitude, he would continually be embarrassed, for I did not intend to sit half-heartedly in my office.

He still insisted that he did not want a test case on the revenue law tactics in this district, and in this passage of argument came the remark at the beginning of this article.

Shortly after this Watts and Adler went before Judge Mack, and an order was issued forfeiting the bar and fixtures, and providing the return of the mortgaged property to the morgagees. Arrangements were made for the return of the mortgaged property on March 21. Contrary to the court order, it was all returned to the Helen Morgan Club. Some of it was there at the time of the second raid.

On March 13 a dinner was given at the Hotel Commodore for Joseph A. Palma, chief of the New York division of the secret service. Gordoni, who was arrested in the first raid and who was managing a new Helen Morgan Club, provided entertainment for the night clubs and acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Tuttle was toastmaster.

Robert Bonynge Argues American Case at The Hague.

The Hague, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The fateful day of January 11, 1917, when the Kingsland (N. J.) munitions plant caught fire and blew up was dealt with by Robert Bonynge, American claims agent and counsel for the United States, in this afternoon's session of the mixed claims tribunal. This tribunal is adjudicating American claims against Germany resulting from damages inflicted before America entered the World War.

"On that day," said Commissioner Bonynge in the trial today, "Wozniak and Rodriguez, who were in German employ, were working side by side at a bench in the plant and it was at that bench the fire originated.

"Both Wozniak and Rodriguez had been supplied with incendiary devices by the German agent Hermann, who had been sent to America with instructions to blow up munitions and ammunition plants.

ent situation. It is now a question as to whether armed thugs and those who hire them are to dominate our Government and its lawful agencies. As to the ultimate result there can be no question, and for our part we accept the challenge.

"It is the solemn duty of every Federal officer to enforce the law by every lawful means available. In the execution of a Federal search warrant, if force is necessary to overcome resistance, force will be used.

"Must Not Fail Citizens."

"Let every Federal officer subject to my orders ever bear in mind that law-abiding citizens of the country demand that we do our full duty. We must not fail them. In your work you are confronted by many temptations. With each deliberate attempt to wreck and interfere with our plans, let every man more strongly determine that Agent Finiello shall not have died in vain. His memory will serve to keep us true to our oath of office."

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—More than 100 detectives, investigators, lawyers, police, prohibition agents and undercover men of Union County, the City of Elizabeth and the Federal Government were at work today trying to find men who, according to detectives, are known to have been present Friday night when nine bullets were pumped into Prohibition Agent John G. Finiello, during a raid on the Rising Sun Brewery here.

First and foremost of those wanted is Nick Delmors, roadhouse proprietor of Berkeley Heights, N. J., and tonight Prosecutor Abe J. David of Union County for the first time stated that if Delmore is found he will be definitely charged with the murder of Finiello.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator MacPhee spent the entire day at David's office, and there was a constant trail of county detectives, Federal undercover men and police, all working on the case.

Dry Agent May Be Involved.

Questioned about the finding of the name of a prohibition agent formerly on the police force of Newark, on the pay roll of the Rising Sun Brewery, Deputy Administrator MacPhee said:

"Any information on that will be turned over to the authorities at Washington."

Elizabeth seethed tonight with brewery political protection rumors. The Peter F. Breidt Brewery, which was raided a week ago, is understood to operate under Democratic auspices. Jack Dunne, West New York, N. J., beer baron, is out on bail in connection with this raid, while the $1,000,000 brewery property stands idle.

Real Operators Unknown.

The Rising Sun, on the other hand, was more of a Republican outfit and is reported to have depended on direct Republican protection.

Police and detectives claimed they have yet been unable to ascertain the name of the actual operator of the Rising Sun. It was leased from the estate of its former operator by the Oneida Manufacturing Co., with dummy directors.

Each of the breweries is worth about $1,000,000. Their operation or closing down may exercise a considerable effect on the prosperity of Elizabeth. The town is mostly wet and crowds who have gathered around the Rising Sun to watch activities of the police and enforcement officials have shown a marked sympathy for makers of the beer. Considerable rivalry had developed between the breweries.

Territories Overlapped.

The Breidt shipped its beer out through Jersey and Pennsylvania, and westward. The Rising Sun is understood to have concentrated on territory to the north and east. There were places, however, where the territory overlapped, and hence developed the possibility for a war for territory.

Prosecutor David today asked the Elizabeth Board of Freeholders to offer a reward for apprehension of Finiello's killers.

A padlock action, it was learned, will be commenced against the Rising Sun.

NO WORD FROM TUTTLE

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Republican State chairman, William J. Maier, here for the opening of the party convention Thursday, said tonight the national administration would not aid the party in solving what is generally conceded its hardest problem—prohibition.

There had been reports as the leaders gathered that from sources close to President Hoover had come word a prohibition plank in the platform would be preferable to one for repeal of the dry law.

Mr. Maier issued the following statement:

"The President has not attempted in any way to interfere in the proceedings of the State convention."

Later he said the State leaders anticipated no interference from Washington on the wet and dry question.

There was no hint from any source what the leaders were hoping to do about the prohibition question. But it was reported there was less danger of a strong third party dry ticket being put in the field should the party nominate a wet or ask repeal. The Antisaloon League was said to be cool toward the plans of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to enter a dry candidate unless the Republican platform conformed to their wishes.

Leaders said tonight no word has been received from United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, aspirant for the governorship, amplifying his recent declaration in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It had been reported Mr. Tuttle had sent word he would not accept nomination if the platform did not support his prohibition views.

Other men being mentioned tonight as possible candidates for governor were Attorney General Hamilton Ward, who has not expressed himself on prohibition, and State Senator George R. Fearon, who also has asked repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Crisis Confronts Spain in Campaign

Duke of Alva Quitting Amid Preelection Excitement.

Madrid, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—In the midst of a heated political campaign for the forthcoming parliamentary election, the first to be called in Spain since the Primo de Rivera military dictatorship came into power in 1923, the Spanish government today was faced by a cabinet crisis.

The Duke of Alba, minister of state, or foreign minister, was said to be determined to resign in consequence of an editorial campaign waged by the newspaper, El Debate, which attacked him for his frequent trips abroad.

The duke, one of Suain's greatest, yet most democratic noblemen, is due at San Sebastian tomorrow and it is expected King Alfonso will need all his power of persuasion to keep him in the Berenger cabinet.

Former Premier Sanchez Guerra, in a talk with the Duke of Mirands, the king's major domo, was quoted as saying that any change in policy or government should be left to parliament to decide.

He formerly held pastorates in North Dakota and Minnesota.

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION.

Legislation to put American immigration on a strictly selective basis will be submitted to the next session of Congress. A plan to check the influx of foreign labor was announced from the White House last week, and it will become immediately effective. But it is now revealed that a more comprehensive study of the situation is being made with a view to adoption of a new immigration policy.

The surplus of labor existing since last December emphasizes the need for restrictions against further immigration. But the economic depression is not the underlying reason why a program of selective immigration ought to be adopted. American farms are overpopulated and the industrial system has reached maturity. Invention of new machinery is constantly increasing the productive capacity of the skilled individual workman and decreasing the number of men needed to do the country's rough work. When business returns to normal and the ranks of the unemployed shrink to their usual status, there will still be need for a selective immigration system.

Under no circumstances is it probable that a great number of workmen will be in demand. Therefore it is suggested that the present quotas be retained as the maximum immigration under any conditions. The administrative machinery ought to be flexible enough to check immigration entirely when unemployment becomes prevalent. In normal times it should be adjusted so that only the type of workmen and artisans needed could enter. Immigration ought to be regulated on the basis of American needs, and not on the theory that each foreign country has a right to send a certain number of its citizens to make their homes here.

It is contemplated that the Department of Labor would keep the Department of State informed as to domestic labor conditions. If a need for miners developed, miners would be given preference over all prospective immigrants of other occupations. At present aliens who are first to file applications and pass the required tests are first admitted. But under the new plan the right to immigrate would depend upon the individual's prospects of becoming an economic asset. Consuls already have extensive authority over the issuance of visas. This power would be extended so that they could base their judgment of an applicant's qualifications on the economic need of the country as well as on his personal fitness and character. A permanent policy of this kind would give American workingmen greater security and less competition in the labor market. Unemployment would be negligible at present if similar policies had been adopted when they were presented to Congress several years ago.

SURPLUS OF FARM POPULATION.

E. N. Robaina, special representative in the United States of the Cuban newspaper El Pais, recently took occasion to comment on the Cuban government's effort to regulate the production of sugar. The restriction, he said, benefited no one except producers in countries other than Cuba, for when other sugar-raising countries learned of the Cuban restrictions they increased their acreage. There is always a danger of this nature in attempts to restrict production. Brazil discovered that restricting the coffee crop worked to the advantage of other nations. The United States may discover that limitation of agricultural output will result in stimulating production elsewhere.

It is because crop output restriction on the part of a single government tends to stimulate production elsewhere that the discussion of schemes for cooperative regulation among the American republics during the Inter-American Conference on Agriculture assumes great importance. A resolution was introduced by a Cuban delegate suggesting that "each individual industry in which an unbalanced situation between world supplies and consumption has been created, and has persisted, with grave consequences for the present and future of said industry, should endeavor as soon as possible to establish a better readjustment between the factors of supply and demand by means of concerted international action." The resolution suggested that the governments "should consider it their duty to assist" in bringing about international action to eliminate surpluses. The governments could do this by withdrawing from cultivation public lands and by offering inducements to private owners to withdraw their lands from cultivation. Exemption from taxation of private lands devoted to forest might help the situation.

But even though it were possible to obtain cooperative action along such lines, with the result that production would be more closely gauged to consumption, the farm problem would not be completely solved. Limitation inevitably requires the removal of population from the farms. Industry is unable to absorb large additional population. This aspect of the farm problem is not generally accorded the attention it demands. While the Inter-American Farm Conference is considering the immediate problem of reducing the surplus, it might well consider the larger social problem of what to do with the surplus farm population.

HOME AND CHILD DEPARTMENT.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen will ask the next session of Congress to create a department of "home and child" in the President's Cabinet. Her purpose is to coordinate all Federal activities that "promote and foster education, home and family life and child welfare." Incidentally the way would be opened, she believes, for the elevation of a woman to the Cabinet.

This plan of adding household and family duties to the varied functions of Uncle Sam gives evidence of being carefully worked out, but it is fundamentally weak in that it ignores the division of powers betwen the Federal and State governments. "At present the child has been dismembered," says Mrs. Owen, "and scattered among the Interior, Labor, the Justice and Agriculture Departments, involving almost a dozen different boards and bureaus." The only answer necessary to meet her argument is that the Government does not deal with children; that social welfare is one of the responsibilities reserved by the States.

The Government gives some attention to the education of children, but only in a way that may help the States to solve their educational problems. Home economics claims the attention of a bureau in the Department of Agriculture, but only in its relation to the greater problem with which this department deals. The Public Health Service is concerned with child health as a part of its general function. The national training schools for boys and girls are houses of correction and therefore have an integral relationship with the Department of Justice. The Children's Bureau is somewhat more independent, but its work is nevertheless closely related to that of the Labor Department. Why should these agencies be detached from the administrative units of which they are a part?

Mrs. Owen asks that the home and the child be put on a parity with commerce, agriculture and national defense. These interests of national scope command the attention of the Government because the Constitution gives it control over them. In so far as home life and child welfare are touched by these major governmental functions, they may be given attention. But the Government is a federation of States. The care of children is beyond its authority. When Mrs. Owen asks that child welfare—a State function—be made the sole objective of an executive department, instead of a by-product of other Federal activities, she encroaches too far upon States' rights.

From this point of view Mrs. Owen proposes not an act of coordination, but one of disintegration. She would divide the Government's Public Health Service, for example, between the department of "home and child" and the Treasury Department to the detriment of both economy and efficiency. Furthermore, the development of a department of home and child would mean duplication of many State agencies to which social welfare activities have been entrusted.

POLICE MANNERS.

Corporation Counsel Bride thinks the rule of courtesy in the relations of the police and the public should work both ways. Maj. Pratt is trying to educate his men to be knights of politeness. In turn Mr. Bride has issued an ultimatum that the public must be courteous to officers who enforce the law. Offenders will be haled into court, and charged with abusive conduct as well as their original offense.

The very nature of this announcement suggests that the courtesy campaign for policemen has worked wonders. Can it be that once hardened patrolmen who "called the wagon" whenever an arrested victim opened his mouth have now become so meek that they need protection of the courts against the hard-boiled public? Is the force becoming so gallant that it closes its eyes to law violations rather than risk a torrent of abuse from indignant ladies?

It is hardly necessary to warn the public against making verbal attacks upon the police. The policeman has every advantage in a verbal clash with a citizen who overparks or disregards a traffic signal. Protest is always ineffective, because the officer can protect his sensitive feelings under the guise of enforcing the law. It is the citizen who has no recourse from arbitrary or insulting conduct on the part of policemen—except, perhaps, dismissal of his case in the courts after the humiliation has been suffered.

It seems reasonable, therefore, to interpret Mr. Bride's statement as a new incentive to the cultivation of better police manners. In an effort to encourage official courtesy, the public is told that abuse of policemen will not be tolerated. It never has been tolerated; but if abusive citizens can be punished by the courts, so can the police. Officers may wear the chip on their shoulders more lightly. Courtesy for courtesy is fair exchange, but since officers are servants of the public, and since they always initiate the proceedings of arrest, the first bow must come from them.

SKYSCRAPERS.

During the last decade the skyscraper has been widely condemned on the ground that it denies light and air to city dwellers. During the coming decade it may be advocated as the only means of providing these two essential elements of health to people living and working in congested metropolitan districts. This transformation of opinion is foreshadowed in the report of the New York regional plan committee.

Cities that fear the results of dark alleys and congested streets have limited the height of buildings and assumed that their problem was solved. The ultimate result of such a policy is the construction of buildings to the maximum height on every available acre of land in the congested metropolitan areas. The tendency is toward a flat-topped business district bisected by dingy streets into which the sun scarcely ever shines. The only way to get air and light in such a city is to erect skyscrapers that rise into the clear sunshine above the prevailing roof level.

It is surprising to the world traveler to learn that the average height of buildings in Manhattan is no greater than that of London or Paris. The magnificent sky line of New York is deceiving. The regional plan survey reveals that the average building is not more than five stories in height. Many low structures counteract the effect of the high ones. Foreign cities build no skyscrapers into the clouds, but they cover a larger percentage of their available space with structures of from five to ten stories. Light and air is shut out of every building by its immediate neighbors, and traffic is just as congested as it would be if part of the buildings rose to towering heights and the remainder were low.

It is reported that the skyscraper is being introduced in the metropolises of Europe. If 40 or 50 story buildings begin to arise in London or Paris and the bulk of medium-sized buildings is not reduced, traffic conditions will be intolerable.

City planners are coming to realize that limitation of bulk is quite as important as limitation of height. The New York committee decided than a ten-story average is the maximum height that can be tolerated. Even with that average height the committee would limit building to 40 per cent of the gross land area. But the regional planners do not recommend that buildings be limited to ten stories. The ideal arrangement, it says, would be buildings not exceeding six stories on three-quarters of the available space, and skyscrapers on the remaining one-quarter.

The skyscraper is not a necessary evil. If the towering structures that modern engineering has made possible are properly spaced and the surrounding buildings are dwarfed to preserve the balance, they offer greater facilities for light and air than do buildings of similar height, and the resulting sky line is far more beautiful.

CIVILIZATION'S MAKERS

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Who are the makers or remakers or molders of civilization? The list of capitalists, financiers, captains of industry made up by James W. Gerard was hotly traversed by Watson Davis of Science Service, who would star Edison, Orville Wright, Mme. Curie, Marconi and DeForest, along with other great inventors, electricians, chemists, entomologists and bacteriologists. The issue is interesting. Mr. Davis conceded that corporation executives may "rule our financial and even our political destinies." He denied that they mold civilization.

What is clear to the philosophical thinker is that in very large measure the Gerard men are only the exploiters of the discoveries of the men on the Davis list. For themselves they have only developed new financial combinations and new forms of commercial organization. They have won power and fame as well as large fortunes. No politician can afford to ignore their influence in any part of America. In many instances they have been large givers to philanthropy, incidentally stimulating discoveries. In many instances they have become patrons of the fine arts. That their work has made for what is called national prosperity most of us are inclined to acknowledge.

The Davis group has contributed immensely to human knowledge as to cheap production of necessities and comforts. In a hundred years such knowledge has had greater growth than in 2,000 preceding years. It may be true, as Haldane argues in the September Harper's, that the Sumerians of 3500 B. C. had better drainage systems than many English cottages enjoy today; that they had art and architectural standards not inferior to our own, but they had no radios, no telephones, no cheap automobiles, and no understanding of even the first principles of bacteriology. Our age is so far ahead of all past ages in the checking of disease and the lengthening of the life span that no comparison is possible and no comparison is ever attempted. Yet there are doubters who insist that the struggle of science against the law of the survival of the fittest is of questionable value to the human race.

Also there are skeptics who look at the Gerard group and the Davis group and ask what either has done outside the realm of pure materialism, and query, "What is it all about?" Life in simple terms was not unhappy for the Athenians of the Golden Age of Pericles. Life in relatively simple terms was not unhappy for Englishmen of the Elizabethan age. And we have now no Socrates, no Plato, no Aristotle, no Shakespeare and no Francis Bacon. As the author of "Night Thoughts" put it:

Knowledge and Wisdom, far from being one,
Have ofttimes no connection; Knowledge dwells
In heads replete with thoughts of other men;
Wisdom in minds attentive to their own.

These skeptics are almost inclined to suggest a ten-year moratorium on knowledge to let wisdom catch up. Between the Montagues of capital and the Capulets of science they have no choice. "A plague o' both your houses!" is their exclamation. But luckily or unluckily the skeptics are so few as to be negligible in the United States of America.

LABOR.

It doesn't just happen that some one is plucky,
Though others may speak of a winner as lucky.
The fact still remains
That success demands brains.

It doesn't just happen that some one is clever.
All skill is acquired; man is born with it never.
Who rises at last
Has worked hard in the past.

It doesn't just happen that some one has knowledge.
Some earn it themselves, and some miss it at college.
This fact still is so;
Men must labor to know.

Luck can not make wise men, or clean men or strong men.
Or brilliant success of drifting-along men.
Who comes to renown
Has worked hard for his crown.

It Isn't Proof of Genius to Whistle the Tune Composed by a Genius.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MANY people, old and young, draw pictures of Andy Gump, little Jeff, Maggie and similar characters. Some of them, encouraged by fond parents or admiring friends, submit their efforts to publishers. And when their work is returned or ignored they say to their acquaintances, "My drawings are just as good as the other fellow's and deserve as much reward, but a newcomer isn't given a chance."

The world is full of people who can do something well only when somebody else shows them how. Without exception they fail to win the reward to which they feel entitled and, as a rule, they attribute their failure to bad luck or the world's unfairness.

They fail, however, because they are imitators. They are capable copyists, but are incapable of creating something new.

The imitator can't hope to win a place among the leaders, for he must wait for a pattern. Without something to copy he is helpless. And though his imitations excel the original, he still must be content as a second-rater, for he is by nature and practice a follower.

If you are content to be an imitator, and think the world unfair because it denies you the rewards given to originality, ask yourself how far you could go if you had to blaze the way.

Coming to America was a matter relatively simple after Columbus showed the world how. Do you think later adventurers deserved the glory he won?

The world isn't unfair in its judgments. It finds use for imitations. But it recognizes the fact that men who wait to be shown are second-rate men, and quite properly denies them the praise given to originality.

Many men profit by the ideas of others. An idea belongs to the man who can use it. And the man who begins where others left off isn't an imitator. He improves work already done, and his improvement is original.

Originality wins the world's prizes. Copyists win small rewards because anybody can copy. When the artist casts a bronze, ordinary mechanics can make cheap replicas.

To imitate is to confess inferiority, and to make a practice of imitation is to make yourself helpless without a master.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

THE TWITCHELLS ON THOSE PROHIBITION PUNCHES.

Mrs. Elmer Twitchell was looking over "Prohibition Punches," authored by Mrs. Rozana B. Doran and containing recipes for kickless drinks submitted by many Washington women. "I think we might try some of them," she said to Elmer.

"I was afraid you'd want to," moaned Elmer.

"Here's a recipe for a drink by Mrs. Ella Boole," continued Mrs. Twitchell. "It sounds interesting. I'll read it to you."

"Must you?" pleaded Elmer.

"Here it is: 'Take one cup each of white grapes, fresh pineapple, canned Bartlett pears and grapefruit.'"

"One cup each!" exclaimed Elmer. "What is she going to make, a superfruit salad?"

"Fancy having so little to do," moaned Elmer.

"Skinning is too good for it," insisted Elmer.

"'Cut into sections,'" went on Mrs. Twitchell. "'Cut the pineapple and pears fine.'"

"There appears to be a lot of detail work on that drink," objected Elmer. "Imagine trying to make that Ella Boole cocktail in an emergency, when some unexpected guests had dropped in."

"'Cover with the juice of the pear,'" went on Mrs. Twitchell. "'Add the juice of one lemon.'"

"Ugh!" moaned Elmer.

"'Sweeten to taste,'" read Mrs. Twitchell. "'Let stand in the refrigerator for at least two hours and garnish with rubyettes or any preferred touch of color.'"

"Let stand in the refrigerator forever," blurted Elmer, "and garnish with horse feathers of any size or texture."

"Here's another. It's by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody. It is called the Punch de Leon, or Florida cocktail. Here it is: 'Take two cups of orange juice, one cup of grape juice, and the juice of two lemons. Add a large cup of sugar and the juice of one can of Hawaiian pineapple.'"

"Is there no justice?" cried Elmer.

"'Add three cups of weak tea,'" went on Mrs. Twitchell.

"Omigosh!" exclaimed Elmer.

"'Mix in a punch bowl with a block of ice,'" continued the wife. "'Just before serving add two bottles of ginger ale.'"

"Go on," said Elmer. "You're leading up to the raspberry soda, the bottle of catsup and equal parts of bicarbonate of soda and kerosene oil, I suppose."

"'Put in a sprig of mint and serve in small glasses. Sufficient for ten people,'" read Mrs. Twitchell, ignoring the interruption.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Old Jacksonian Wet Says Democratic Party of 1932 Doomed to Certain Defeat if in Hands of Repeal Advocates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the question of prohibition was to be settled by the talkers of the country, the wets just now would have the upper hand. In the sober, final settlement of the ballot box, however, they would probably lose by a big majority. Certainly it is absurd to imagine that the drys could not cast enough votes to prevent repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I can not see how any thoughtful observer could guess otherwise. I therefore question the honesty of the politicians who encourage the liquor interest with the idea of a possible wet victory under either the Republican or the Democratic banner, or who mention the possibility of a wet third party. They merely want to profit by making a political football of the prohibition issue.

If the Republican party remains true to its reputation for political gumption, it is not likely, at the utmost, to furnish more than a precarious toehold for wet fanatics.

Unfortunately, the Democratic party seems to offer a more encouraging field for the operations of wet tricksters. As an old Jacksonian wet, who doesn't propose to let his appetites get the better of his politics, I would again express my disgust, in view of what happened in 1928.

In national campaigns of the past the Republicans, when the dust of the conflict blew off, always knew they had been in something more than a pothouse scuffle. As a general thing the Democratic party has put up a decent fight and maintained a heroic though battered front. It has likewise held the respect of mankind, although crushed to earth time after time. Democracy in the sorry make-up of an old soak will, as once before, be a butt of ridicule if, in 1932, the party's management is in the hands of the wets. KICKORY.

The Accomplishments of Pennsylvania's Highway Forester With Respect to Clearing the Roadways of Obnoxious Signs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Through the United States Bureau of Public Roads, and also through the action of several of the States, much attention is being paid to the beautification of the highways by means of suitable planting and also by means of the removal of obtruding private-interest advertising signs.

A notice has just reached me, as chairman of the Roadside Development Committee of the American Civic Association, of some extraordinarily good work in this direction and this I am glad to bring to your attention.

During the first two weeks of July, 1930, the highway forrester of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, through his assistants in eight districts of Pennsylvania, caused the removal of 32,225 signs. Of these 24,834 were illegal because they had been put upon the right of way.

More significant was the removal of signs on private lands which the owners of those lands were willing to take down in order that the scenery of Pennsylvania might be better appreciated—7,391 signs were so removed.

Particular activity in this sign removal on private lands occurred in District 1 in the northwest corner of the State. Over 3,700 signs came down under the persuasion of the officials.

It is not too much to hope that national and local advertisers will soon come to realize the bad economy of spending money for signs that must be removed because they are illegal, or that ought to be removed because they offend the people who might otherwise become customers.

Billboard advertising is not increasing in its capacity for attracting profitable returns, as may thus be inferred.

Another Delightful Letter From Henry Ward Bleacher — Come Again, Henry!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The baseball season now drawing to a close with the Nationals in second place is brightened by a hundred thousand or more smiling fans, whose discontent has been for several seasons very much in evidence.

They are not only pleased with the standing of the club, but the quality of entertainment enjoyed by them at their ball yard this year has been exceptionally fine. Not only have the Griffs won much more often than they have lost, but an extraordinary number of games, whether won or lost, have been close and exciting.

Under the circumstances it is no wonder that the fans have turned out by the tens of thousands to cheer their favorites, roast the umpire, loosen up their souls, and forget their worries.

And the future glows with promise!

The pennant-chasing stress of this year's teamwork has put our club in fine shape to win next year's championship. Individually as well as collectively Washington fandom is proud of them. There is not room here to speak of the special merit of each but, as a veteran fan, I can not refrain from mentioning the fact that old Mr. Rice, old Mr. Judge, and old Mr. Manush are not less covered with glory than their younger mates.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Approves Post Suggestion That Cup Be Given to Sir Thomas, But Wants It to Be Made of Gold.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Sunday Post is a brief editorial which suggests that we, the American people, present a loving cup to Sir Thomas Lipton as a testimonial of our esteem and admiration, and says: "It is a good suggestion, and should be adopted."

The Post is right, as it usually is.

Let it be further suggested that the cup be smaller, but made of good real American gold—and if, as the editorial puts it, "we all contribute $1 each," there need hardly be a limit to its size.

And again we say "It is a good suggestion and should be adopted."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Meyers Plan For Daughter To Make Bow

Début Will Take Place During Yuletide in Capital.

WITH a debutante daughter in the family, a good deal of entertaining will signalize the return of Mr. Eugene Meyer, jr., new governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mrs. Meyer to the official fold in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer propose to present their second daughter, Miss Elizabeth Meyer, to society in the Christmas holidays. They will give a reception in her honor on the afternoon of December 20 and a ball for young people on the evening of December 26, both festivities to be held at the present home of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, 1624 Crescent place.

This announcement from Mrs. Meyer, who is still at her country home at Mount Kisco, N. Y., would seem to dispose of the question as to whether or not Mr. and Mrs. Meyer would continue to live in the late Mr. Henry White's great house overlooking the city from the hills of Sixteenth street. It is a house in which social history has been made through several administrations and it will provide a beautiful setting for the parties Mrs. Meyer is planning for her daughter.

Miss Florence Meyer made her debut two years ago, also at the holiday season, as she was—and still is—a college student. She has been attending Bryn Mawr, but this year will go to Radcliffe as an exchange student. Miss Elizabeth Meyer is following in her sister's footsteps in choosing to take a college course, sandwiching festivities of a gay first season into the holidays, but she has elected Vassar instead of Bryn Mawr and this year is in the sophomore class.

Mrs. Adams Returns From Summer Home.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams has returned from her summer home at Minot, Mass., and is with Mr. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, at their residence on R street.

Mme. Paul Lessinoff entertained at dinner last evening, her guests including the Minister of Czechoslovakia, Mr. Ferdinand Veverka; Dr. Josef Nemecek, Secretary of the Legation, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Scully and Miss Kate Hyde Scully.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen left Washington yesterday for Florida, scheduled to make a tour of her district in her traveling "office," a tender or trailer to the car which she drives herself. After attending the meeting of the Institute of Politics in London in the early summer, Mrs. Owen made a tour by trailer through the Yellowstone Park and much of the Rocky Mountain region, from which she has but recently returned. Her two younger children, Bryan and Helen, who accompanied her on her Western trip, have reentered school.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Phillips have returned to their summer home, Ormsby Lodge, at Ebensburg, Pa., after spending the week-end at the Mayflower. Early in October they will come to town again and will take possession of their new house on Ridge road, to which finishing touches are being added. The house adjoins Mrs. J. Borden Harriman's property and the two places share a glorious view of Washington and the Potomac.

Part of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips' town house in Twentieth street is given over to the finest private art gallery in Washington, a gallery which is open to the public on certain days. Mrs. Phillips is herself an artist of great ability and her husband is one of the country's best known collectors and art critics.

Mrs. Lockwood Reopens Residence at Capital.

Mrs. Thomas W. Lockwood has reopened her residence at 2212 Massachusetts avenue for the season. In the summer she made a prolonged motor tour and spent several weeks at Kennebunkport, Me.

Mrs. Frank C. Letts has returned to her Washington residence after spending the late summer at Jamestown, R. I., and Newport. Earlier Mrs. Letts was at her cottage at Cedar Point, on Chesapeake Bay, for several weeks.

Mrs. Lett's daughter, Mrs. John Borden, pleasantly remembered in Washington from the days when she was Miss Courtney Letts, is much occupied at the moment with a book destined to be published shortly and with a series of magazine articles. She was a member of the Borden-Field Museum Alaska Arctic expedition, and has written in interesting fashion about her adventures. Mrs. Borden is a member of the Society of Woman Geographers. With Mr. Borden she expects to be in her Chicago home for the coming winter.

Mr. Allan Dawson, who has been serving as second secretary of the United States Embassy in Mexico City, has been detailed to the State Department and will take up his new duties in Washington late in November. Mr. Dawson will reach town from Mexico early in October for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Thomas P. Dawson, after which he will sail for a holiday abroad, expecting to be absent six weeks or two months.

Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the former senator from Illinois and the present Democratic senatorial nominee from that State, is staying at the Mayflower for a few days, having come from her home in Chicago.

Mrs. M. S. Rathbone and Miss Juliette Rathbone have arrived at the Powhatan from their home in Parkersburg, W. Va., and plan to remain several days.

The Chief of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs in the Department of State, Mr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, has returned from Squam Lake, N. H., where he spent a holiday with Prof. George H. Blakeslee, of Clark University; Prof. Arthur N. Holcombe, of Harvard University and Prof. Walter W. McLaren, of Williams College.

Mrs. Phillip M. Jullien entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Others who entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton were Mrs. John Hagerty, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Belmont, Miss Laura Tuckerman and Miss Loranda Prochnik.

Mr. and Mrs. Himes Have Western Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Himes have had Mrs. Himes' sister, Mrs. Spaulding, of Santa Barbara, Calif., as their guest at Prospect Hall, their country home near Frederick, Md. Mrs. Himes will go to Atlantic City today for a short stay, Mrs. Spaulding returning to New York to be with another sister, Mrs. Caspar Whitney. Before coming to Washington Mrs. Spaulding was Mrs. Whitney's guest on her yacht, going to Newport for the America's Cup races.

Lieut. W. V. Saunders, A. C., U. S. N., has come from Hampton Roads, Va., and is stopping at the Carlton.

Wedding Day Set by Bride Of Mr. Brown

Rev. Arthur Kinsolving to Officiate at Rite of Daughter.

Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Arthur B. Kinsolving and Mrs. Kinsolving, of Baltimore, has chosen October 18 for her marriage to Mr. John Nicholas Brown, son of Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown, of Providence and Newport. The wedding will take place in Old St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Baltimore.

Dr. Kinsolving will perform the ceremony, assisted by his son, the Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, of Boston. The benediction will be given by the Most Rev. James de Wolfe Perry, primate of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America.

Miss Kinsolving has chosen her sister, Mrs. Beverly Ober, as matron of honor. Miss Sally Archer Kinsolving and Miss Lucinda Lee Kinsolving, also sisters of the bride, will be bridesmaids. Mr. Herbert Leigh Kinsolving will give his sister in marriage.

Mr. Brown's best man will be Mr. Henry F. Colt, of Boston. The ushers will be Mr. Richmond Keith Kane, of New York; Mr. George B. Roberts, of Philadelphia; Mr. Lawrence R. Terry, of Short Hills, N. J.; Mr. Benjamin R. Kittredge, jr., of Charleston, S. C.; Mr. LeRoy King, Mr. George G. Merrill, jr., and Mr. Louis McCagg, of New York; Mr. Beverly Ober, Mr. C. Macgill James, Mr. James McLane, Mr. Douglas Huntly Gordon and Mr. Charles N. S. Niver, of Baltimore.

A small wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents will follow the ceremony.

Mr. Brown and his bride will go abroad for their wedding trip, which will be of indefinite length. They will pass the spring in Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, of Boston, are making a short visit in Washington at the Mayflower and will return from here to "Stonehurst," their summer home in Waltham, Mass.

Col. and Mrs. Daniel J. Carr gave a supper dance on Saturday evening for their daughters, Miss Catherine Carr and Miss Phyllis Carr, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Conkright who will sail shortly for Europe. Mr. Conkright, a treasury official, will be attached to the American Embassy at Paris. Mrs. Conkright before her marriage recently, was Miss Ana Teresa Grisanti, daughter of the former Minister of Venezuela. Col. and Mrs. Carr had as their guest over the week-end Mr. Claude Navarro, formerly of Washington but now of New York.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, has come to Washington and is staying at the Carlton.

Former Senator and Mrs. James A. Reed, of Missouri, arrived in New York yesterday on the Bremen from Europe.

From Berkeley, Calif., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Margherita Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilman Hyde, to Mr. Allison Van Vliet Dunn, son of Mrs. Arthur William Dunn, of Washington. Mr. Dunn is assistant engineer with the United States National Park Service. The wedding will be held in the late fall.

Miss Charlotte Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Childress, has returned home from a stay of several weeks in the North.

Col. and Mrs. Dodge Visit in Maryland.

Col. and Mrs. Harrison H. Dodge, with their granddaughter, Miss Carolyn Walker, who will be a debutante this season, have returned from Maine, and are the guests of Mrs. Elvin R. Heiberg until the latter part of the month at her country home, Edgemoor, Md. Mrs. Heiberg will spend the fall and winter with her parents at 2016 R street.

Senor Prada Assigned to London Post

Shake-Up in Government of Peru Restores Diplomat.

The shake-up incident to change of government in Peru, which has eased Dr. Santiago F. Bedoya out of the Peruvian diplomatic service, has served to bring back into favor Senor Don Alfredo Gonzales Prada, once counselor of the Peruvian Embassy in Washington. He has been asked again to take up his work in the diplomatic service and has been appointed to a post in London, with the rank of first secretary of embassy.

Senor and Senora de Prada were touring in Sweden when word was received of his appointment to London. They had left Washington—and the Peruvian diplomatic service—something over a year ago, the occasion being a break between Senor Prada and his government as outgrowth of a dispute with the late Mrs. Miles Poindexter, whose husband had been United States Ambassador to Peru, over a Peruvian couple who had been servants of the Poindexters.

Mrs. Poindexter claimed that the Pradas had lured her domestics away from her, Senor Prada countering with the claim that he was protecting his nationals from being exploited at wages far below those prevailing in this country. And since the Poindexters were great friends of former President Leguia, of Peru, the Pradas were summarily "out." Since that time they have been living abroad. Senora de Prada was an American girl, Miss Elizabeth Howe, daughter of Mrs. Emerson Howe, of Washington and New York.

Senor Prada has recently completed a book, "Don Manuel," dealing with the life of the Peruvian patriot, who was his father. Written in Spanish, this will shortly be translated into English.

Service Sorority To Aid at Carnival.

Members of Tau Omicron Phi, the Army, Navy and Marine Corps sorority, are assisting Mrs. Guy V. Henry and the ladies of the Cavalry group in selling programs for the Army Carnival to be held at the Army War College on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The sorority members are Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Martha Hickam, Miss Anne Magruder, Miss Kathleen Vaughan, Miss Mary Crain, Miss Jane Bartlett, Miss Muriel Barzynski, Miss Ellen Craighill, Miss Betty Jones, Miss Nonny Jones, Miss Madeleine Jones and Miss Atha Gullion. The girls will wear smart aprons and caps marked with the sorority letters.

Mrs. Bradford G. Chynoweth, wife of Maj. Cheynoweth, U. S. A., is a guest at the Mayflower en route to Fort Sam Houston, Tex., from Vermont where she spent the summer with their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harris Wallace have returned from Canada and Atlantic City and are at Stoneleigh Court.

The Vicar of the Silver Spring Mission and Mrs. Cheetham will be at home in Sligo Park Hills on Wednesday evening from 8 to 10 in honor of Mrs. William G. Kelly, who is moving to Chicago. No invitations have been sent out.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Eastwood, of 225 Sheridan street, yesterday announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Adelia Eastwood, to Mr. Henry N. Johnson, of Washington, at Fairfax, Va., on September 16.

Mrs. Deck to Sail For Port au Prince.

Mrs. Mabel Deck, mother of Mrs. John B. Ketchum, wife of the American Consul to Surabuya, Java, will sail on Tuesday, September 30, on the Ancon for Port au Prince, Haiti, to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. R. B. Price. She will be absent about six months.

Mrs. A. B. Carrier, who has been spending the summer in Europe, sailed from Cherbourg on Saturday for New York and will come to Washington about October 1.

At Hot Springs

Underwood & Underwood.

Social Circle Sees Season Of Activities

Hostesses Here Prepare For Busy Days in Fall Months.

Among the late September weddings was that of Miss Dorothy C. Pullen and Mr. Roy Lee Orndorff, both of Washington, which took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in Temple Baptist Church, the Rev. Thomas E. Boorde officiating. Miss Pullen is a niece of Miss Lucy Pullen and Miss Hattie Pullen, of Washington. She attended Randolph Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., and also George Washington University, where she was graduated in June. She is a member of Phi Mu and Phi Lambda fraternities.

Mr. Orndorff completed his course in civil engineering at George Washington in 1929 and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is a member of the engineering honor fraternity, Sigma Tau.

The bride wore a gown of blue crepe and carried pink roses. Her only attendant was Miss Bess Orndorff, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Martin Deuterman, of Virginia, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Orndorff left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip through the mountains of Virginia and North Carolina. Upon their return they will make their home in Washington.

Mrs. Perry Heath has returned to Washington and is in her home, 2100 S street, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard LeRoy are en route to Moosehead Lake, Me., where they will spend a few weeks. On their return on October 15 they will occupy their apartment at the Shoreham Hotel.

APARTMENT HOUSE DAMAGED BY BLAZE

CHURCH HONORS PRIEST

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

An alarm of fire at the Brawner Apartments, the newest and largest apartment house in Alexandria, at 7:30 o'clock last night caused considerable excitement and attracted a large crowd. The fire was on the roof, and was caused by paper being thrown into the incinerator of the building, being drawn too near the top of the chimney and then catching fire, igniting the roof. The damage was negligible.

The aerial truck, the purchase of which was hastened by a fire which destroyed the Fairfax Apartments, a building similar to the Brawner, was brought into play, and the firemen used it in ascending to the roof. The destruction of the Fairfax was due in part to the fact that Alexandria at that time did not possess a piece of apparatus capable of being used to fight fire at the top of a tall building.

The occupants of the apartment house were assured by the firemen that there was no danger, but asked to close their doors leading to the halls of the building. None of the occupants left their apartments and there was little confusion. The fire was extinguished with chemicals.

The Rev. Joseph J. Kelly, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, who has just returned from an extended trip to Europe, was tendered a surprise after mass Sunday morning, when he was tendered a breakfast, following which a purse was presented to him.

Father Kelly on his tour of Europe visited France, Italy, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium, England and Ireland, in addition to which he had an audience with Pope Pius XI and attended a presentation of the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

Tucker Kilby, 20 years old, suffered an amputation of his left foot at the Alexandria Hospital, as a result of having the foot crushed when he attempted to board a southbound freight train in the Southern Railway yards Saturday night. His home is in Culpeper.

Kilby and a companion had just returned from Baltimore, where they went to make application for enlistment in the Navy Kilby, it is understood, was rejected.

A free chest clinic for white persons will be held at the city health office tomorrow, and one for colored persons Thursday, the hours being from 2:30 o'clock until 5 o'clock. The clinics will be in charge of Dr. H. A. Latane and Dr. Llewellyn Powell.

Policeman John L. Stewart, who was shot on September 14 while attempting to arrest Robert G. Brafford, of Washington, for an alleged violation of the prohibition ordinance, left the Alexandria Hospital yesterday and was taken to his home, 1418 Cameron street.

Brafford is still a patient in the hospital, where it is expected he will remain at least another week. He is being closely guarded to prevent a possible effort to escape, and is kept handcuffed to his bed.

Policeman Linwood E. Brown, 33 years old, is in a critical condition at the Alexandria Hospital, where he was taken at midnight Sunday, suffering from a heart attack. Little hope is held out for his recovery. He became a member of the police force February 2, 1929.

A special meeting of the city council will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when formal action will be taken on the franchise to be granted in connection with the sale of the city gas plant.

At the same time action will be taken on the application of the Standard Oil Co. for the use of the entire lot at the southwest corner of Washington and Wilkes streets as a gasoline filling station. The council, nearly a year ago, granted a permit for the erection of a filling station on the corner lot, measuring 78 feet front on Washington street, and the Standard Oil Co. purchased the corner and the adjoining lot with the understanding that the franchise included both lots, with a frontage on Washington street of approximately 125 feet.

Mrs. Catherine Regan, 65 years old, wife of Daniel Regan, died yesterday at her home on the Fort Humphreys road, a short distance south of Alexandria. Besides her husband, she is survived by four daughters and three sons.

Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's Catholic Church at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning, and internment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

William Roberts died yesterday at his home, 302 North Royal street. He is survived by three children, Mrs. Mary Jeffers, of San Francisco; Powell T. Roberts and Mrs. E. O. Rammel, of Alexandria. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Clarksburg Carpenter Dies of Crash Injuries

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 22.—Gay S. Wolfe, 27, a carpenter, is dead of injuries received when his motorcycle skidded on a street car track and crashed into a telephone pole yesterday in Milford street.

He succumbed later in a hospital. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wolfe.

Mrs. Jennie Price Buried.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 23 (Special).—Funeral services were held this morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church for Mrs. Jennie Price, wife of Edward Price. Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery. Besides her husband she is survived by three daughters, Sister Mary Carmel, of the Ursuline Order; Mrs. Flook, wife of Capt. Harry E. Flook, of Company G, First Maryland Infantry, and Miss Theresa Price. James Bowler, Brunswick, Md., is her brother.

Who, Indeed?

Boston Globe: An automobilist says that "roadhog" is too soft a term for the reckless driver who at an excessive speed "hogs" the center of the road, cuts in and out of traffic, fails to observe stop-street and caution signs, and willfully ignores every law enacted for his own safety and that of others. Who can do him justice?

Soviet Nips Plot to Create Food Panic, Causing Revolt

High Government Officials in Powerful Society Which Allegedly Was Initiated and Subsidized by British Meat Packing Firm.

Moscow, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The government today announced disclosures by the Ogpu (secret police) of a powerful counter-revolutionary society embracing the organizations of the heat, fish, vegetable and other food industries as well as the commissariat and trade and state planking institutions.

The police charged the society with striving to create a food panic throughout the country, thus exciting the resentment of the population and preparing the ground for overthrow of the proletarian dictatorship. It was the purpose of the conspirators, the authorities said, to establish instead a bourgeois democracy.

The society, which is headed by Prof. Alexander Ryazantsev, chairman of the meats products department of the commissariat, formerly a rich landowner and general in the Czarist army, included scores of high officials in all branches of the Soviet food producing and distributing institutions. Most of the members of the society and former noblemen, Czarist officers, manufacturers and property owners.

According to a confession which the secret police claim to have secured the Ryazantsev society was initiated and subsidized by a British meat packing firm, "union storage company," through its Russian representative named Fothergill.

Ryazantsev, the alleged confession narrated, admitted receiving £10,000 from Fothergill for his part in the conspiracy.

The counter-revolutionists will be tried by a police body instead of the supreme court.

TRADE JOURNAL MEN SEE REVIVAL SIGNS

RESUME PUT ON RADIO

Signs of a revival in business are apparent in several basic fields of industry in this country, trade journal editors declared yesterday at a conference with President Hoover and in brief talks over the Columbia Broadcasting System network last night. The editors during the day attended the National Conference of Business Paper Editors.

Predictions of particular favorable developments in agriculture, residential building, and the automobile industry were promised.

"We should take pride in the fact that this Nation has been able to weather a prolonged depression without curtailment in the real essentials of life," Paul I. Aldrich, editor of the National Provisioner, told the Chief Executive.

Good Seen in Drought.

While stating that the "farm problem is no myth" and that he sees no return of boom prices, Mr. Aldrich added that he believed the drought had a silver lining in that it "promises to give agriculture a better return for its 1930 production than seemed possible in the face of the bumper corn crop and enormous wheat surplus."

Norman G. Shidle, editor of Automotive Industries, predicted over the radio that the automobile business during the next three months will be better than at any other quarter this year. The total output should run behind the similar quarter of 1929 by only about 15 per cent, he said.

While admitting that residential building had suffered a "severe decline," and had been offset only by record-breaking construction of public works and utilities, Thomas S. Holden, of the F. W. Dodge publications, expressed the belief that "residential building depression may be coming to a close and we may shortly see a revival in this important activity."

Bottom Thought Struck.

G. S. Stowell, of the Architectural Forum, told President Hoover that the building industry had "struck bottom" and that "we can not expect it to pick up materially until next spring."

A resume of what Government officials are doing to offset the effects of the depression was given over the air by Paul Wooten, Washington correspondent of the McGraw-Hill publications.

Discussing American exports, Wallace Thompson, editor of Ingenieria Internacional, said "prospects for a revival within a relatively brief space of time are excellent."

CHICAGO EXCHANGE BANS SHIRT SLEEVES

GUARDS ENFORCE RULE

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Gone are the days when a man could take off his coat, or even put his feet on his desk and relax.

"You'll have to put on your coat, sir," says Cris, veteran board of trade policeman, in a way that makes you believe he means it.

"But we're hot, we don't want to put on our coats," is the reply.

All to no avail. Visitors and employes at the Board of Trade Building who were brash enough to appear in their shirt sleeves met a frown on the face of the guard at the door, met raised eyebrows on the map of the guard at the elevators and got the bum's rush from Cris, dignified guard at the door of the trading floor.

"Such deshabille is distinctly a faux pas," said Cris. "Besides, this is a high class place."

It all started when a well-known member of the board of trade took his collegiate son to see the pit. The youth was dressed in the latest toggery styles, with knickers, hose and sweater to match.

"You'll have to find him a coat," said Cris. "I don't care if you're President Hoover, you'll have to find him a coat."

A subsequent conference with the floor committee, composed of four members of the board, revealed that Cris was right.

"Button up your overcoat" and other sartorial ditties occupied the minds of the coat-conscious guards as they tripped hither and yon in an attempt to bag a coatless victim.

"Why not?" asked one of the traders. "All the guards are dressed neatly in polka gray, all the messengers in light blue, and even the traders and clerks wear gray linen coats so that everything will harmonize with the silver and gray of the room."

The ruling made by the board of trade is expected to spread to the entire building and may be adopted by other loop district buildings.

There still are 40 horse-drawn cabs in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Schall and Girl, Injured, Improve

Senator's Son and Companion Slightly Better After Car Collision.

Slight improvement was noted yesterday in the condition of both Thomas D. Schall, jr., 20-year-old son of the blind senator from Minnesota, and Miss Alice Kreps, of Baltimore, who were hurt Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck at Riverdale, Md.

Both were at Sibley Hospital, where the young man's mother, Mrs. Thomas D. Schall, was reported in "a very weak condition" after collapsing Sunday at the hospital from shock and nervousness resulting from her son's accident.

Schall suffered hurts about the head, internal injuries and a broken leg and arm, while Miss Kreps sustained a fractured skull.

Shopping With Bab

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: You will of course want to go to that swank fashion show which will take place in one of the loveliest shops on Connecticut avenue this afternoon. In fact, you will do well to keep in close touch with all the shops these days, as the wonderful things arriving are too wonderful to miss.

Schwartz Will Be Open Tomorrow

—and will be ready to show you all the wonderful fall models in sport coats which, they feature this year. This is the first time you have been able to buy coats at Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue, and you will decide when you see them, that it is the first time you have been able to buy such lovely coats at the price, anywhere.

A red basket-weave with collar and cuffs of Persian lamb, a gray and black herring-bone tweed with caracul sleeves and stole, are outstanding in the collection. Prices are from $65 to $89.50.

Mme. Florenz Has Become the Rendezvous

—for Connecticut avenue shoppers since her opening last week.

Mme. Florenz, second floor 1145 Connecticut avenue, features charming frocks at small prices. When you have seen the adorable little models at $15 to $59.50 you will realize that this is one autumn when you may be attractively gowned at a small cost.

Mme. Florenz's salon presents a perfect lounge for you while you wait to meet your companions in shopping, your luncheon guest or some member of your family. To have a place so conveniently situated where you know you are always perfectly welcome is a privilege. Mme. Florenz is most gracious, and will show you the models whether you are ready to buy or not.

Avignone Freres Are Famous

—for ices and confections and French pastries. Their Salon d'Epicure is unique in that it makes available rare delicacies of all kinds which you imagine can be procured only at your favorite place in Paris.

Avignone Freres, 1777 Columbia road, has a mezzanine restaurant, where luncheon and dinner are served daily and Sundays. Light luncheons, fountain service and so on are available all day and all evening.

The most attractive feature to the hostess is the dependability of Avignone Freres, for when you order ices or desserts you know they will be delivered exactly when you want them.

Affectionately,

Bab

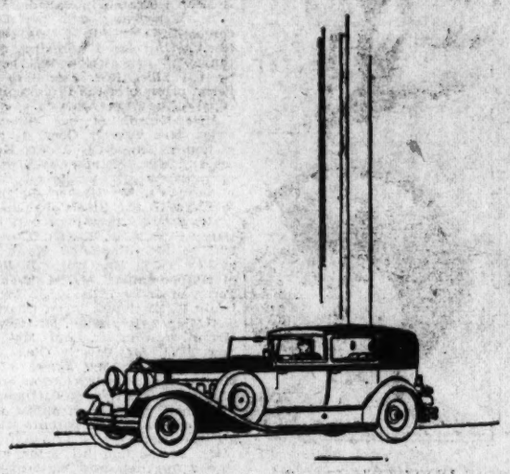
CARS



PACKARD announces a new and distinguished series of Individual Custom cars—designed and built entirely within the Packard factory itself.

These cars are for those who wish and can afford the expression of their own individualities in exceptional designs created expressly for them. After thirty years of experience in catering to the most discriminating and exacting motor car clientele on earth, Packard feels confident that its new Individual Custom factory is producing masterpieces of coachwork surpassing the finest previously available on any chassis.

Though Packard Individual Custom bodies are primarily designed for the De Luxe Chassis they also may be had on a shorter wheelbase if desired. A wide range of body types are included, each available in any color and upholstery you may select from an unlimited choice.

These new custom-built Packard creations represent the supreme achievement of the world's largest builder of truly fine cars. He who owns a Packard-designed, Packard-built, Individual Custom car can truly feel that he commands the world's most distinguished and luxurious transportation.

You are cordially invited to confer with us if you are interested in being one of the few our custom factory can serve this year. Though production will be necessarily limited, prompt action will assure early delivery.

Good handwriting is a business and social asset. Start your child right. Talk to his writing teacher. Learn how important it is that every school child should have a good pen with just the right type of pen point.

Waterman's make their own pen points themselves. Buy the gold from the United States Mint, melt it in their own plant, and carry out every step of casting, rolling, stamping, tempering, tipping with everlasting metal for long wear, and grinding to more than ball-bearing smoothness.

They've been doing so for 47 years. Perhaps this is one reason why many people say "Waterman's write better."

There's a Waterman's to suit every purse. The pens illustrated are $4 and $5—many others higher or lower in price. All are fine writing instruments—and all will write even better if you use Waterman's Ink. For school use Waterman's new Blue Ink is particularly good—a clear, bright blue, easy to read and easy on the eyes.

Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service Stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

CHILE REVOLT FAILS; U. S. FLIERS SEIZED

Two Americans Whose Plane Carried Alleged Plotters to Concepcion Held.

NATION UNDER CONTROL

Santiago de Chile, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Chilean minister of the interior, at the request of President Carlos Ibanez, tonight informed the Associated Press the names of the two American aviators held by Chilean authorities after a revolutionary attempt at the city of Conception yesterday were Edward Orville de Larin and Reed Smith Doyle.

They were flying a trimotor Fokker. Though being held by the government, they will not be court-martialed.

The aviators will be tried on the charge of having violated the laws and regulations of the country regarding forbidden air routes and landing places. If a military investigation committee discovers they have had any part in the attempted uprising, they will be subject to court-martial.

Flight Was Forbidden.

Carlos Froedden, the minister of the interior, asserted that order prevails throughout Chile, and that the government had found it unnecessary to take general measures. He said the incident at Concecion was purely local.

To the Associated Press Senor Froedden gave the following official account of the revolutionary attempt.

"At two minutes past 4 p. m. yesterday a tri-motor Foker airplane, piloted by Edward Orville de Larin and Reed Smith Doyle, landed at a place called Hualpen, near Concepcion.

"The authorities of the province, in view of the fact that the airplane infringed the laws and regulations of the country by flying over a forbidden route and landing place ordered that the airmen be detained with their airplane, pending instructions from the government.

Effor to Stir Revolt.

"Later the authorities in Concepcion and the commander of the Chacabuco regiment learned that Col. Marmaduke Grove, of the army, and the former general, Enrique Bravo, with the civilians Luis Salas Romo, Carlos Vicuna Fuentes and Pedro Leon Ugalde, had addressed the regiment and attempted to influence the soldiers to revolt against their superior officers and against the government.

"Gen. Victor Figueroa, intendente of the province, and the commander of the regiment, ordered their detention. They were taken to military headquarters with Luis Sanchez, who joined them there, and later to the naval station at Talcahuano, pending further instructions.

"At dawn today they were taken aboard the destroyer Riveros, anchored off Quiripina Island, near Talcahuano.

Court Martial Looms.

"The provost general, Pedro Charpon, and the advocate general, Augustin Vigorena, went by airplane from Santiago to Concepcion, reaching there this afternoon. They immediately started a military investigation in conformity with the military penal code.

"The pilots will be examined for having violated the air laws, and may be subjected to court martial to ascertain what, if any, part they had in the attempted uprising.

"News from Concepcion and other parts of the country proves that the incident was purely local. It had no repercussions. Order prevails throughout the country, and theh government has found it unnecessary to adopt other measures."

Buenos Aires, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Telegraph and telephone communications were reported today to have been interrupted in Chile between Santiago and Valparaiso and the southern city of Concepcion, where an insurgent movement against the Chilean government was attempted.

Well informed circles tonight expressed the belief that unexpected events may happen across the Andes. They gave little credit to official dispatches from Santiago stating that everything was calm after failure of revolutionary attempt at Concepcion. These dispatches have been chiefly transcriptions of official communiques.

It is widely believed in Buenos Aires that the insurgent movement in the third largest Chilean city was carefully prepared. It is thought to have received strong support from Chilean military and naval forces.

Fire Causes $20,000 Damage to Angerona

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 22.—Fire today did $20,000 damage to Angerona, large, three-story brick home of the late Thomas Cover, ar., wealthy leather merchant and tanner, formerly used as a girls' school. The building was unoccupied, and fire had gained great headway before discovery. The entire rear wings were leveled and portions of the main structure were swept by flames.

The house was erected 130 years ago, and utilized many years as an insane asylum. Among relics destroyed were wooden stocks and other devices for controlling mental defectives, as well as punishing slaves. Harry M. Sartelle, owner, said the loss was covered by insurance.

Silver Spring Telephone Lines to Be Extended

An appropriation of $13,750 has been made by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for extension of the underground cable system in Silver Spring, Md. Six thousand feet of cables, part of the wiring which serves the 2,623 phones in the Maryland town, will be placed underground. Much of it will serve areas which are rapidly being developed.

The new appropriation, made last week, brings the total sum to be spent on similar work in the State this year to $6,393,653. The number of telephones added to the Silver Spring section this year is 161, according to Henry C. Ransom, manager of the company.

German Cavalry Leader Dead.

Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Gen. Baron Ludwig von Gebsattel died today after an operation at the age of 73. He was one of the foremost German cavalry leaders, and during the World War commanded the Third Bavarian Army Corps. He was on Field Marshal Waldersee's staff in the China expedition in 1900.

NERVOUSNESS BALKS NEW CRATER INQUIRY

Missing Judge's Wife in Too Serious State to Be Questioned.

CHAUFFEUR IS GRILLED

Augusta, Me., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Stella Crater, wife of Justice Joseph Force Crater, of the New York Supreme Court, who has been missing since August 6, was in such a nervous condition today she was not questioned at her Belgrade Lakes summer home.

She was to have been questioned by Capt. Joseph F. Young, jr., deputy chief of the State highway police, but, on representations by her brother-in-law, H. G. Herbert, of Yonkers, N. Y., that her condition was serious, it was decided to wait a few days.

Capt. Young did, however, question the Crater chauffeur, Fred Kohler, and maid, Mrs. Margaret Lynch. From them he learned they and Mrs. Crater had been questioned yesterday by Detective Sergts. Edward Fitzgerald and Morton S. Owens, of New York.

Fitzgerald, a close friend of the Crater family, said today his questioning elicited no information not already in their possession.

Kohler told Capt. Young of the missing jurist's last visit to his Belgrade Lakes home, and of his leaving, August 2, since which time he had not been seen by any of his family.

Failure to question Mrs. Crater today left problematical whether she or others at the house would be summoned before the Kennebec County grand jury here next week, or that the cottage, grounds and lake would be searched on a theory Crater met with foul play.

Many of these ads will bring "Today's Results Today" and many new offers will appear here again tomorrow.

Behind the Screens

With DON B. REED

IT comes to this department on authority that ought to be thoroughly reliable that the Warner Bros. interests in this territory, headed by John J. Payette, are negotiating for the purchase of the Universal lease on Tom Moore's Rialto Theater on Ninth street.

According to our informant, the deal has been pending for some weeks with every indication that it will go through within a comparatively short time. If the rumor is true, the situation for the Warner houses in the Capital will be something to perplex the most active minds of the business.

Having broken off with Paramount, the Warner Bros. houses in this territory now have only Warner and First National pictures to keep two houses, the Earle and Metropolitan, operating full blast. Just what they will do with a third house, if they obtain the Rialto, is something most of the boys are unable to answer.

However, so the story goes, the Rialto, being off the beaten track of downtown first-run houses, will be used for second-run pictures. In other words, it will be a neighborhood house in the downtown section, if you follow me.

A change at the Rialto would be no surprise. The Universal outfit has had little luck operating the Ninth street house, long periods of darkness alternating with short periods of not-so-hot business and it is known that the heads of the Universal company long ago began looking for some one to take the theater off their hands. But then again "All Quiet on the Western Front" may reestablish the Rialto as a place where folks gather for the best in films and then the deal will collapse as have so many others.

Another conference in the musicians-theater owners controversy is scheduled today in New York. Last night A. C. Hayden, president, and J. C. Birdsell, secretary, of the local union of musicians, departed for the big town where they will go into another huddle with high officials of the large theater chains in an effort to iron out the tangle which threatens to leave the Capital's houses without musicians at the end of this week. Just what will happen remains a deep, dark secret. Yesterday, pinch-hitting for the regular conductor of this column, your correspondent received two very high class tips. One was to the effect that everything was set for a settlement with "living music" to remain in the theaters. And ten minutes later the other tip was brought in. It was along the idea that when next week's shows open here, not a note will be played from the pits. All of which leads me to think so. Don't you?

There being a great silence in the office last night as I struggled to fill this space, it was with real pleasure that I welcomed "Doc" Baker, who this week is mystifying the customers at the Fox with his lightning changes of clothing. "Doc" is no stranger to Washington audiences, but this year is putting on an even snappier act than usual. One reason for the snappiness is that he can easily impersonate a female character. As "Doc" playfully explains it, "one duck and let it drop" and this year's dress is on. And if you have seen the Fox, and expect to learn that "Doc" has a twin brother who comes on and off stage every other turn you are mistaken. There's only one of him, he actually makes all the changes in record time and the clothes he uses are made exactly like the clothes he wears on the street. That is to say, there are no trick costumes. True the suits used in the act are reinforced for the rough wear they get, but "Doc" says that any man, woman or child could make the changes as rapidly as he does if they prepared and practiced as diligently. So don't be discouraged. Go home and try to dress in four seconds, but don't blame me if you can't find the collar button. "Doc" always has his in the same place.

Now that Nelson has started for Hains Point, if I could only get two weeks vacation to rest up from the one I just had, everything would be lovely.

Well, Bill Ewing ought to feel satisfied this morning. The Earle certainly got plenty of publicity yesterday.

A great many of these ads were ordered by telephone to Post Ad Writers, who can be reached by calling National 4205.

THE CAPITAL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

HENRY PHIPPS DIES; WAS STEEL LEADER

Philanthropist Whose Life Paralleled Carnegie's Is Dead at 90.

PROVIDED CLINIC FUNDS

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Henry Phipps, whose rise from shoemaker's son to ironmaster paralleled the career of the late Andrew Carnegie, his friend and associate, died today at his home, Bonny Brink, Great Neck, Long Island, in his ninety-first year.

Since his retirement from business in 1901, he had devoted himself to philanthropic activities. He made extensive donations to health and welfare activities in Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York.

He was born in Philadelphia in 1839, son of Henry and Hannah Franks Phipps. His parents recently had come from England, where the Phipps family dated back to the thirteenth century. During his school days Phipps formed lasting friendships with the Carnegie brothers, Andrew and Thomas, and with Thomas N. Miller, all of whom later were associated in the steel industry.

He entered the iron business by becoming a silent partner in the manufacturing firm of Kloman & Phipps. Reorganization of the business brought Thomas M. Carnegie in as a partner. This was the entrance of the Carnegie brothers into the iron business and the first step in the accumulation of their vast fortunes. Soon afterward a new company, the Union Iron Mills, was organized with Andrew Carnegie.

Thereafter, Mr. Phipps was associated with the Carnegie interests throughout their steady advance to leadership in the steel industry. When the assets of the Carnegie Steel Co. was sold to the United States Steel Corporation in 1901 he retired to devote himself to philanthropy.

He founded in Philadelphia the Henry Phipps Institute for the treatment, study and prevention of tuberculosis, later transferring it to the University of Pennsylvania to be conducted as a department of the university. In 1903 he established a tuberculosis clinic at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore to be conducted by the late Sir William Osler. Later he erected there, at a cost of $800,000, the Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic.

G. B. Schadmann, School Head, Dies

Capital Education Prepared Many for Annapolis and West Point.

Arrangements are being made for the funeral of George B. Schadmann, head of the Columbia Preparatory School of this city, who died early Sunday morning.

Mr. Schadmann had prepared hundreds of young men for Annapolis and West Point. Close friends say that he sent approximately 1,000 students to each intsitution. His graduates are said to be represented on every ship in the United States Navy. His name is known throughout the country and in many parts of the world, friends and graduates declare.

Mr. Schadmann had taught in Washington for 40 years, organizing the Columbia School 22 years ago. He was a native of Williamsport, and burial is expected to be made at this place on Wednesday. The body is at the Wright Undertaking Parlors. Mr. Schadmann is survived by two brothers and two sisters. He was 65 years old. He made his home at 1444 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

LIEUT. CAVENAUGH RITES.

Funeral Services Will Be Held Tomorrow in Capital.

The body of Lieut. Allen A. Cavenaugh, of the United States Cavalry, who was drowned on August 14 at Lake Champlain while attempting to rescue his wife, Mrs. Marion W. Cavenaugh, and several girls at a summer camp, will be brought to Washington for burial this afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Fort Myer Chapel. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery. Lieut. Cavenaugh was the son of Gen. H. L. Cavenaugh.

MRS. EVERETT RITES.

Private Services Will Be Held Tonight in Capital.

Mrs. Mary A. Everett, a resident of Washington for the past 20 years, died yesterday at the residence, 1302 Irving street northwest, after a brief illness. Private funeral services will be held at the residence this evening with the Rev. Henry H. Ranck, of the Grace Reform Church, officiating. The body will be sent to Williamsport, Pa., for burial.

Mrs. Everett was a native of Williamsport. Her husband, Samuel W. Everett, died here in 1918. Six children survive, Oscar E., Maud E. Everett and Mrs. L. D. Bushong, of this city, and Mrs. I. F. Schweiker and Roy S. Everett, of Williamsport, and Mrs. H. J. Biondi, of Hyattsville.

MICHAEL O'HALLORAN RITES.

Body to Be Brought Here for Burial Beside His Wife.

The body of Michael O'Halloran, who died Sunday at his residence in Chicago, will be brought here tomorrow for burial beside that of his wife in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Although a native of Ireland and a resident of Chicago for 50 years, he spent his boyhood in Washington.

A son, Thomas J. O'Halloran, of 4301 Ridge road southeast, survives. Funeral services will be held Thursday with requiem mass at the Immaculate Conception Church, Eighth and N streets northwest, at 9:30 a. m.

Father of Harding Secretary Expires

Col. George B. Christian, 83, Was Cavalry Private in Civil War.

Word has been received in Washington of the recent death of Col. George B. Christian, pioneer journalist of Marion County, Ohio, and father of George B. Christian, jr., former secretary to President Harding. Mr. Christian is now a Washington resident.

Col. Christian served as a private in the Cavalry during the Civil War and was later given the honorary title of colonel by vote of his detachment. He was 83 years old. A native of Marion County, he was prominently identified with the life of his community for many years. He edited the Marion Mirror in the 70s, and more than 50 years ago he served as county surveyor and deputy county auditor.

Col. Christian was a member and past commander of the Marion County G. A. R. Post and was the oldest member of the Marion Lodge of Masons. He was also a charter member of the Elks Lodge.

For many years he was a leading figure in the lime and stone quarry industry of his State.

Aaron David, 66, Dies Suddenly

Retired Real Estate Man Came to Washington From Columbia, S. C.

Aaron David, retired real estate operator of 3408 Macomb street northwest, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in a drug store at 3300 Wisconsin avenue, where he had gone for a purchase. He was 66 years old. Dr. F. M. McChesney, who was called from his nearby office, attributed death to a heart attack. Mr. David came to Washington ten years ago from Columbia, S. C., where he was a member of the city council.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of the S. H. Hines Co., where it will remain until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be taken to Columbia, S. C., for interment.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Edmonds David; a son, Aaron Edmonds David, 16, and the following brothers and sisters: Solomon M. David, of Columbia, S. C.; Levi H. David, of Washington; Ben F. David, of Augusta, Ga., and Mrs. L. H. Joseph and Mrs. H. S. Fox, both of Columbia, S. C.

MRS. MARY SMITH DEAD.

Widow of A. D. Smith Had Resided in Washington Fifty Years.

Mrs. Mary Smith, 79 years old, of 1621 Montague street northwest, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hosital following an operation.

Mrs. Smith was the widow of Alexander Douglas Smith, who died only three weeks ago. She had lived in Washington for more than 50 years, coming here from County Galway, Ireland.

Survivors of Mrs. Smith include one son, John D. Smith, of Washington, and four daughters, Mrs. Mary Green and Mrs. E. Elsworth Moore, of this city, and Mrs. Thomas B. Goodwin, Beverly Hills, California, and Mrs. Ann X. Buschbaum, of Phillipsburg, N. J. One nephew, Dr. Charles L. Dugan, of Washington, also survives her.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at the Church of the Nativity at 9 o'clock, followed by interment in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Services Are Set For S. O. W. Beall

Derwood Man to Be Buried Tomorrow in Cemetery at Rockville.

Funeral services for Samuel O. W. Beall, of Derwood, Md., who died Sunday on his seventy-fifth birthday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Travilah Baptist Church. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery.

The remains will rest in the Colonial funeral home of W. R. Pumphrey, jr., at Rockville until the funeral. Six grandsons of Mr. Beall will act as pallbearers. They are Philip W. Brown, Carl D. Brown, Methel Brown, Harry C. Mills, Wilby Mills and A. Samuel Hunter.

Mr. Beall is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. A. P. Brown, of Montrose, Md.; Mrs. E. T. Foster, of Travilah, Md.; Mrs. Irene Mills, of Washington; a son, William Otha Beall, of Derwood, Md.; twelve grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

EDWARD HENDERSON RITES.

Services Will Be Held This Morning at Rockville Church.

Funeral services for Edward Henderson, 81 years old, of Olney, Md., who died Saturday at his home, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Rockville, Md. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. Henderson was prominent in Knights of Columbus Circles. A large delegation of county Knights visited the home last night to pay their respects. He was a retired farmer and had been a resident of the Olney section all of his life.

MISS MARY OSTERMAN DIES.

Three Daughters Share S. W. Straus Estate

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Simon William Straus, banker and financier, bequeathed a large part of an estate of unannounced value to his three daughters, his will, filed today, disclosed.

With exception of specific bequests, the will decreed that all his property shall be held in trust for Mrs. Herbert S. Martin, Mrs. Louis Celestin and Mrs. Vladimir B. Rachevsky, the daughters. Mrs. Rachevsky also received $100,000 outright.

Mr. Straus' widow was not mentioned, because he made provision for her support some years ago. Charity received $100,000.

Guards and Coal Mine Workers Stage Battle

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Employes and guards of the Empire coal mine No. 6 engaged in a gun fight today with several men who fired from ambush, but no one was injured. The arrival of Sheriff Brown and three deputies ended the fighting.

Bert Baker, 40, former employe of the mine, was arrested after two men told Sheriff Brown they recognized him as one of the attackers. About 100 rifle shots were fired in the clash.

The Empire mine No. 6, 18 miles from here, ordinarily employs 75 men, but since an electric transformer was dynamited last week only about 25 have been at work.

Lions Clubs Will Raise Funds for Farm Relief

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Funds for the relief of farmers in drought areas will be raised and distributed by the Lions Clubs of the United States, Earl W. Hodges, of New York City, international president, announced today.

Directors of the international club, representing 2,250 groups with 80,000 members in America, at a meeting today completed a relief program to be carried out in cooperation with local governments and chambers of commerce. Mr. Hodges said the club would endeavor to stimulate prosperity with its "confidence in business" week during October.

Plane Flies Over Arctic To Get Ill Ship Skipper

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Flying over the wastes of the Siberian Arctic on an errand of mercy, Pilot Frank Dorbandt and his mechanic reached the icebound motor ship Karlse yesterday and removed the skipper, Capt. A. P. Jochimsen, who is critically ill. Capt. Jochimsen was taken to Teller, Alaska, north of here, and was expected to be brought to Nome today for treatment.

Dorbandt used the only plane in the north equipped with pontoons in making the trip to Cape Serdge, Siberia, 250 miles northwest of here, where the Karlse is held by the ice. He landed and took off from open water near the vessel.

Man Dies, Friend Hurt As Auto Strikes Tree

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., Sept. 22.—James Thompson, 21 years old, a graduate of the Harpers Ferry High School, was instantly killed near Shepherdstown on the highway late yesterday evening. He and Howard Grove, also of Harpers Ferry, were traveling in a roadster, presumably at a high rate of speed, and struck a tree. Grove suffered a broken back and is now in a hospital.

Mr. Thompson's funeral will be held Wednesday morning from St. Peter's Catholic Church, Harpers Ferry, with interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

Many of the offers presented here will be gone tomorrow.

AMOCO-GAS

AUTOMOBILE manufacturers recognize that there is more than one market for motor cars. Some people want a large car—some are content with a more compact, less expensive model.

Leading makers cater to both markets. And The American Oil Company follows the same policy. In the field of regular-priced gasolines, there is the NEW Orange American gas—a wonderful value, a truly great regular gasoline. And in the premium motor fuel field, there's Amoco-Gas, first to enter the field and first in performance and economy today as always!

But remember this! While Amoco-Gas costs more than regular gas at the pump—it's really far cheaper by the mile. And low cost per mile is what counts!

EXTENSIVE BUYING URGED BY SPEAKER

DROP IN PRICE SHOWN

Buy now, for "this is the best time to buy that has existed in several years," declared Rufus S. Lusk, statistical expert, in a radio address sponsored by the Washington Board of Trade last night over Station WJSV.

"Not only are prices cheaper, but because jobs are scarcer men are doing more and better work," he continued. "This is the reason that it is a good time to fix up your house, paper that room that looks badly, paint up the outside, perhaps, change your plumbing and heating equipment, buy some new furniture, in short, do many things that you have intended doing for a long time. You will get your work done cheaper than you would have a year or two ago and you will provide work for those who need it, and you will do your bit toward restoring confidence in the business of the country. Prosperity will return just that much quicker.

"The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has stated that in January they expect to be 2½ per cent above normal, and if that prediction comes true we certainly can hope for better times during the latter part of the winter and good times next spring.

Wholesale Prices Off Sharply.

"According to the latest reports of the Department of Commerce, wholesale prices are 16 to 17 per cent lower than in 1926. They are 10 per cent lower than in December last year. Practically every car on the market has cut its price considerably this year.

"Tonight I called up one of Washington's largest and best department stores, asking them to give me specific instances of price reductions. They could have given me a page full. Remember these are standard everyday prices. If you were thinking last winter of paying $100 for a new rug for your living room, you can now buy the same rug for $90. New linoleum for your kitchen is 10 to 25 per cent less; you can place new rayon curtains and draperies throughout the house and spend from 10 to 25 per cent less than last winter. Many articles of furniture have been cut 10 per cent.

Furs Drop 30 Per cent.

"Silk hose have been cut 15 per cent, and furs have dropped from 10 to 30 per cent. Women and misses coats are down 10 to 20 per cent. Crepe de chine is 15 per cent less a yard than it was a year ago. Here is a word for the kiddies. Tell your dad that if he is going to give you an electric train this year, he is making a wise decision, because he can get it for 5 per cent less than last Christmas.

"Money rates are low, the banks have ample deposits, commodity prices have dropped considerably and the surpluses of various kinds of manufactured articles are used up, so that it must follow that in the not far distant future in order to supply our people with needed goods, there must be an increase of production. More money will be spent and prosperity may return."

Ewald Prosecutor Sees Speedy Trial

Statement Made by Todd After Arraignment in New York.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Speedy trial of the four persons indicted for the alleged purchase of George F. Ewald's appointment as city magistrate was predicted today by Hiram C. Todd, special prosecutor before the extraordinary grand jury which returned the indictments.

Mr. Todd said that the case probably would be disposed of before November. His statement followed arraignment of Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, and Thomas T. Tommaney, resigned sheriff's clerk, on charges of having offered to procure Ewald's appointment for a consideration. Healy allegedly received $10,000 from Mrs. Ewald through Tommaney.

Healy and Tommaney pleaded not guilty before Supreme Court Justice McCook, who fixed bail at $2,500. Mr. and Mrs. Ewald, the other two indicted in the case, pleaded not guilty Saturday to charges of having paid for the appointment and were held for trial in similar bail. Justice McCook set October 6 as the date for hearing motions concerning all four defendants.

Florida Republican Senator Dies.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Sept. 22 (A.P.). State Senator Albert R. Welsh, the only Republican in the Florida Senate since reconstruction days, died today at his home here. He was 70.

At the Age Women Dread

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. After that I had to lie down often. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little schoolgirls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better."—Mrs. Della Hutsell, 623 East 1st Street, Casper, Wyoming.

Higher Social and Economic Basis Urged For Domestic Workers in Washington

Importance of Livelihood Declared Requiring Recognition.

The domestic worker of Washington is as anxiously looking for the perfect household in which to work as the homemaker is for the perfect servant. There are two sides to every human story and the civic conscious realizes that the servant problem is not created by either mistress or maid alone.

In the early hours of each morning an army of domestic workers appear on our streets, in the cars and buses, bound for their places of employment. Studying this group it can be readily seen that its members are neater, cleaner and more wide-awake than similar groups ten or fifteen years ago. Naturally, with this progression has come new desires about living wages, working hours and opportunities for advancement.

The greatest drawback of domestic service has been that it has carried with it the implication of a form of service with which are associated subserviency and a social stigma. This odium is partly due to tradition, partly to the lack of financial and social advancement for persons engaged in domestic service, and partly to the present custom of applying the term "servants" to such workers and of viewing them as a class apart. Foreign-born persons newly arrived in this country in many cases are not unwilling to enter domestic service, but eventually they make an effort to break away from it in order to go into work that appears to them to be on a higher plane.

Better Social Basis Needed.

All those who have made a study of the question point out that the failure to adjust conditions and to make domestic work attractive as a means of livelihood is caused by a lack of recognition of its importance and the necessity of putting it on a better economic and social basis.

In a report on domestic service submitted by the Industrial Commission of the United States it was stated: "There is no other branch of labor which directly affects so many people as does household labor, yet there is no branch of labor which has received so little scientific attention from either economists or people generally. In the wages paid to domestic employes alone, without reckoning the value of the board and lodging applied to them, fully $200,000,000 is expended annually. Any other industry which involved the expenditure of so large an amount of money in wages would not be left out of the field of economic discussion and investigation."

The Young Women's Christian Association has made a study of the situation and in one of its bulletins the following remedy was suggested: "When employers adopt for their households a business basis, systematizing the work, regulating hours, granting the worker sufficient time and freedom to live a normal life among her own people, then both educators and girls will be more than glad to do their part in meeting the demand for trained service. The results to be obtained by an adjustment of household employment to meet the fundamental requirements of a good job are so full of promise for the peace and comfort of the home that it is impossible to think that employers will longer delay the venture."

White domestic workers in the District of Columbia comprise only about 5 per cent of the total number engaged in this occupation. This is out of proportion, of course, with the percentage prevailing in cities north of Mason and Dixon's line, but it is higher than in most Southern cities. Even this percentage of white domestic workers would not be maintained were it not for the fact that hotels and similar places of public service, as a rule, employ white domestics and that newcomers to official Washington frequently bring white domestics with them from other parts of the country.

Amazing Stories Narrated.

A little investigation into the maid's side of the servant problem reveals some amazing stories. It is surprising how much thought these workers have given to their condition and how the leaven of desire for better economic conditions is working among them.

At first glance, it would seem that the servant who could obtain a room as well as board at her place of employment had the advantage over the worker who must face the problem of paying for rent, heat and light from her none-too-bountiful wage.

Strange to say, often this would mean the sacrifice of her few hours of liberty after her day's work is done. The experience of one maid in this regard will speak for many of them. She is a sensible girl who goes to night school after her day's work is done. At her place of employment is a really attractive room that is at her service. But she prefers to pay rent for a room. The maid lived in the room at her employer's house for a time. But she soon found out that the old adage "that a woman's work is never done" applied to her, at least. After the dinner dishes were washed and put neatly away she could not retire to her room to rest and read. Calls would come for ice water and even for refreshments at late hours, and on one occasion she was aroused out of bed at 12:30 at night to cook bacon and eggs for the young people of the household and their friends, home hungry after a party. Furthermore, her mistress objected to her leaving the house even after her work was done to attend night school and the occasional entertainments at her school.

Another maid who liked her place found it simply impossible to live in the tiny room converted to that use from a former status as a clothes closet. There was no bath which she might use or other facilities.

No Suitable Place to Live.

Therefore when you see a distracted look on your maid's face it is often because she has her own homemaking problems to find a suitable place in which to live. Many of the best servants appear to spend much of their time "room hunting" or in search of "apartments" if they are married women. The price charged for rooms for such a group is out of proportion with the accommodations they receive for their money; $20 a month is the average charge; sometimes a room can be found for $15 or $18, but frequently these are most unsatisfactory. It can be seen how few dollars are left out of a $10 a week wage after rent, heat and light are paid.

With unemployment staring her husband in the face, the married servant finds the question of where to live a very serious one. The homemaking instinct persists in the housewerker despite all the disillusionment of her daily tasks. Yet she finds few furnished or unfurnished rooms, especially in the poorer quarters of the city, which are really homelike. Apartments available for colored families in houses and apartment houses rent for about $35 a month for living room, bedroom, bath, and, perhaps, a kitchenette.

Sometimes the problem of making ends meet on current salaries for house workers is complicated by the fact that employers do not always pay their servants' wages promptly, and frequently instead of giving them the whole wage "owe them something." This custom does not prevail alone in the homes of those who have servants they can ill afford but in certain substantial homes as well. One maid complained that her mistress even borrowed from her savings and was slow in repaying the loans to her. Another maid could not leave her undesirable place of employment because she was owed three months' back wages. Finally the mistress moved out of town without paying the maid the final $10 due to her.

The married maid must consider the problem of food. If her husband and herself are both employed where they are given their meals this trouble is met. But sometimes only the wife had food provided at her place of employment. One maid, a willing worker left a good position because the food allotted to her was so scanty that she was not being properly nourished.

Carry Dinners Home.

It will be noticed that maids and cooks in Washington often carry their dinners home to their families instead of eating them at their places of employment. This is a cause of much friction between maids and mistresses. The mistress thinks this means that extra food is carried out. And often it does. The maids point out that they only take the leftover food which will not be served again.

Talking to the maid on this subject The Post reporter was told although she had two small sisters at home to support one of her employers had instructed her to throw out the food not to be served again rather than let her maid develop "the carrying home habit."

Adjustment on Business Lines Recommended by Commission.

Too much work to do and too little time in which to do it is the universal complaint of the Washington domestic. How much of this complaint is justified only individual investigation could discover. From the maid's side of the story after hours work without even thanks or a gratuity would seem to be an injustice. A certain maid who complained declared that for a week her mistress kept her until 9 o'clock each night, although her agreement called for 7:30 p. m. release and that she had only permitted her one of her weekly afternoons off in six months.

Nurse maid tales provide a story sufficient in itself. A prize one was told by a cheerful round-faced little colored maid from Virginia, called in to be the special guardian of a three-year-old child, between her daily duties as housemaid, cook and laundress.

An Infant Terrible.

The tiny charge was a charge indeed. The family table could not be set in the ordinary way with dishes, silverware and glasses, because the tiny maiden would watch her opportunity to pull them off and crash them on the floor. It took eternal vigilance to keep "the baby" from creating general household havoc. The family was forced to seat itself at the table and then the maid would hand them their dishes and silverware. Playful little baby watching meanwhile, for a chance to knock them unreproved by her parents from the maid's hands.

When this Infant Terrible was taken into the park for an airing, she would scream and run away from her nurse, hit other children playing near, and always sit down in a puddle of water, if one were convenient. Her parents believed in individual expression for children, but they lost a good maid. Her nerves could not stand the strain of coping with baby's ideas of personal freedom.

Another maid said she left her place of employment because the family was always late for dinner, and another gave as her reason the cooking of special meals for a spoiled boy, serving it in addition to the family dinner when the menu offered did not please him.

That is the servant's brief in the Court of Washington Domestic Service. Where will be found the Solomon who can render wise decision in this vexing homemaking problem?

Easterwood Will Give Coste Check October 13

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Col. W. F. Easterwood, jr., Dallas, Tex., banker, set October 13 today as the day on which he will present to Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte a check for $25,000 in recognition of their one-stop flight from Paris to Dallas via New York.

Col. Easterwood said he had received a telegram from the French fliers at Omaha, Nebr., saying they would arrive here late in the afternoon of October 10, at the conclusion of their national good will tour. The presentation will be made at a luncheon of the New York Advertising Club, the colonel said, and will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co. throughout the Nation and to Europe.

DANVILLE TEXTILE STRIKE IS RATIFIED

95 Per Cent of 4,000 Men Favor Walkout; U. S. Seeks to Settle Dispute.

VOTE WAS KEPT SECRET

Danville, Va., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Officials of the Danville union of the United Textile Workers of America announced today the vote taken last week favored a strike by union employes of the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills here and that the result of the vote has been ratified by the national union executive committee.

The announcement said 95 per cent of the 4,000 members of the Danville union voted for the strike when the ballots were cast September 17 and 18. Officials declined, however, to give figures.

A statement was issued saying that a representative of the Bureau of Conciliation of the United States Department of Labor would arrive here today or tomorrow to seek a settlement of the differences between the union and the management of the two mills.

Announcement of the strike vote was made today upon receipts from the New York headquarters of the vote count and instructions.

The vote on the strike was called after charges were made by the union that the mills were discriminating against union employes and that nonunion workers were being employed from other States. The protests were also made against the alleged "inhuman stretchout system," alleged evil working conditions and a 10 per cent wage cut.

Girl in Mechanical Respirator Better

Device Is Helping Student Nurse in Battle With Paralysis of Lung.

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—12 days in a mechanical respirator, Miss Frances McGaan, student nurse at St. Luke's Hospital, tonight showed continued signs of improvement. Hospital attaches predicted that she would overcome the attack of infantile paralysis which rendered her lung muscles useless.

During the day she was removed five times from the respirator for periods of a few minutes each, and was able to continue the breathing which heretofore the machine has made possible.

She expressed an ambition to become well enough to help perfect the machine which has kept her alive by forced breathing and suggested several changes in its mechanism for the comfort of patients.

The Raccoon Coat Goes In For Flares

● The reduction of the raccoon from a sack-like silhouette to gracious, fitted lines is one of the most talked of changes in the fur kingdom. This sports coat has a gently nipped in waistline and just the suggestion of a flare in the skirt. It fits like a youthful dream . . . and is tremendously becoming with its huge shawl collar. $345.

WORK ON BRIDGE

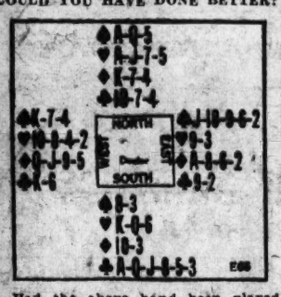
COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



Had the above hand been played in a game of Auction Bridge, South would have opened the bidding with one Club, West would have passed and North would have obtained the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

At Contract Bridge South would have started with two Clubs unless using the artificial two-Club bid, in which case he would have bid one Club and North would have bid three No Trumps, which would have obtained the contract.

The play at both games would have been the same. East led the Jack of Spades, dummy (South) played the Trey, and West the King hoping his partner had led from Ace-Jack-Ten and others; but North won with the Ace.

North led the Ten of Clubs, East played the Deuce, dummy the Trey and West won with the King. West now returned his partner's suit, Spades. Declarer won with the Queen and proceeded to make five Clubs and then four Hearts which, added to the two Spade tricks already taken, made five-odd.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Why, of course you could! When West won the second trick with the King of Clubs, he knew that North held the Queen of Spades; also by looking at the dummy he could see five good Clubs and the King and Queen of Hearts. The only chance to save game therefore was by taking four tricks in Diamonds; and had West led the Queen and Jack of Diamonds instead of blindly returning his partner's Spades, the four Diamond tricks would have been won.

A good rule is: If there is only one way to defeat the Declarer, play the hand that way.

Uncle Sams Home Hints

GRAPE FONDANT.
(Department of Agriculture.)

2 cups granulated sugar.
¾ cup boiling water.
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar.
⅛ teaspoon salt.

Put the sugar, water and cream of tartar and salt into a saucepan over a hot fire. Stir constantly until, but not after, the sugar has dissolved. Do not splash the sirup. Remove the spoon and do not use it again after the sirup boils. Remove the sugar grains or crystals with a dampened brush or a clean wet cloth. Cover the pan for a few minutes. Let the sirup boil until it reaches a temperature of 235 degrees Fahrenheit to 238 degrees Fahrenheit, or until it forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Be sure the bulb of the thermometer is covered and does not touch the bottom of the pan. Pour the sirup in a thin sheet onto it with a flat wooden spoon until it creams. When it forms a soft solid ball, work it with the palms of the hands in the same way as bread dough until it is smooth.

Place the fondant in an earthenware or glass dish. Wet a clean cloth in hot water, wring out well, and lay over the top of the candy. After about 24 hours the fondant is ready to mold. Fondant made in this way will keep for months if covered with a moist cloth or stored in a tightly covered jar. It may be melted over hot water for dipping grapes, strawberries, or other fresh fruits, or any of the candied fruits such as cherries, pineapple, cranberries, grapefruit peel or citron.

Other ways of using fondant include molding it to make centers for chocolate creams, pressing halves of nuts into balls of fondant, or rolling the balls in finely chopped nuts or shredded coconut. Nuts and coconut may also be worked into the fondant before it is shaped. Irregular shaped balls are sometimes rolled in cinnamon for "cinnamon potatoes," with "eyes" gouged out to make them more realistic. With or without nut meats fondant may be used to stuff dates or prunes.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Sept. 22.

CONCEPTION, execution, and completion.

How many people have these three?

We all know the person who has imagination, and no further ability to put into tangible form. And who doesn't know the person who has imagination, and commences to put an idea into tangible form, but wearies of the labor and allows his or her mind to wander into other Elysian fields?

(In any one else less well-bred than La Chic Secretarie, that would have been a snicker—could she probably have been thinking of our unfinished oil paintings, that book of fairy tales we started 20 years ago—all the book plates we nobly promised to make for our friends, etcetera, etcetera?)

True genius must have stamina to finish its work. Conception is not enough. And if you find yourself lacking in this last and most important quality, you must goad yourself into it. Only for the first few times, though—after that the thrill of completion will master you and you will wish to feel it again.

Modernistic jewelry is machine-wise, and thus very interesting and decorative, so it seems to me. Just suspending upon a thick silk cord for instance, such an interesting pendant as the one I have sketched up in the corner, can give the entire chic and smartness to an ensemble. And does anybody care if the big stone is synthetic? Not when the spirals were silver wire, I'll bet you.

* * * *

If you had two or three really adorable ones, you would wear them, I'll just bet! Because they do catch a couple of stray spots that have a way of falling in the best of families, and besides they have a certain feminine charm all their own. I'm talking about those cunning little tea aprons which have just come back into style, and which smart Parisian ladies are taking every opportunity to don, such as the maid's day off, or serving refreshments to guests who drop in after the theater.

So knowing you would just love to have some of your own, and either make them or have them made by your dressmaker so that they could be very original indeed, we just made you an illustrated leaflet of twelve. A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring it to you, and I'll just bet you that you will never be apronless again once you have seen how cunning aprons can really be.

* * * *

Black lace and georgette is always lovely, and seemingly always in style. Fabrics may come and fabrics may go, but I am convinced that women will not for long ever forego the flattering charm of delicate black lace.

And just how flattering and lovely black lace and georgette can be is proven in the Joseph Paquin gown I have sketched for you today. Am I not right?

* * * *

And am I not right, also, when I say the weekly Dare fashion letter is always of interest? It's in The Washington Post every Sunday.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from noon to 1 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Your world will appear to be a topsy-turvy one, on this date, and nothing will seem to go right. Some of your card houses will fall, and their loss will prove to be your ultimate gain. Secure your position, both financial and social. Physical dangers.

The child born on this September 23 will have a vivid imagination, a love for music and literature, a love of sports, and pronounced affections. It will have confidence in itself, but no vain conceit or false pride. It will loathe being mollycoddled, although it will be everybody's pet.

You are not an exclusive or an aloof being, and you prefer to gambol with the rest of the world in a friendly, cheerful and lively manner. Adaptability is your strong point, and you feel at home in all sorts of conditions and with all sorts of people. You never don moods and manners to suit the occasion, but are always the same—your own natural, happy self. Your face is the barometer which shows how much sunshine you have in your heart, and the glass stands high.

You are a good fighter in every sense of the word, and you do not allow yourself to be driven to the wall before you display your reserve force and powers of resistance. You are entitled to join the brass hat brigade, meaning those who do the world's planning and those who carry the responsibilities, as contrasted with those who do routine and muscular work. You, however prefer to do both physical and mental work, and to dig as well as to sow. You have initiative, foresight, imagination, determination and optimism, and the last is not the least important of these constituents, for it lubricates the machinery of effort.

You have homespun loyalty and homespun love to carry into a home, or to give to your man or woman partner of life. You know how to give, and you know how to take. You refuse to be a siren or a sensualist. You play the game with everybody.

Successful people born September 23:

1. John England, first Bishop of Charleston, S. C.
2. Sara Jane (Clarke) Lippincott, author, under name of "Grace Greenwood."
3. Jonathan Scott Hartley, sculptor.
4. Julius Caesar, Roman general and statesman.
5. James Carroll Beckwith, artist.
6. Hjalmar H. Boyesen, educator and author.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

STRAYING HUSBANDS.

FIVE years ago I married a wonderful man. He did everything in the world for me and we just loved each other. We had our own home and had it furnished wonderfully. We also had a car and could go and come when we pleased. And had plenty of money to get along the rest of our lives. We had everything to make us happy and we were happy until five months ago.

He met another woman and he just "fell" for her. She is married and has two children. He got in the habit of going out at nights, leaving me alone. He wouldn't take me anywhere and made life miserable for me. I was nearly crazy. Finally the time came when he had to choose between her and me, and he left me flat with nothing. I do own my home, and lucky I do, for he has everything else. It's breaking my heart to think of my husband doing a trick like this when we have both been so happy. We got along better than the average.

I asked him to come back and forget the past, but he only says he is "through." And I know he still sees this woman. She only cares for his money, for she knows she can never marry him.

I am nearly insane at times. Do you think he will see his mistake or do you think he will continue to go with this woman? I am working and boarding with my people, and he thinks it is terrible to board there, as he never liked my folks. If he ever wanted to come back, do you think I'd be taking a chance or do you think he would learn his lesson?

He changed so suddenly that I can't understand it. I do wish he would come back and be the man he was a year ago. But he says he will never come back. What is your advice? BROKEN HEARTED.

Most of the men who embark upon these small adventures that wreck their homes would gladly return after the bubble bursts if it were not for the matter of pride. They hate to face the world and admit that their great romance was just "one of those things." Your husband is probably no exception to rule. He may some day return, but that day will not be hastened by your solicitation. You should attempt to build up a life for yourself aside from any consideration of what his future whims may be.

His interest in where he lives is rather amusing in the circumstances. It is, however, evidence of his discomfort over his behavior. Why not avoid him and force yourself to go about and enjoy life? Indifference will interest him. Look your very best at all times, seek new acquaintances, go new places and build up a new personality. Men given to straying seldom return out of pity. It is invariably jealousy that brings them back. If you want a man to remember you, forget him. And that goes for husbands.

Memorial Service Held For Washington Artist

Lausanne, Switzerland, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—A memorial service was held Saturday for Mrs. Katherine Evans Lynn, of Philadelphia and Washington, artist, who died at Montreux Thursday from the effects of a fall.

Her body will be cremated and the ashes buried at Baltimore.

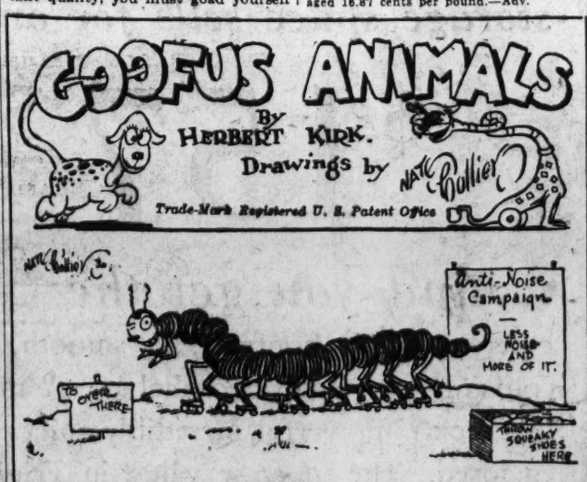
Pope Takes Over Radio Plant of Vatican City

Vatican City, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Pope this afternoon formally took over Vatican City's new and powerful radio broadcasting plant. With words of high praise for Guglielmo Marconi, the wireless wizard, who directed its construction, the plant was officially consigned to the care of Father Gianfranceschi, who became famous as chaplain-scientist on the Nobile Arctic expedition of 1928.



The Fable of the Centipede

There used to be a Centipede
Whose neighbors all looked piqued;
The reason for their ruffled look
Was that his shoes all squeaked.

Imagine, if you can, the din
Each time he went abroad;
His footsteps gladdened no one's heart—
Struck no responsive chord.

"I'll give a buck!" one neighbor cried,
"To him who this vile noise abates."
The Centipede won the reward
By simply wearing roller skates!

'PUBLIC ENEMY' TRIO IN CHICAGO VICE NET

ONE IS SERVED IN CELL

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Three of Chicago's 26 "public enemies" were under arrest today as the war on racketeers and gangsters, instituted by the September grand jury, continue to produce evidence against rulers by force and violence."

The first to be arrested were Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, believed by police to be the most shot-at of Chicago's hoodlums, and "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, former pickpocket, who rose to affluence as the proprietor of one of "Scarface Al" Capone's gambling joints.

The third, Danny Stanton, happened to be detained at the detective bureau when vagrancy warrants were issued against the 26 by Municipal Judge John H. Lule, so his copy was slipped between the bars. Stanton, reputed to be one of Capone's lieutenants in the effort to edge in on legitimate labor unions, was available for the vagrancy service because of a gun-toting charge against him.

Mangano was released when a bond of $10,000, approved by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli, was presented Judge Lyle. Remembering the judge's threat to jail prisoners who shielded themselves from photographers, he stared into the lenses of a battery of cameras aimed at him, without blinking.

O'Donnell insisted today that he was "through with the racket." Known as one of the city's pioneer beer runners, he has survived numerous gang fusillades. He walked into a police station and gave himself up. Later he was released on bond approved by the State's attorney's office when his brother, Sienen, posted properly worth $50,000.

In October, 1928, O'Donnell was caught in front of a garage by a group of machine gunners for the late "Dingbat" Oberta. "Spike" ducked, and although policemen later found 50 cartridge shells on the spot, O'Donnell was not even scratched.

Morrow Reaches Ranch In New Mexico for Rest

Dawson, N. Mex., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Dwight W. Morrow, retiring Ambassador to Mexico, arrived at Vermejo Ranch, 20 miles north of here, late today to spend a week's vacation before going East to start his senatorial campaign in New Jersey. There were twelve persons in the Morrow party.

The Vermejo Ranch extends over 350,000 acres and is one of the best fishing and hunting preserves in the State. It lies near the Colorado-New Mexico State line

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

414

A tweed-like wool jersey in bordeaux red is medium chosen for this interesting sports type. The applied band of plain matching shade woolen crossed at the front is stitched to the dress by machine to give it a tailored finish. The same idea is echoed in cuff bands of the sleeves.

The collar, like all the smartest woolen frocks, shows lingerie influence in natural shade linen. It is made detachable so as to be easily laundered.

Style No. 414 comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

It's a dress that will brighten the winter wardrobe and be just splendid for fall without a coat.

Other interesting fabrics are linen, pique, gingham, tweed and wool crepe.

Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

ACT OF 1913 FAILED TO KEEP PAWN SHOPS FROM CAPITAL

client returns to redeem his pawn. Very often a person who has pawned something to which he has attached a sentimental value, loses both the article and any interest he may have without having recourse to the law to regain possession of it.

Must Report Transactions.

In this manner thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and other articles are lost each year as well as many thousands of dollars in interest charges.

Before these merchants are permitted to open shop a license is required. There are no drastic restrictions on them. Practically the only requirement is that the applicant have no criminal record.

Each day these merchants are required to send to Police Headquarters a written record of all the transactions of the day. This is done for the purpose of checking on stolen property. Since there is no way of watching the dealings of all these merchants it is obvious that any purchase of a questionable nature is not embodied in the report.

Visits by Police.

These houses are channels for the disposition of stolen articles. Very rarely does any tip come to headquarters that any approach has been made for the purchase of stolen property. The only chance for the recovery of loot is for a detective to chance upon it while visiting the store, which occurs very often.

During the periodic visits of detectives to these places the entire store personnel and the clientele are immediately apprised of his presence by the first man who recognizes him. "Hello, lieutenant," or "hello, sergeant," is heard, which is the signal for the others to keep from sight all stolen goods.

Before the act of 1913 an entirely different situation prevailed. Brokers were anxious to aid police in every way. Each of the licensed dealers had a buzzer attachment to his counter which was directly connected with Detective Headquarters.

When any thief attempted to dispose of his loot the clerk would press the button which summoned detectives. In this way thousands of dollars of stolen articles were recovered.

Strange to say, the brokers who were forced from the District after the passage of the law of 1913 and established themselves in nearby Virginia are more ready to aid police than those who are violating the District law. Whenever their suspicions are aroused by a customer or his pawn headquarters is immediately notified.

MISS MYSTERIOUS - - - By LARRY LAWRENCE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

A coed called Babe by her friends receives a letter from her guardian saying he has lost all her money and is going to commit suicide. He says that she is not Thelma Townley, as she has always believed. The shock forces Babe to a stern plan. She will earn her own way and learn her identity. This she tells to a friend, Violet Rimmel. A man, who says his name is Morgan, comes to her and proposes marriage, telling her he knows of her trouble. Babe suspects Morgan of being a crook. Pete Jones, Milwaukee, a senior, asks her to marry him. She turns him down. That night she is kidnaped by two men. Pete rescues her. They learn that the boss of the kidnapers is a man called the Duke. One is called Gus, the other "the runt." Babe sends Pete back to school, and stays in Milwaukee seeking a job. She learns that some one broke into her room at school and stole two old breeches. Weary and discouraged at her failure to get work, she is approached by a man named Mac, who offers her a mysterious job. She takes it. They go to a rambling hall, and Mac tells her to vamp a certain man. It proves to be Morgan. She goes with Morgan. He makes violent love, and Babe accidentally shoots him. Mac arrives, finds Morgan is not seriously wounded, searches his room, and finds the stolen breeches. Morgan leaves town. By comparing notes, Mac and Babe finds that they are both searching for the same man—Babe to learn her identity, Mac to get revenge. They are convinced it is Forseith, who has not committed suicide, but only used that dodge to escape enemies. To get a line on Forseith, Babe feigns amnesia, and appeals to police. She is put in a hospital, and Forseith tries to get her out of it. Pete and Vilet, seeing Babe's picture in papers, come to rescue and get her out of hospital. Mac realizes that he is in love with Babe, and Pete and Mac know they are rivals. Babe is worried because she loves them both. She fears there may be a taint inherited from her unknown parents; but deep in her heart she is certain that her father was a brave man, and she fights to be like this ideal she holds of him. Mac goes to catch The Runt, who has been shadowing them, and says he will return in 10 minutes, but is gone for more than an hour. Babe is frantic with worry.

She rents a car and drives to the resort region on the hunch that Forseith was hiding nearby. On entering a saloon and restaurant where crooks hang out, a man accosts her and insists on buying her a meal. Babe permits him to do so, and while talking he speaks of "old striped pants." She realizes he means Forseith.

He attempts to make love, but Babe threatens him with an imaginary gangster husband. Mike drives to the hideout of the boss, and while he is inside Babe attempts to creep to the house to see if she can learn anything about Mac. She fails, and is back hiding in the car when men come out seeking an intruder.

Mike steers them away from his car, and drives away. Babe escapes Mike at the roadhouse and starts to drive to Milwaukee. Her car runs off the road. She wakes up with Pete and Violet standing beside her bed.

Babe insists on getting up and going at once to rescue Mac. Pete, who had found her unconscious in her car and taken her to his summer home, protests, angry words follow, and Babe walks out of the home.

She stops a farmer boy and rents his car. Pete and Violet try to follow, but miss her. As Babe approaches the lodge, the Boss, drunk, is pointing his automatic at Mac, who is taunting him. Forseith is sitting calmly by.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Boss let out a string of oaths and foul words. He cursed Mac in two languages, lapsing into his native tongue when he had run out of American oaths.

Whisky works differently on different subjects. In some men it creates false courage, making them brave beyond their natural courage; in others it brings out all the yellow, making them abject cowards. Some criminals drink to lash their craven hearts to deeds of violence, to quicken their trigger fingers. Others dare not drink when setting forth on a dangerous job, knowing they would have no courage left.

The Boss drank to drown fear. When the horror of death was on him he drank to forget it. He knew that his number was up, but he did not know who had been picked to topple him from his throne. He knew a rival gang leader had issued the death verdict, but he could not find out who had been detailed for the job of executioner. Therefore every one was suspected. The idea that Mac was an agent of destruction had just taken hold of him.

The Boss cursed himself for having brought Forseith, or the Duke, as he knew him, into his hide-out. He cursed himself for having permitted the Duke to bring two of his own men in. But Gus and the runt were gone now, still looking for the girl. The Boss hated himself for his weakness. He had taken the Duke in when he had come to him in Chicago, purely out of friendship. Years ago when the Boss had been a cheap crook working on the West Coast the Duke had helped him, had sprung him from stir and staked him to a ticket East. In Chicago the Boss had worked as a bartender for a time. Then prohibition came. He had made friends with some powerful politicians He had seen the opportunities in the alky racket, in the beer racket. He had worked with a little gang, had been a faithful tool. When the big shot of his gang had been pumped full of lead he had snatched the mantle of authority and he had held it not by bravery but by cunning.

Now his cunning was deserting him. He knew it. He had not been a drinker, but for the last year he had been feeding his courage and cunning on whisky, pure whisky that his runners brought from Canada, for special trade.

But now his number was up. It was that killing! Why had he let his men poach on another's territory? Why had he let his rats kill that time? It was not necessary. Just a grudge. And this man sitting here before him, maybe, was an agent come to carry out the death orders.

The Duke was a fool to have brought him here. For some reason he did not suspect the Duke. He did not put him in a conspiracy. He only figured that the Duke had been taken in, led on to capture a man that he might penetrate the walls of his hide-out, get near to him and either kill or torture.

The idea was insane, but the Boss' whisky-drugged brain, it seemed as if he were regaining his cunning. It seemed perfectly logical to him. And now he had the man before him. He would make him admit that he was there to kill him. What did it matter if the man were a prisoner his arms strapped. Still he was a menace.

"Squeal you ——" the Boss screamed at Mac, trying to hold the automatic leveled at his head. "Squeal, damn you, squeal! Who sent you here to kill me?"

"I never heard of you in my life, you drunken coward," Mac sneered. Forseith said nothing. He kept a carefully calm look on his face. Once he leaned over to straighten one pant leg, least it lose the crease. But he was not as calm as he appeared. This was something he had not bargained for. He dared not cross the Boss now that reason had deserted him. He might start shooting any minute. He might turn on him and start pumping lead. But he didn't want this man killed.

Murder was not in his line any more. He had killed once. The thoughts of that killing had never left him. Sometimes he awakened seeing the body lying there, eyes open, staring at him. He had been lucky. He had never been arrested, but he had suffered just the same. To take another's wealth and leave him to his fate did not bother Forseith. But murder. He cringed.

Forseith had wanted Mac taken and held just to keep him out of the way. He didn't want him butting in on his plans for the girl. But now that he had Mac some vague fear was haunting him. Where had he seen this man before? Or had he ever seen him? Maybe it was just another trick of imagination. Mac would not talk. He could get nothing from him. And now this whisky-maddened gangster was trying to make him talk about something he could not possibly know.

How could he prevent murder and at the same time turn this situation to an advantage? How could he force Mac to talk of the thing that was bothering him? Perhaps it would clear his mind of worry, help him get rid of that haunting fear he held for Mac.

"Let me handle this, Boss," Forseith suggested.

"No, keep out of it," the Boss shouted. "I'll make the rat squeal. I'll make him talk."

"I'm sure he knows nothing about you," Forseith insisted, speaking slowly and watching every move the Boss made. "He can't tell you anything. He's not here to do you any harm."

"Shut up. You're yellow. You're just trying to save his life."

"Oh, no! It's of no consequence to me what you do with him. But I thought that I could relieve your mind by making him tell all about himself, give us his life history. It would convince you that he's not gunning for you."

"I'll make him talk in my own way," the Boss barked, then called, "Lugo, Lugo, come here."

The guard left his post at the window laying down the riot gun and picking up his automatic. He was trembling. When the Boss was like this there was no telling what he would do. He knew how unsteady the Boss' hand was and feared that he might open up with his pistol. But he obeyed with alacrity.

"Light a cigar," the Boss ordered. Lugo put a match to a perfecto and took a few puffs.

"Put a mark on his forehead," the Boss ordered. Lugo stepped to Mac's side, but hesitated.

"Burn him. Right in the middle," the Boss commanded. Lugo moved the cigar close to Mac's forehead. The heat was searing the skin, but the glowing cigar did not touch.

"Now, start talking, you ——, if you want to save your hide."

if you want to save your hide."

The heat from the cigar was getting terrible.

"Who are you?" the Boss shouted.

Babe had run the last hundred yards to the gate. She had not tried to conceal herself. No one had stopped her. She had raced to the porch and tried the door. No one stopped her, but the door was locked. There was a window. She rushed to it and looked in. The sight paralyzed her for a second, but added the strength born of desperation when the first tremor of fear had passed.

Mac was sitting up straight, his arms strapped behind him. The burly Scareye was pointing an automatic. While she watched a man advanced on Mac and started to press a lighted cigar to his forehead. Babe realized she had to do something and do it quickly. At her feet was a rock. She picked it up and hurled it into the window. The glass shattered with a loud clatter. In making the throw she had been off balance and the effort threw her to the ground. Almost simultaneously with the sound of the crashing glass came the staccato bark of an automatic. Ten shots in rapid succession came from the weapon of the frightened Boss. As the last bullet was spent he slumped in his chair, overcome with fear.

Babe heard the whining of the bullets passing over her head. She leaped to her feet but stayed behind the protection of the log wall. Then, cautiously, she crept to the window edge. From this position she could see nothing. Crawling under the opening, she passed the window and stood up close to the wall again. Now she could get a glimpse of the interior. Two men were on their feet. She recognized Forseith. Mac was still sitting in the chair. Another man was close to the inside wall, moving slowly toward the window. If she exposed herself she knew he would shoot to kill.

Keeping close to the logs, she moved as swiftly as possible for a few paces, then, being out of range, she broke into a run, skirting the lodge. Surely there was another window where she might enter.

Here was one. She looked in. It opened on a different room and there was no one in sight. She tried the window. It was locked. She ran to the rear. There she saw a black cook cowering in a corner. The kitchen door was open. She darted in. The cook saw her. She raised her diminutive weapon and hissed, "Keep still." Then she raced out of a corridor into a pantry. This opened on the dining room. Babe moved more cautiously now, keeping close to the walls. From the dining room she could see into the big living room where the drama was being enacted. The guard was now at the window in his inclosure. She could not see him, nor could he see her. Scareye still lay slumped in the chair. Forseith was standing beside Mac.

Babe stepped through the door, her pistol aimed at Forseith. He turned and faced her. Then he smiled. "Welcome, niece," he said. "I hadn't expected you so soon. Put up the popgun." As he spoke he stepped toward her.

"Stop. I'll shoot," she cried.

"Have you found your memory?" Forseith inquired, unruffled. He was a cool one. Babe couldn't pull the trigger. Suddenly she knew she could never deliberately shoot at any one. It unnerved her for a second.

Now Mac was out of his chair, getting set for a leap. He had not said a word. Babe read his intentions. "Don't," she screamed. It stopped him just as he had started to lunge at Forseith. Such a lunge, with arms laced securely behind him might have broken his neck.

"Drop it," she heard a sharp command. The guard with his automatic covering her had given the order. She had not seen him step out of the embrasure. He meant business—that was certain. She dropped the pistol. The guard waved her into the center of the room.

Mac sat down again. His eyes were on the guard now.

"Thank you," Forseith said to the guard, then stooped and picked up Babe's pistol.

"Call the cook and have him do something for our friend," Forseith ordered and nodded at the unconscious figure lying there in the big chair.

The guard didn't move.

"It's all right. I can handle this," Forseith went on. "We can't let our friend stay there like that."

"Hey, Sambo, bring in some ammonia," the guard yelled. He had no intention of leaving the room.

But something happened just then that made him change his mind.

BLACK SUEDE

for this age of individuality

Perhaps it's the unprecedented demand for Black Suede which has given the Low Heel such sudden acclaim by the fashion authorities . . .

Perhaps it's the insistence of Youth which will have its way, regardless of Fashion . . .

Perhaps it's the I. Miller touch of distinction . . .

But should we bother with reasons? Suffice it to say, we believe, that the two I. Miller Salons on F Street are being literally pounced upon for Black Suede in Low Heels — with nary a murmur from us . . . so well are we prepared!

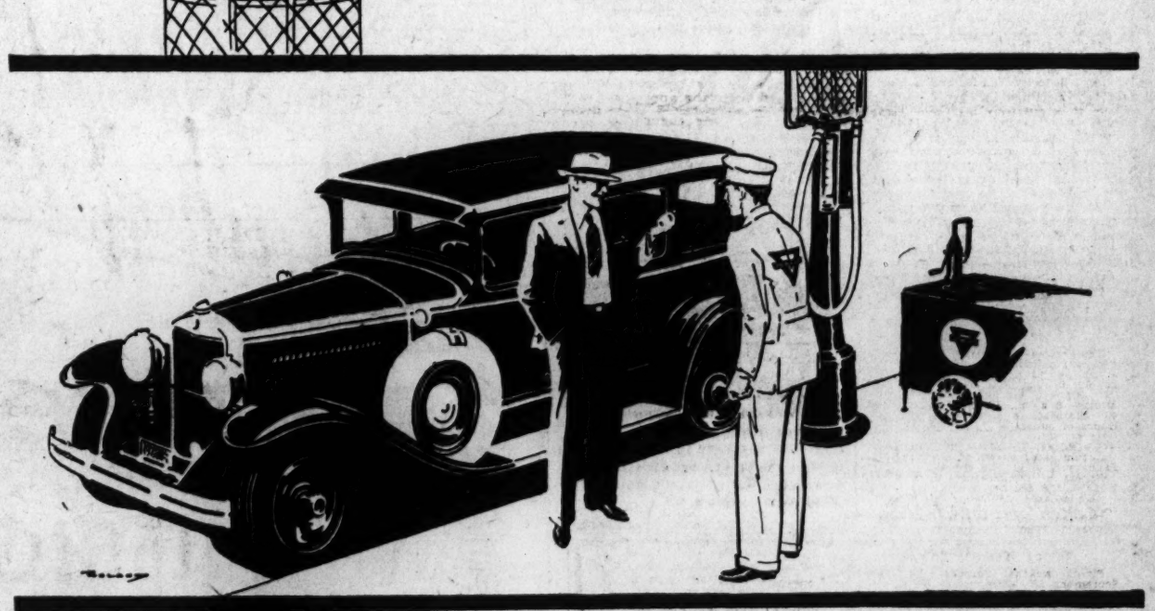
CONOCO ETHYL GASOLINE



MOTORISTS who tried CONOCO Ethyl the first time, at our suggestion, have been coming back with smiles on their faces. No need to urge them now. They stop at the CONOCO Ethyl pump always.

This is as it should be. For what motorist is so patient that he will willingly undergo the vexation and embarassment of a knocking motor, when CONOCO Ethyl costs just a few pennies more?

Ethyl adds the finishing touch to a gasoline that was already famous for its quick-starting, zooming acceleration, and sustained power. Ethyl makes it possible for you to enjoy the full benefit of these triple-tested qualities, found in every gallon of CONOCO Gasoline.

CONOCO Ethyl is the fuel for you. You'll know it too, if you use it once. When may we serve you with this most excellent motor fuel?

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

WILL you kindly tell me the names of the plants from which the inclosed leaves were taken? One is a shrub. Does it bear flowers? When is the proper time to prune a jasinum bush?

CHARLES G.

Leaves resemble those of the duetzia, a variety of hardy shrub which blossoms in late May. Prune a jasinum immediately after it has finished flowering. The other leaves were so broken it is impossible to identify them.

Please tell me why my hydrangea does not bloom.

MRS HELEN S. B.

As you have told me nothing but the name of your plant, I can not tell you where you are making a mistake with it. It is likely a case of pruning. You speak of it as a plant, so I suppose it is a large-flowered blue or pink French hybrid. These varieties require no pruning except to remove the blossoms as they fade. They demand a sunny location, some winter protection, if grown in the open, and a great deal of water. Their tops should be sprayed every day and their roots be given generous quantities of water. These hydrangeas are not always reliably hardy, so most growers are now recommending growing them in lawn tubs which can be lifted into a basement in winter.

I am inclosing some leaves from a begonia. Please tell me the name of the variety. MRS. E. C. C.

Begonia erfordi.

Please tell me whether an ivy, grown for house decoration, should have much sun. How often should the water be changed? When my Canterbury bells fade, should the flowers be removed? When I bring my poinsettia into the house, should I cut it back? It has been cut back twice this season. L. E. S.

No, it requires light, but little direct sun. It usually does well in a north window. Change the water once a week. Remove all flowers as soon as they begin to fade. If this is not done the plants will go to seed and produce few flowers. Your poinsettia has been cut back as much as it will stand.

Please tell me how to get rid of cut worms. The ground is sandy and full of old growth, such as roots and bits of bark. M. E. S.

The only practical way to get rid of cut worms is to use a poison bait, such as lead arsenate, molasses and bran. However, there is a very reliable proprietary preparation on the market which is easily handled and very efficacious. If you care to write again, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will be glad to send you the name of this preparation.

Am inclosing a fern leaf. Please tell me how to get rid of regular rows of brown dots on the back of the leaves. Am also inclosing the leaf of a shrub of which I am anxious to know the name. When should this bloom? MILDRED L.

The marks on the back of the fronds of your fern are spores or seed cases. These must not be removed. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you a circular we have prepared for readers of this column on the "Care of Ferns." Your shrub is a spirea prunifolia (bridal wreath). It blooms in about May 1. bs ITowalls*6*.matped. obt cm cm c third innings, adding two more in the fourth and three in the fifth. The final two runs crossed the plate in the seventh inning.

After holding the Phillies to four hits in six innings, Sylvester Johnson weakened a trifle in the seventh and eighth as the Phils gathered in five runs. The Cardinals' lead was never seriously threatened, but Herman Bell pitched the ninth and held the Phillies in check.

St. Louis Is Planning Reception for Cards

St. Louis, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals will participate in a celebration of their victory in the National League pennant race on the morning after the game which absolutely assures the team first place, Manager Gabby Street telegraphed City Register Grosse today.

A committee assembled by Grose to arrange reception details was called to meet this afternoon in City Hall. The Cards conclude the season with four games here against Pittsburgh, beginning Thursday.

Smith Is Polo Star As Roslyn Four Wins

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Cecil Smith, cowboy from Llano, Tex., led Roslyn's polo four to victory, 14 to 13, over Eastcott at Meadowbrook today, in the first match of the annual Monty Waterbury Cup high goal handicap tournament.

Eastcott was spotted five goals, and until the eighth period retained either tie or lead, but two goals by H. E. Talbot, sr., Roslyn captain, and No. 1, in that chukker beat them out.

Earle W. Hopping, Eastcott No. 3, was a star in defeat, making six of his team's eight goals from play, the remaining five being accounted for by the handicap. Gerald Balding, Roslyn back, at times exceeded his play with the British international team.

Only one game was played. Shelburne and Old Aiken and Greentree and Hurricanes will meet in other first-round matches tomorrow.

G. U. Gridmen Home; Scrimmage Tomorrow

Georgetown's gridiron hopefuls returned from their Point Lookout, Md., camp yesterday afternoon and will hold their first practice on local soil this afternoon, probably at Griffith Stadium, scene of their opener with Mount St. Mary's on Saturday.

Scrimmage with a strong freshman eleven awaits the Hilltoppers, who have suffered many injuries in the three-week training period in southern Maryland. The scrimmage will be held Wednesday.

Flynn May Be Lost To C. U. in Opener

Unless his injured knee shows sudden improvement, Hugh Flynn, who shapes up as Catholic University's best tackle, will not be able to take the field with the Cardinal Eleven Saturday in its opening game against Boston College in the Hub.

Flynn, a sophomore, was displaying fine form in practice until injured last week, and his loss will be felt keenly.

The Cardinals also may have to perform without Johnny Oliver, who was the leading half back of the 1929 team. Oliver has a weak ankle, but his case is not as serious as that of Flynn.

Gaylor, 2 Sports Star, Lost to Maryland U.

Bob Gaylor, leading scorer of the basket ball team, and regular third baseman in baseball, will not return to Maryland University this fall, it was learned yesterday. The loss will be felt by the Old Liners particularly in basketball, as Gaylor was the team's most dependable guard and offensive player in one.

The Maryland football squad underwent a long signal drill yesterday starting its final week of practice for its opening game on Saturday with Washington College. The Old Line gridmen are in good physical condition, have learned their plays well, and now need only some polishing up to be ready to give a good account of themselves.

Final 63 Round Gives Cooper Medinah Open

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—"Light Horse" Harry Cooper, Chicago professional, chased old man par right off the Medinah Country Club golf course today, raking the layout for an amazing 63, 6 under par, in the afternoon round of the club's $3,000 open event, for a 36-hole total of 136.

Cooper carded a 73 on the No. 1 course in the morning, and went to lunch in tenth place. His putter had failed him on numerous occasions, but it began to work in the afternoon on the No. 3 stretch, and he swooped to the top to grab the big portion of the prize money, $1,500. He recently won the $10,000 St. Paul open event.

Back of Cooper came Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mexico, with 140, while Horton Smith finished third with a pair of 71's. Gene Sarazen started poorly with a 78 for his morning round, but breezed in with a great 65 in the final eighteen holes to tie with Laurie Ayton, of Evanston, Ill., for fourth with 143.

5 Times Capacity Crave To See St. Louis Series

St. Louis, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—A corps of carpenters started work today constructing 1,500 additional seats at Sportsman's Park to accommodate world series spectators if the Cardinals, who are leading the Chicago Cubs by 2½ games, win the National League pennant.

Sportsman's Park is built to seat 34,500 and, with standing room, approximately 40,000 can be accommodated, so the additional seats will insure room for about 42,000 for the series. The addition is to be made in front of the stands on both the left and right field foul lines.

Announcement was made today that the Cardinals' office would receive no more applications for the world series. Five times as many orders as can be filled already have been received.

NATS DEFEAT MONTREAL BY 7-5

Harris and Rice Hit Homers; Fischer Hurls Well.

Special to The Washington Post.

MONTREAL STADIUM, Sept. 22. The Nationals stopped off here today on the way to Boston and beat the Royals, of the International League, 7 to 5, in an exhibition game. Harris hit a home run opening the second inning, and Rice put the ball over the scoreboard with Myer on base and two out in the seventh.

Carl Fischer worked the first seven rounds for the Nationals and gave the Royals four scattered hits, fanning six. Ad Liska, however, ran into trouble in the ninth, and four hits produced four runs. Helgeth's triple, which cleaned the bases, was the big blow of the round. A crowd of 4,000 saw the game.

Ft. Worth Defeats Memphis; Wins Series

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Fort Worth won the baseball championship of the South today, defeating Memphis, 13 to 6, for the Texans' fourth win in five games in the eleventh annual Dixie series between pennant winners in the Texas League and Southern Association.

It was the ninth time the Texas League entrant has bested the Southern Association representative and the sixth win for the Fort Worth team. Fort Worth won the first three games of the proposed seven-game series and dropped the fourth yesterday to the Chicks. Today's game was a free-for-all hitting contest from the start, when each team scored twice in the first inning.

Portney Stops Pisano in Feature

3,500 See Baltimore Knockout Foe at Ft. Washington.

DeAngelo in Draw With Tramberia; Levine Wins.

THIRTY-FIVE HUNDRED fight fans, a capacity crowd, witnessed one of the best bouts seen here in some time last night when Jack Portney, of Baltimore, knocked out Augie Pisano, of New York, in the feature bout of the card staged in the Fort Washington ring under auspices of the Front Line Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Pisano went down for the count after 45 seconds of the sixth round of the scheduled eight-rounder, as the result of a terrific left hook to the jaw. In turning in this decisive victory, Portney showed himself to be a most promising lightweight who may go far, while it was apparent from Pisano's showing that the veteran is on the down grade. Both came in at more than the lightweight limit, Portney weighing 142 and Pisano 144.

De Angelio, Tramberia In Draw.

In the eight-round semifinal, Frankie DeAngelo, of the Mohawks, and Jim Tramberia, of Baltimore, slugged to a unanimous draw, the other three bouts on the card being decided on points.

Battling Levine, of the Mohawks, formerly of Kane, N. H., was awarded the verdict over Harry (Kid) Groves, of Baltimore, over the six-round route, while Jack Turner, of Washington, making a comeback, earned the decision over Rusty Murray, of Roanoke.

Soldier Johnny Clark, of Fort Washington, clearly outpointed Nick Antonelli, of the Mohawks, in the four-round curtain-raiser, which developed into a slugging match from start to finish.

Mike McTigue Loses On Technical Knockout

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Garfield Johnson, 178, Buffalo Negro light heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Mike McTigue, 180, former world's champion in the class, in the fourth round of a 10-round bout here tonight. McTigue failed to land a blow and the action was taken to save him needless punishment.

Louisville Nine Plans 12-Game Cuban Jaunt

Louisville, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The pennant winning Louisville American Association team will go to Cuba for a twelve-game exhibition series after the little world series is over. That series starts Wednesday in Rochester, N. Y., home of the International League pennant winners.

McCarthy Shoots Ace In Amateur Tourney

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The rarest feat in golf, a hole in one, was achieved today by Maurice McCarthy jr., of New York, metropolitan champion, on the 215-yard seventeenth hole in the qualifying play for the national amateur championship.

McCarthy, who also has held the national intercollegiate title as a representative of Georgetown, used a spoon to bag his ace.

The worst hole of the day was a 12 on the 378-yard eleventh, made by Francis Hersey, of Wellesley, Mass., captain of the 1930 Princeton Golf Team. He hit out of bounds once and into water hazards twice. His score of 99 also was the day's highest.

CUBS RETAIN SLIM FLAG CHANCE

Bush Hurls Well to Turn Back Boston Braves, 6 to 2.

BOSTON, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Retaining their mathematical chance to win the National League pennant race, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Braves, 6 to 2, in the final game of the season at Boston today. The victory still left the Cubs trailing the Cardinals by 2½ games with 4 games to play—all with Cincinnati, at Chicago.

In turning back the Braves, Guy Bush turned in a brilliant exhibition of hurling, holding Boston to six hits, while the Cubs were pounding "Socks" Seibold, Eddie Brandt and Bruce Cunningham for twelve blows. Included in the collection of hits was Hack Wilson's fifty-third home run of the season, delivered in the first inning with one teammate on base.

Wilson also contributed one of the fielding features of the game, making a sensational running catch of Richbourg's liner. The entire Boston infield also performed brilliantly.

The Cubs left tonight for Chicago, where they open their final series with the Cincinnati Reds on Thursday.

By AL MUNRO ELIAS (Famous Statistician).

A YEAR AGO this time the Athletics were accorded a pronounced superiority over their world series rivals, the Cubs, behind the plate. Mickey Cochrane, of the Mackmen, was the supreme receiver of the major leagues in 1929. He batted .328, fielded almost perfectly and served as the dynamo that set the wheels of the Mack machine running. This year Cochrane has demonstrated even more conclusively that he is an outstanding performer. He has improved his batting more than 30 points and continued to prove a tower of strength in handling the Mack hurlers.

Hartnett Returns To Form.

The Cardinals are well protected behind the plate with Jimmie Wilson and Gus Mancuso to handle the pitchers. Mancuso, a newcomer, has hit .374 in 65 games, but his defensive work has been a trifle erratic. Wilson, on the other hand, has been a star defensively, and his record would indicate that he has a better throwing arm than any of his rivals.

Yet, despite the energetic Mickey's general improvement, not even his most ardent supporter would grant him the wide advantage over the Cub receiver this year that he enjoyed over Zach Taylor and Mike Gonzales last fall. The reason lies in the return to form of Gabby Hartnett. Like Cochrane, the peppery Bruin catcher is the spark plug of his team. His incessant chatter, and his perpetual grin make him one of the most popular figures ever to grace a diamond.

Despite Cochrane's great record this year there are more than a few who will contend that Hartnett has been play of the 1915 tournament, which the Chicago star and former Yale pole vaulter won. McCarthy used a spoon and his tee shot landed a few feet from the cup, just trickling in. It helped the New Yorker score a 78 and might furnish the margin by which he could qualify tomorrow.

Johnston, though on the extreme outer edge of those having any chance to break into the qualifying list of 32 for the match play beginning Wednesday, was not alone among the favorites who blew themselves to high, wide and dangerous totals for the first round. Jess Sweetser, of New York, with an 81; Cyril Tolley, the former British champion, with an 82, and Roland Mackenzie, of Wilmington, Del., with 83, put their chances in extreme jeopardy. Mackenzie was nowhere near his great practice form.

Probably no better than a 36-hole total of 157, and possibly no better than 156, will be required to qualify, with exactly 40 scores of 78 or better for today's competition.

Others who have their qualifying work cut out for them include Jesse Guilford, of Boston, a former champion, with 79; Phillips Finlay, of New York; Eugene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., comedalist lats year with Jones; Lawrence Moller, of Quincy, Ill., runner-up in this year's intercollegiates; Chandler Egan, of Medford, Oreg., champion 25 years ago and runner-up in 1929, and Watts Gunn, of Pittsburgh, former Walker Cup star, all with 80.

There was an unusual mixture of age and youth, veterans and newcomers in the day's low scoring group. The work of Jones and Willing, the two internationalists, was closely matched by that of Noyes and Dunlap, mere school boys.

Back of these four, tied for fifth place at 73 each, was another contrasting quartet, consisting of Francis Ouimet, amateur champion in 1914; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, the sensational youth who beat Jones in the first round last year at Pebble Beach; George Von Elm of Los Angeles, 1926 title-holder who has announced this is his last amateur tourney; and William Lawson Little, San Francisco youngster, who "beat the man who beat Jones" in 1929.

Quartet Are Tied With 74 Cards.

Another stroke behind, at 74, were Charles D. (Chuck) Hunter, the former University of Washington star; Donald K. Moe, present University of Oregon ace and Walker Cup star; Sam Perry of Birmingham, who held the Southern championship while at the University of Alabama; and T. Phillip Perkins, bespectacled former British titleholder.

The only scores of 75 were posted by Dave Ward, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Ross Somerville, the present Canadian amateur champion. A stroke behind them, at 76, was George J. Voigt, of New York, favored by many to be one of the main obstacles in the path of Jones toward the championship.

Although the low scoring sensation of the day was the home-coming 82 of Young Noyes, the best golf was unquestionably played by the master of them all, Bobby Jones. The great Georgian was never in serious trouble. He was in traps only twice and as many times in the rough.

"Calamity Jane," his famous putter, was at her best. Bobby sank a 24-footer on the tenth and 12-footer on the thirteenth for birdies and on at least five other holes a margin of inches separated his ball from the cup as he rolled 'em dead from any and all angles. He made par on this

Large Fields Attracted By Card

$150,000 to Be Distributed; Leading Stables on Hand.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 22.—The Harford Agricultural Association opens its fall meeting at Havre de Grace tomorrow at the picturesque Susquehanna track, and this is the beginning of autumn's season on the major tracks of Maryland, which run until the last of November. Upward of 1,200 fit horses are now stabled at the track, and others are motored from surrounding tracks from day to day. There will be around $150,000 distributed in the eleven days of racing.

During the meeting there will be three stakes of $20,000 added in each—the Potomac, on Thursday; the Eastern Shore, on Saturday, and the Havre de Grace Handicap, on closing day. Joseph E. Widener is racing his stable for the first time at Havre de Grace. The Whitney, Coe, Glen Riddle, Zeigler and other prominent New York stables have joined the Harford colony.

Racing to Start
At 2 p. m.

They're off!. The cry which is dear to the hearts of millions of sport lovers throughout America will echo here at 2 p. m., Standard time.

There have been four half-mile meetings held in this State since August 25, but these sessions have only served to what the appetites of the fans for King Horse's performances.

Race Secretary Joseph McLennan has arranged a corking opening day program. Capacity fields were drawn for every race, and if the weather man deals out his best brand of sunshine General Manager Edward Burke will play host to 20,000 spectators, for New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington are all sending race specials here via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Picturesque Course

This picturesque course never looked better. Recent rains have caused the late seasonal flowers to bloom in profusion while the grass is taking on its natural green color, which should be pleasing to the eye after one has been forced to look at the yellow grass caused by the long summer drought.

Havre de Grace Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Md., Sept. 22.—Hal Price Headley's Alcibiades arrived at noon to fulfill her engagement in the $20,000 Potomac Handicap, a mile-and-one-sixteenth event, listed for Thursday. J. E. Widener's string was due in late today from New York. W. J. Henfling, well-known St. Louis sportsman, was an arrival with False Pride and Golden Auburn.

J. E. Wright, who is making the riding engagements for Jockey W. Ellsworth, says his charge can ride at 100 pounds. First call on his service has been taken by Woods Garth.

Buster Bedwell brought his trio of vans on from Chicago. He also vanned in three horses belonging to R. D. Moore, jr.

Jimmy McGee, well-known turfman, of Louisville, Ky., is here with four horses. He was forced to let up on his good mare, Fairy Maiden, but hopes to bring her back to the races later in the fall season.

E. J. Holland, well-known business man of Atlantic City, who will race Unusual and Redivous at this meeting, states that the Kelly Air Line of the seashore city has arranged to bring twenty race fans here daily. Two airships will be used to bring the Atlantic City delegation and it will land at the airport adjoining this track.

Holland states that he has bred his mare, Massey, to Canter. He also has a filly foal by Prince Pal—Massey and a yearling colt by Ballot—Massey. The latter, a half-brother to Chilhowee, is being broken at Pimlico.

Bill Brodie is an arrival from Canada with six horses. His string was accompanied by Jockey Charlie Phillips. Brodie reports that his good handicap horse, Wellet, was operated upon last week in Philadelphia for sinus trouble.

Charlie Meister vanned the horses belonging to Harry Rites, James Arthur and the Justa Farm Stable from Pimlico here. He also brought the thoroughbreds belonging to Mrs. F. I. Vanderbeek, of New York, down from Hagerstown. Meister reports that he was forced to destroy his 15-year-old mare, Tush Tush, due to infirmities.

Lone Star First Home In Young Pigeon Race

Averaging more than 40 miles an hour, Lone Star, Joseph Turowsky's crack young pigeon, led the field of 192 young birds home from Pulaski, Md., yesterday in the Washington Racing Pigeon Club's fifth young bird race.

Lone Star's victory established a record for Turowski, whose birds won consecutive races within two weeks.

ESKIMO SETS TRACKMARK AT CHICAGO

Pigeon Hole, Honey Locust Beaten in Feature.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Eskimo, running in the colors of the Northway Stable, had to be extended to his utmost to take the Thomas Hotel Purse, feature offering of today's racing, from Pigeon Hole. Honey Locust was third.

The gelded son of Northstar sprinted the 7 furlongs in the sensational time of 1:23, bettering by three-fifths of a second the record made by Stampdale in August, 1926. He ran the first 6 furlongs in the record time of 1:10 2-5, and, under pressure finished the last furlongs in 0:22 3-5. The Northway Stable collected $1,100 by the gelding's good effort. Eskimo got away to a flying start and set a fast early pace. He gradually increased his advantage to the stretch and held on stubbornly to stall off the fast finishing Pigeon Hole. The latter, forced back shortly after the start, steadily bettered his poistion on the outside and came with a great burst of speed in the last sixteenth, but could not get to the winner in time. Honey Locust, well up to the stretch turn, was forced back when Uluniu crossed over to the inside. James took her to the outside, where she closed gamely to outgame Karl Eitel and Uluniu for the show.

Rapid Transit, 4 to 1, Wins
Aqueduct Feature.

Aqueduct Race Track, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Thomas F. McVicker's recently acquired Rapid Transit scored at the first asking when he earned the purse in the Smithtown Handicap, 6-furlong feature here today. The victory of the son of Honeywood was a disastrous one for the memory brokers, who laid a very liberal price against him. Mokatam, who was making his first start since last year, finished second, and, with better handling and a good start, might have reversed the running. Sun Mission was third.

The start was bad, half of the field being left, including Mokatam. Rapid Transit rushed to the front and quickly disposed of Spellbound, and then drew away to a long lead. However, in the final furlong, he tired badly, and Fator brought Mokatam up with a rush and was wearing down the winner. Under a more energetic ride Mokatam might have won. The winner paid 4 to 1.

GROCERYMEN DRILL.

—Havre de Grace Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Sept. 22.—Featuring the initial day's card at Havre de Grace tomorrow will be the $2,500 Autumn Handicap for 3-year-olds and upward at a mile and 70 yards. Thirteen entries were made for the race. Of this number three are also listed as probable starters in the fourth event. The feature will be the fifth race.

William Ziegler, jr.'s, GONE AWAY is in both the feature and the fourth race. The son of Runantell has quite a bit of class and he should win either race in which the trainer elects to send him. Harry Payne Whitney's DUSTEMALL is nicely weighted in the feature under 106 pounds. With this up, she should be with the leaders from the beginning. HOT TODDY was in fine trim when he left New York for Maryland. Clockers at the Harford County course report him as being very fit. Walter J. Salmon's ANNAPOLIS, which performed very consistently in Chicago this summer, is entered in the Autumn Handicap, also George W. Foreman's 3-year-old NED O. W. R. Coe's representatives will be CARUSO, CESARE and CAESARION. CANAAN, LINE RIDER and BOBASHELA raced in the West this summer, while FULL DRESS performed with considerable success in New York not many weeks back.

FIRST RACE—TAMBOUR, from the stable of Preston Burch, may be graduated in the day's opener. This miss showed speed in the Matron Handicap, her last start at Belmont Park. She has been to the post but two times and finished second her first out. Center Stone beat TAMBOUR in the Matron, but he picked her up after she had tired from forcing a fast early pace. PHANTASIME and WHISKER are preferred as named. The latter has been training well over the Havre de Grace track.

SECOND RACE — POLYDOROUS' Belmont futurity effort makes him best of the juveniles named to go in the second number. The Friar Rock colt has been performing very consistently since he began his 1930 campaign. He shapes up as the day's most probable winner. B'AR HUNTER and BATHORSE will run coupled as the E. R. Bradley entry. The former is the better of the two. RAHOROUS, from the W. R. Coe Stable, beat a large field of maidens his last out in New York.

THIRD RACE—THE HEATHEN'S last start was in the fall high weight handicap at Belmont Park. After displaying high early speed with 129 pounds up, he gave way to his stable mate, Balko, in the last few strides. His most recent trial at Havre de Grace was three-quarters in 1:13 1-5. BLACK MAJESTY is one to fear. Only last week this son of Black Tony licked a clever field, including Balko, in a revival of the Bay Ridge handicap at Aqueduct. He carried 110 pounds. SWEEP OUT, an extremely fast miss, will run coupled with BLACK MAJESTY, provided both start. Her early speed may land her.

FOURTH RACE—GONE AWAY has quite a bit of class and his recent races in New York suggest he is at the top of his very best form. He is entered in this and the fifth event. It appears he can win either. NED O, has been freshened up for a fall campaign. He was almost unbeatable in Maryland last fall. DUSTEMALL, from the H. P. Whitney stable, is a fast miss. The first two named will have her to catch.

SIXTH RACE—COIN COLLECTOR will be out doing his best and for this reason he is given preference over ZEAL. The latter beat the Sagamore stable plater the last time they met, but this is another day. COIN COLLECTOR won his last New York race very easily. BIDEAWEE has been racing with high-class platers but got nothing. She may not fancy going a mile and a sixteenth.

SEVENTH RACE — PARTNERSHIP gave good promise over Maryland half-mile tracks during the past month. She is a nice looking mare and the farther she goes the better she likes it. She's meeting only cheap platers in the night cap. FAIR ALBERT may be one to beat. This fellow won a race in Canada this summer. VOWED VENGEANCE is a quick beginner but is none too stout at heart.

GOOD, BUT NOT GREAT, TEAM SEEN FOR COLONIALS

Super Eleven Idea Scouted At G. W.

Players Big, Willing But Green; Reserve Power Lacking.

DREAMS of a superfootball team at George Washington University this season are the results of poor digestion or something else equally as devoid of sound reasoning. This, in effect, was the statement of Head Coach Jim Pixlee, who led his band of husky Colonial gridmen home from Camp Letts, Md., yesterday.

Pixlee was responding to the report going the rounds among enthusiastic George Washington supporters who for several weeks have been feasting on the picture of their own painting that portrays the greatest football team in G. W. history and one that will just about startle these United States.

Frosh Not So Good Against Varsity Foes.

Local football observers will remember that George Washington placed a powerful freshmen eleven on the field in 1929. This team is eligible for varsity competition.

Pixlee declared that his "wonderful" freshmen of last year will not, and really can not be expected to, prove as strong this fall in varsity competition. Not that he hasn't faith and confidence in his players, he pointed out, but simply because they will be playing in a higher class of competition and because they still have much to learn.

"That freshmen team looked fine in freshmen football, but it's another matter for it to prove strong in varsity competition this year," said Pixlee. "The players are big, strong and willing and I am sure they will never show a lagging spirit, but they are still green in many respects.

"We haven't as much reserve power as we need. That fact alone is a big obstacle, as every football student realizes. We have plenty of poundage in the back field, but not the experience necessary. Plenty of coaching yet must be done."

Returning Colonials Resume Work Today.

Preparations for a regular workout at Potomac Park had not been completed when the squad arrived yesterday, so the Colonials were forced to wait until today to resume hard practice.

The G. W. campaign will open with the Rutgers game at New Brunswick, N. J., on October 4.

Citizens to Celebrate Anacostia Eagle Victory

Citizens of Anacostia and Congress Heights will pay homage to the Anacostia Eagle baseball players in celebration of their winning the District section title of the Capital City League, it was announced following a meeting held last night. They are planning a demonstration to include a parade and presentations to the members of the team to be held on October 17. A dance will be held at the Congress Heights Auditorium as a climax to the celebration.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 22.—The Alexandria High School Football Team will open their 1930 campaign here on Friday afternoon opposing the Episcopal "B" Eleven in Baggett's Stadium. This game will begin at 3 o'clock.

Athletic Director Maurice Given, of the Twins, arranged for this contest today. Fifty candidates are seeking berths. Seven varsity players of last season, Luckett, Jennier, Carr, Haywood, Routzan, Jackson and Petersilla will play in the initial tussle.

A new basket ball team to be known as the St. Mary's Lyceum Five was organized here Monday night. The boys will play in the senior division. Players with this team are Tommy Lucas, Mumford, Collum, Gensmere, Lyons and Vogt. Edward Harlow and Jake Preston will act in the capacity of advisors.

The Baraca Bible Class Baseball Team defeated the Southern Clerks today in the week-day league, 10-0, and clinched the top honors. The Biblemen have won four consecutive games. Leslie Lane is manager of the team.

Coach Mike Goldman, of the Alpha Delta Omega Football Team, today stated uniforms would be issued to players at Thursday night's drill. The Fraters will inaugurate their 1930 football season next Sunday when they meet the Fort Myer Post Team on Hunton Field.

Leslie Cline, former Iroquois A. C. fullback, has been appointed as manager of the Pirate A. C. Football Team. All candidates for the Pirate Eleven are asked to report at the home of Manager Hammond, 312 North Pitt street, Tuesday night. Final plans for the seasotn will be mapped out at this time.

An important football practice of the St. Mary's Celtics gridders will be held in Baggett's Stadium tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All candidates for the team are asked to be present. The Celtics will open their season on October 5.

"Doggie" Hamilton, football coach of the Del Ray Athletic Club, has 30 candidates trying for regular berths. The Redbirds expected to enter the 180-pound division in the Capital City League.

PENNANTS PRACTICE.

Gaines Monk will send his Petworth Pennants through a stiff workout this evening in preparation for the Pennants' Sunday scrimmage against the Northern Redbirds.

SOUTH TURNS INTEREST TO ATLANTA

Oglethorpe - Georgia Game Best on Saturday Dixie Card.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Although Duke and South Carolina play the only Southern Conference football game this weekend, major interest throughout the South probably will be centered on Athens, where Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels face the touted Georgia Bulldogs.

Last year, while Georgia was busy preparing for Yale and taking Oglethorpe much for granted, the Petrels furnished the first major upset of the year by soundly trouncing Harry Mehre's squad.

And it's no secret that the Atlanta Team is gunning for Georgia again. The Petrels are pointing for this game and while Coach Mehre is awake to the dangers ahead, he can not afford to spend his whole energy toward winning this contest, with the Yale battle only a fortnight away.

Oglethorpe Ready for Tussle.

Although Georgia is rated as one of the best teams in the conference this year, competent observers believe Oglethorpe further advanced and in better condition for the tussle than last year.

Down at the Florida Alligators' camp at Gainesville they are singing the praises of a young sophomore, Al Rogers. This youngster, who was a mainstay on the freshman squad last year, is giving the veteran McEwen a real run for the first-string quarterback post.

In addition to his shifty broken-field running ability, Rogers is the best punter on the squad and can pass creditably. As yet he is unseasoned for varsity work, but probably will see quite a bit of service as an understudy.

AMERICAN U. PLANS GRID IN 1931

Eagles Hope to Stage Next Season's Play on Own Field.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY will have a football field of its own ready for staging of games next fall, it was learned yesterday. The field, already graded and planted with cow peas, is located on Massachusetts avenue about 200 yards west of Nebraska avenue.

It is planned to play games on the field next fall whether or not permanent stands are built. The stands will be added in 1932, if not before.

Running Track Included In Layout.

A quarter-mile track with a 220-yard straightaway is included in the layout. This also will be ready for use next fall, it is hoped.. .....

Lack of a football field has greatly handicapped American University elevens of the past and has made it inconvenient for the students, who have been forced to travel from one end of the city to the other, to witness the Eagles' games.

ATTENTION: G. CONSIDINE.

George Considine, brother of the District tennis champion, possesses a steady backcourt driving game, being especially effective on running shots. But his unwillingness to change his weak service bids fair to hold him down.

treacherous, 6,565-yard layout look easy and might easily have posted a 64 or 65 with a few "breaks."

Noyes Deadly With Spade Mashie.

Noyes was deadly with his spade mashie and putter as well as being extremely long off the tees. Out in 38, he burned up the course coming back. He holed a 15-footer for deuce at the thirteenth and stuck a spade shot 2 feet from the cup for a birdie 3 on the fifteenth. He needed another birdie 3 for his 70 at the home hole and got it by firing a No. 2 iron shot to 10 feet of the cup and holing the putt.

Dr. Willing was steadiness itself. He had his putting touch with him, especially on the last nine when he got down good-sized putts for birdies on the tenth and sixteenth. The dentist had a 70-foot on the home hole that he missed by a matter of 2 inches for a birdie that would have given him a 69.

The extremity of the day's score was a 99 by Francis Hersey, of Wellesley, Mass., this year's Princeton captain, who compiled a 12 on the 378-yard eleventh hole. On this hole he hit two trees, going out of bounds the second time, then hit twice in a brook and finally over the green. He was on in 10 and down in two putts for the only "double figure" count of the day.

Poor Inward Nine Costs Stevinson Qualification

Special to The Washington Post.

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 22.—A disastrous incoming nine virtually cost Miller B. Stevinson, Washington entrant, his chances of qualifying for the national amateur golf championship in the opening eighteen holes of medal play here today.

After going out in 40 strokes, Stevinson ran into all kinds of trouble and came home in 47, for a total of 87, which, observers believe, will prove the death of his chances for getting into match play. His card suffered a seven on the fourteenth hole when he hooked his tee shot out of bonds. On the sixteenth and seventeenth Stevinson took three putts, and on seventeenth he missed a short one that would have given him a par for the hole.

The second eighteen holes will be played tomorrow and Stevinson expressed hopes of doing much better.

Stevinson's card:

Out ..... 6 6 3 5 6 5 3 4 2—40
In ..... 4 6 5 3 7 6 6 5 5—47—87

Purinton Advances At Edgemoor Nets

Jack Purinton, veteran Treasury netman, reached the fourth round of the annual Edgemoor Club tennis tournament yesterday when he won a drawn-out victory over Frank Taylor, 7—5, 3—6, 6—1. Purinton faltered in the second set, but came back strongly in the rubber aided by an erratic streak on the part of Taylor.

Commander C. C. Gill and Colin Stam, prime favorites to reach the final round, advanced easily to the third round, both matches being decided in the minimum of sets. Capt. A. J. Gore, former national veterans' doubles champion, also reached the third bracket.

SINGLES.

Second round—Gill defeated Gamble, 6—0, 6—3; Purinton defeated Wood, 6—0, 6—3; Taylor defeated Thompson, 6—4, 6—4; Stam defeated Willis, 6—3, 6—1; Gore defeated Walker, 6—4, 7—5; Rutley defeated White, 8—6, 6—1.

Third round—Purinton defeated Taylor, 7—5, 3—6, 6—1.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Singles—Third round, 4 o'clock: Gore vs. Rutley, Stam vs. Callan.

Doubles—Second round, 5 o'clock: Gill and Purinton vs. Burgwin and Thompson, Callan and Willis vs. Dawson and partner.

NAVY POINTS FOR NOTRE DAME

Middie Coaches Looking Forward to Victory on Oct. 11.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 22.—Though not overlooking the season's opening engagement with William and Mary, scheduled for October 4, Head Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram and his staff of assistants launched the third week of practice sessions with attention centered largely upon a drive for the Notre Dame battle to be played at South Bend a week later.

Intense heat prevailed again today, hence the mentors were not inclined to drive their pupils at a stiff pace, although the morning and afternoon workouts were gratifying, particularly the morning one when the weather elements were somewhat more favorable.

Navy adherents are keen for the battle with Rockne's ramblers and eager to register a victory, something they have not hitherto accomplished. One touchdown has been margin of victory for the South Benders in the engagements of recent years.

Coaches and players alike realize that there's lots of work ahead if a victory is to come to Navy this year, as the coaches face a big problem to fill the gaps caused by graduations last June, especially in the forward wall. Indications are that the first line defense will be lighter than for some years, although the group with which the coaches are now working is composed of strong and atcive players.

Capable back field material is more plentiful, with Lou Kirn, star of the Dartmouth game last year, Johnny Gannon, and Denning, quarter back of last year's plebe team, probably showing the best form at present.

REVENGE AIM OF CENTRAL FRIDAY

Meets Gonzaga for First Time Since 1925 Battle.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

NOT since an ironically hot day in the early fall of 1925, when Johnny Bozek, garbed in Gonzaga's purple, went down under the weight of a squad of Central's tacklers only to rise and race practically unmolested to the winning, and variously discussed, touchdown, have the Hill Dwellers and the Eye Streetmen been seen together within the confines of a gridiron.

It was Central's lone setback of the year and the only time an alien set foot behind its goal posts. That has remained a sore spot in Central's composite mind ever since; one that seems bound to make the Central-Gonzaga tilt on Friday at Central Stadium a fit opening for a scholastic football season destined to feature many torridly contested battles.

Rauber on Lookout For Dynamite.

Ty Rauber, Central coach, even though aware of the fact that Gonzaga is lighter, Bozekless, more inexperienced and definitely the underdog, is far from a condescending feeling over the impending tussle. He is using the game as a means of getting acquainted with his team as a whole. No doubt he has met most of his new men socially—indeed, drilled into them nearly all their knowledge of football—but he is looking for the answer to the question, "What happens when a coach sends in a shiny new front line to clear the way for four experienced backs?"

Cordella, Hinkel, Pinckney and Cumberland, Central's stalwart, but not unwieldy back field, must depend on this line to win from opposing gentlemen the openings necessary to preserve their splendid past performances.

Mrs. Everett Eynon Wins Corby Cup Golf Tourney

Scores 83 by Virtue of Good Inward Nine to Lead Field of 60; Miss Faunce Trails by Two Strokes.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

COMPETITION for the handsome trophy donated by Mrs. William S. Corby, former president of the Women's District Golf Association, attracted more than 60 women golfers to the course of the Columbia Country Club yesterday morning. Eighteen holes were played, medal score, with handicap allowance, and all women players in the District were eligible.

Mrs. Everett Eynon, who recently won the women's championship of Rhode Island, led the field with a gross score of 83. With an indifferent outward round of 46, she came homeward with a fine 37, only two strokes over par for the men's course, her card being as follows:

Out ..... 5 4 4 5 3 7 6 6 3 6—46
In ..... 4 5 5 3 5 4 3 4 4—37—83

Although Mrs. Eynon would have been entitled to the prize for low, being two strokes lower than the 85 scored by Miss Winifred Faunce, Manor, she was the winneer, with a handicap of 3, of the trophy offered by Mrs. Corby for low net and chose the latter prize.

Miss Faunce Takes Second Low Net Prize.

Miss Faunce, who would have been entitled to the low gross under the ruling of the association that no player can take more than one prize, selected the second low net with her card of 85—4—81. Mrs. E. F. Burchard, Washington Golf and Country Club, with a card of 100-16—84, won the third low net prize.

Miss Virginia Williams, Congressional, who was entitled to low gross with a card of 89 after the elimination of Mrs. Eynon and Miss Faunce, accepted this prize in lieu of a prize for third low net, the latter being awarded to Mrs. Burchard. Mrs. J. W. Beller, with 92; Mrs. H. A. Knox, with 93, and Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, with 94, were next in line for low gross. Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia, and Mrs. S. F. Colladay, who are among the leading women golfers in this section, participated in the event, but did not turn in cards.

A threatened invasion of the army worm, which promises more devastation to the local golf fairways and greens than the dreaded Japanese beetle, was the principal subject of discussion at the quarterly meeting yesterday of the Green Section of the United States Golf Association in this city.

Battle Being Waged Against Army Worm.

Robert Scott, of the Baltimore Country Club, president of the Middle Atlantic section, stated that already the army worm had caused havoc on several of the Baltimore courses, and that its numbers and its ravages had already been the subject of newspaper pictures. It was reported that at the Columbia Country Club, where the meeting was held, evidences of the army worm already had been observed on the first, fourth and fifth greens and that heroic treatment would be necessary to prevent destruction.

During the day the members of the Green Section visited all the local golf courses and the experimental gardens at Arlington, where the Department of Agriculture is conducting practical work in the growth of grasses for puttings greens.

In the qualifying round for the club championship at the Beaver Dam Club the field was led by Henry Phipps with a card of 38—37—75, M. F. McCarthy and Dr. Hopkins following with a tie of 79. J. J. Baggett, Volney Burnett and Lindsay Stott were each 81, and in a play-off for two places in the first sixteen William H. White and D. G. Morris, each with 86, won the coveted position. Robert M. Brown dropping into the secon sixteen. The pairings will be made this week for match play next Sunday.

Mrs. P. B. Hoover captured medal honors yesterday in the annual women's championship of the Indian Spring Club with an 87. Match play starts today and continues throughout Thursday.

Pairings for the three flights were announced last night, as follows:

PAIRINGS.

First flight—Mrs. C. B. Hoover vs. Mrs. George Diffenbaugh; Mrs. E. B. Wagner vs. Mrs. A. Heap; Mrs. C. J. Matson vs. Mrs. B. Von Steiner; Mrs. F. E. Lewis vs. Mrs. J. F. Gross.

Second flight—Mrs. F. J. Kennedy vs. Mrs. H. P. Brown; Mrs. B. G. Simpick vs. Mrs. H. A. Mihlis; Miss Ruby Campbell drew a bye; Mrs. J. H. Pence vs. Mrs. J. N. Harvey.

Third flight—Mrs. W. N. Jackson vs. Mrs. W. B. O'Connell; Mrs. H. T. Whelan drew a bye; Mrs. E. J. Carrico drew a bye; Mrs. H. Eales drew a bye.

Thursday's Sharkey-Campolo Bout Arouses Little Interest

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The outdoor boxing campaign that mixed the disappointing and the satisfying in about equal proportions this summer seems about to drift into oblivion amid only a murmur of interest Thursday night, when Jack Sharkey and Victorio Campolo meet in the Yankee Stadium over the fifteen-round route.

The Boston sailorman opened the outdoor season with a farcical showing against Max Schmeling, who won the heavyweight championship while resting on the floor and moaning "foul." Now Sharkey will be given a chance to redeem himself and pave the way for an elimination series this winter by whipping the awkward South American giant. The bout is the last of importance scheduled outdoors.

Training in a gymnasium here the Boston gladiator, who has not fought since his appearance against Schmeling, has failed to impress the ring worms. Sharkey has been slow to reach condition and seems to have lost some of his fire and incentive. A defeat by Campolo, rated little more than a novice, would all but end Sharkey's eminence among the top notchers.

Campolo, a clumsy fellow of great height and size, has been striving desperately to develop a left-hand of sorts. He is a hard but ponderous right-hand puncher, courageous, but heavy of foot. In his four most important matches he has lost a decision to Phil Scott, scored a technical knockout over old Tom Heeney, drew once with Johnny Risko, and then lost a decision to the Cleveland baker boy. Lack of matches has handicapped Campolo' progress.

MANGIN MAY CLIMB.

William T. Tilden, stalwart in American tennis, in a recent article stating his ideas on the ranking of the American players placed Gregory Mangin, of Georgetown University, at No. 7.

This marks a jump of three notches for the volleying Hilltopper over his 1929 rating. It places him ahead of Lott, Van Ryn and Hunter.

NUTHALL RATED NINTH.

Betty Nuthall, England's champion of the United States in women's tennis, only rates ninth in the world according to the annual ranking list compiled by A. Wallis Myers, famed British tennis writer.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody did not defend her oft-won title this year.

VA. IS USING EARLY GAMES AS TESTS

Many to See Action in Randolph-Macon Game Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Spet. 22.—Thirty of the 42 men picked by Head Coach Earl Abell to compose Virginia's varsity squad for the season of 1930 got into the game with Roanoke College Saturday afternoon. An equal number may be used in the contest with Randolph-Macon College this week-end, so that the coaching staff may get some idea of their worth before the Southern Conference games get under way.

The scrub squad on Lambeth Field this season numbers eighteen, most of whom are inexperienced. There may be some shifting from one squad to the other as time goes on, but for the present the varsity coaching staff will devote its time to shaping up these two score players into one first string eleven with replacements all along the line.

Only 7 Letter Men on Varsity Squad.

Only seven letter men are on the varsity squad. Included in the selected list are sixteen backs, nine ends, six tackles, nine guards and three centers. The list of tackles includes Capt. Hunter Motley, of Madison, Va., and Robert Kimball, of Ipswich, Mass., letter men; Patrick Matthews, of Danvers, Mass.; Charles Poss, of Charlottesville, Va.; Christopher Tompkins, of Richmond, Va., and Otto Williams, of Richmond, Va.

Guards are William DeButts, of Barboursville, Va.; George Cameron and Churchill Dunn, of Petersburg, Va., all letter men, with Thomas Eckard, of Connellsville, Pa.; Floyd Lankford, of Baltimore, Md.; William McIntire, of Greenberg, Pa.; Risque Plummer, of Petersburg, Va., and Kenneth Robinson, of Norfolk, Va.

The three centers are Fenton Gentry, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Howard Myers, of Baltimore, Md., and Lewis Reiss, of New York City.

Ends include John Peyton, of Staunton, Va., the only "V" man, and Bernard Brenner, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Roger Charles, of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.; William Condon, of Memphis, Tenn.; St. Julian Oppenheimer, of Richmond, Va.; Norwood Orrick, of Washington, D. C.; James Platt, of Baltimore, Md.; Charles Payne, of Beckley, W. Va., and William St. Clair, of Price Hill, Va. Back field candidates include two men who won the "V" last fall, Herbert Bryant, of Alexandria, Va., and William Thomas, of Richmond, Va.

WHEAT, COTTON SLUMP

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Financial markets, with the exception of domestic bonds, suffered another sinking spell today.

In stocks, the average decline of 4.4 points in 90 issues was larger than last Friday's break and carried the composite to the lowest level since August 14. Commodities and foreign exchanges were heavy. Some wheat futures and all of the active months in cotton reacted to new lows, while crude rubber and the October sugar position established new all-time minimums.

The general weakness was ascribed in part to nervousness over various foreign situations, including disturbances in Chile, rumblings of unrest in Cuba and Uruguay and anxiety over conditions in Germany. Shares of companies having large foreign interests were particularly unsettled, but little or no liquidation from abroad was reported on the stock market, although some of the leading European exchanges were unsettled. The German mark went to a 1930 low and its weakness was accompanied by another drop in German bonds here.

2,332,655 Shares Traded.

Share prices worked lower from the opening, but the selling was desultory until late in the session, when the shorts became very active and succeeded in hammering pivotal shares, including U. S. Steel, to the lowest prices of the reaction. Sales in the last hour exceeded 1,000,000 shares and for the day totaled 2,332,655.

Secretary Lamont's statement, in which he noted the upturns in foreign and retail trade as well as substantial purchases of raw materials, received only passing attention. Although a steadier tone came into the market shortly after its appearance, the better tone was very temporary.

Wheat, rallying intermittently, finally weakened under the unfavorable announcement of an increase of nearly 4,000,000 bushels in the visible supply in this country, bringing the total to a record high at about 202,000,000 bushels. Closing prices were ¼ to ⅝ of a cent net lower. Corn sagged in sympathy, losing ⅞ to 1⅛. Cotton prices were the lowest of the season, closing off 9 to 13 points.

Brokers Advise Caution.

Sentiment in commission house circles was rather bearish and leading brokers counseled caution, although the possibility of a technical rally was emphasized. One of the statistical services which had been bullish on the business outlook revised its opinion to the extent of saying that the recovery probably would be slower and more moderate than had been expected.

Professional operators for the decline were apparently working on the supposition that third-quarter earnings statements, available next month, would be poor, if not the most unfavorable of the year. Selling was again vigorous in the steels, utilities and farm implement shares and losses of 3 to 4 points were numerous as a result of the late pressure. U. S. Steel dipped to 159⅞, its lowest in some time, closing at 160, a net loss of 3⅛. American & Foreign Power, which has important foreign connections, was heavily sold and lost 6 points net. International Telephone, in a similar position, dropped to a new low for the year.

International Harvester also went under its previous minimum, yielding 4 points net, while Case tumbled 8.

Losses in Important Shares.

Important stocks, such as American Can, American Telephone, Du Pont and Westinghouse Electric lost 3 to 4, and there were similar declines in Macy, Bethlemen Steel, United Aircraft, Electric Power & Light, Stone & Webster, American Power & Light and American Water Works. Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of New Jersey, New York Central, Radio, General Motors and General Electric held their losses to a point or so.

The more spectacular drops were in Diamond Match, off 21, Allied Chemical, off 10, and People's Gas, off 12. Utah Copper, trading for the first time in several months, was quoted 38 points under the last sale. Stocks making new lows for the year included United Fruit, St. Louis-San Francisco, Republic Steel common and preferred, Postal Telegraph preferred, Calumet & Hecla and Curtiss-Wright.

Easiness in most of the Continental Currencies was normal. The Dutch Guilder was one of the few firm spots, holding around the year's high.

RAILS MOVE AHEAD; FOREIGN BONDS SINK

Declines in German Issues Are From 1 to 6 Points; Convertibles Off.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE UP

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Activity in the bond market was at the high level of the year today as liquidation continued in the foreign list, inspired by uncertainty over the German situation and institutional inquiry held the domestic list on a firm basis.

The sharpest changes were in German municipals and industrials as investors continued to unload their holdings at sharp concessions under the previous final price. German International 5½s and 7s, the two obligations of the republic most widely held in this country, sold off 2¼ and 3 points, respectively, to the lowest prices of the year on large turnovers. German bank issues, loans of various cities and some industrials suffered from the selling movement, many resting on new bottom at the finish. Losses ranged from 1 to 6 points. News of an attempted revolution in Chile, which the new government reported was frustrated, depressed obligations of the South American republic, losses ranging from 1 to 2½ points in a half dozen issues.

Weakness of stocks caused some selling of bonds with stock privilege features. The 4½ per cent convertible of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. duplicated the performance of the stock by sinking to a new 1930 low, on a 2-point drop. Debenture 5s also were weak and at a new bottom for 1930. American Telephone 4½s lost 2½. Atchison 4½s, 1, and Warner Brothers sold down to 87¼, a new year's low.

The best demand in the domestic list was for high grade and second grade railroad issues and many reached new 1930 highs. Some irregularity developed in the utility and domestic groups and both yielded some ground as reflected in the averages.

New highs in the rail group included Ann Arbor 4s, Atchison adjustment 4s, Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Brunswick & Western 4s, Canadian National 5s of 1969, Canadian Southern 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4s (Potts Creek Division), Chicago, Burlington & Quincy 4s (Illinois Division), Jamestown, Franklin & Clearfield 4s, Montana Central 6s, Pennsylvania Construction 4s, Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington 4s, Rio Grande & Western 4s, Savannah, Florida & Western 5s, Union Pacific 4s, and Western Maryland 5½s.

United States Governments were steady.

INSTITUTE CLASSES OPENED IN CAPITAL

MORE COURSES PLANNED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

With what promises to be a record enrollment, classes in the first semester of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, opened last night. Registration of students which began last week, will continue throughout the week between the hours of 7 and 8 oclock in the evening.

Last year there were 632 students enrolled in the chapter's courses and this year it is believed that number will be exceeded. It is now feared that two classes will be filled to capacity and some students desiring training in them may have to be rejected until a later term.

Opening classes were in commercial law in which Raymond B. Dickey, dean of the institute faculty, is an instructor; standard economics, taught by F. Joseph Donohue, former instructor at Catholic University, and credits, taught by Vice President Edward J. McQuade of Liberty National Bank. All are members of the District of Columbia bar.

Tonight classes in banking fundamentals, negotiable instruments and investments will open; tomorrow night, that in public discussion and debate. Thursday there will be classes in commercial law, standard economics, credits and investments, and Friday, those in banking fundamentals, negotiable instruments and personal efficiency. This will be the schedule through the remainder of the fall term.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Jewel Tea Co., Inc., today reported sales of $1,099,650 for the four weeks ended September 6, compared with $1,156,730 for parallel weeks in 1929. This was a decrease of 4.93 per cent. Sales routes for the 1930 period numbered 1,250 and for the similar 1929 period were 1,880.

Continued presence of selling orders from abroad caused new declines on the Berlin bourse today, although there was no real rush of unloading. The losses ranged up to 9 points and the close was weak.

The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes, bushels: Wheat increased 3,928,000; corn increased 273,000; oats increased 1,034,000; rye increased 983,000; barley increased 897,000.

Directors of the Ohio Leather Co. today declared a dividend of $5 on the second preferred stock on account of accumulations. The regular quarterly dividends of $2 on the first preferred and $1.75 on the second preferred also were authorized. The accumulated unpaid dividends on the second preferred amount to about 25 per cent.

Fair inquiry and sales of print cloths and other coarse-yarn gray goods delivered in today's market. Advances of one-eighth of a cent from last week were paid and future advances were asked in some centers. Moderate fine goods inquiry developed. Fair demand for finished goods in primary quarters were reported. Burlap prices were unchanged with the market here quiet. Calcutta burlap markets were closed due to holiday.

Directors of International Printing Ink Co. today reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $2.50 from $3 by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred was authorized.

Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., who is visiting the company's agencies in the Southern and Southwestern district, said that he had noted a "decided improvement in the mental attitude of merchants" everywhere, and that "business has taken a definite turn upward."

Sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $300,000 has been arranged. The price is $1,000 lower than the previous sale announced last week and marked a decline of $100,000 from late in July, when a seat was sold for $400,000.

Offering is expected this week of an issue of $7,000,000 Tennessee Public Service Co. first and refunding 5 per cent bonds, priced at 96½.

Louis A. Zahrn, treasurer of General Motors Corporation, announced that more than 66,000 shares of the company's stock have been subscribsd for under stock purchase plans offered to employes. He explained that the shares were paid for through monthly deductions from salary, and do not include stock bought privately by employes nor that held by executives of the parent company and its fifteen subsidiaries.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Cotton prices made new low records for the season today throughout the entire list, with general trading operations the most active experienced in weeks.

The decline was attributed largely to increased hedge selling by the South, which seemed to encourage more general selling by commission houses. The weakness in Wall street and favorable weather for the growing crop also contributed to the decline, but heavy trade buying offered strong resistance and held the movement of prices within comparatively narrow limits. The market worked steadily lower, however, throughout the day. New December contracts declined to 10.85 and closed at that figure, a net loss of 13 points, while the general market closed steady at 8 to 13 points net lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 1 point, and the market was on a down grade practically throughout the entire session despite the steadier Liverpool cables than anticipated. The South sold quite freely all day, which gave the impression that the movement of cotton from the farms was beginning to be reflected in the hedge selling, regardless of the recent evidences of a holding movement by Southern farmers and cooperative associations. The active demand from domestic and foreign trade interests offered about the only support, but this was not sufficient volume to give the market a show of resistance, and the decline was very gradual. Some market observers expressed the belief that the price was attractive to the trade and that spinners were coming in for large quantities of cotton on declines. October liquidation was again in evidence, and new October contracts declined to 100.66, closing at that price, while March sold down to 11.12, closing at 11.13.

Some traders were inclined to anticipate a bearish report on ginnings by the Census Bureau, to be published at 11 o'clock on Tuesday and which will compare with 2,391,413 bales last year and 2,500,782 in 1928. Reports were received here from Alabama indicating a reduction in the amounts being advanced to farmers of a cent a pound, but this was said to be due to the fact that the cotton coming in was of thirteenth-sixteenths inch rather than seven-eighths.

Liverpool cabled that the market was steady on covering and continental buying and that the cloth inquiry was fair, while yarn sales equaled production. Exports today, 39,730, making 934,848 so far this season. Port receipts, 77,335. United States port stocks, 2,326,282.

Church Camp Destroyed by Fire.

Warsaw, Va., Sept. 22 (Special).—Marvin Grove Camp, established in 1877 by the Methodist Episcopal Church and named for Bishop Marvin, of Missouri, and located on the border lines of Richmond and Northumberland Counties, was completely destroyed by fire this afternoon, entailing a loss of about $10,000, with no insurance. Marvin Grove has been run annually.

CLAIRVOYANTS

608 12th St. N.W.

Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay

JEALOUS MATE SHOOTS MAN IN EARLE THEATER

Wife of Wounded Navy Yard Worker Did Not Know of Attentions to Another.

Sylvester L. Fornwald, 39 years old, of G street near Fourteenth street northeast, is thought to be in a dying condition in Emergency Hospital after he was shot three times by Parker Bowie, 47-year-old corpenter living in Croissant place, near Seventh street southeast, in the Earle Theater yesterday shortly before noon.

The shooting occurred soon after the first performance of the moving picture house started. Fornwald was seated about midway in the theater with Bowie's wife when Bowie entered and stalked up and down the aisles, finally locating the couple.

"I've got my man now," he is declared to have said, and without a warning to the other persons seated nearby he whipped out a revolver and rapidly fired three shots. The first one hit Fornwald in the head just over the left ear, while the other two were fired into his back as he slumped over in the seat.

Confusion Seizes Audience.

Confusion reigned in the theater. Mrs. Bowie, seated by Fornwald's side, fainted as the wounded man crumpled over with a low groan, bleeding profusely. Other persons in the house started screaming, and one usher who was present later declared: "We thought the theater was becoming a madhouse." There were more than 1,000 persons in the audience.

Three policemen off duty were attending the performance, and, with the aid of theater attaches, Bowie was quickly seized and taken to the First Precinct, while the injured man was rushed to the hospital in their ambulance. The policemen were W. T. Hayden and W. T. Murphy, of the Ninth Precinct, and Private L. P. Bell, of the Fifth Precinct.

Late last night Fornwald's condition was still unchanged, and very little hope was entertained for his recovery. A blood transfusion was resorted to as a means of prolonging his life and to aid him in regaining enough strength to undergo an operation to remove the bullet from the base of his brain.

Bowie Tells of Warnings.

At the police station where Bowie was taken, he told a story of repeated warnings to his wife that her going with another man was going to bring trouble to their home.

Mrs. Fornwald, the injured man's wife, was first told of the tragedy by a Post reporter. Although it was a great shock to her, on her way to the bedside of her husband she unfolded the story of how she had fought a battle to keep the affections of her husband, and how, until yesterday, she thought she had won.

"He was so good to me that I can't realize such a thing has happened," she declared. "There was nothing that I wanted which he would not get or do for me. Why—" and she wiped a tear from her cheek—"only a little while ago he asked me if I did not want a new car, and when I told him that I would like it, I had it before three days had passed.

Married for 15 Years.

"A few years ago," she continued, "I thought that he was going around with another woman, perhaps more than one woman, but I thought that he had gotten over that infatuation, and that he was surely the model husband. About four years ago we had a little quarrel or two about the Bowie woman, but I had entirely forgotten about her, and I was under the impression that he had also."

They had been married for almost 15 years, she disclosed, and during that time they had not had one serious quarrel. Just a few little ones which were quickly forgotten, and not even one of those for a long time.

"He was so good to me!" she constantly repeated on the way to the hospital.

According to the wife, Fornwald has lived in Washington for about 19 years, coming here from Reading, Pa. He had been employed at the Navy Yard for several years, and at the time of the shooting he was a night crane operator in the gun factory there.

Had Little Time Together.

His hours, Mrs. Fornwald said, were so different from her own that they were with each other only for a few hours each night. He worked on the 12 midnight to 8 o'clock-in-the-morning shift, causing him to have to leave the apartment each night about 11 o'clock. She is employed in a local laundry, and went to work each morning before her husband returned from his job.

"I have no idea what he did during the morning hours," she said yesterday, "but I certainly did not think that he would go out with other women." And then, with a sigh, she resignedly added, "but men are so uncertain, aren't they?"

Bowie will be held at the First Precinct station pending the recovery or death of Fornwald. Mrs. Bowie will be questioned later in connection with the shooting, police say, but she was not held yesterday.

Mrs. Fornwald will probably go to her mother, Mrs. Martha E. Mangum, who is employed in the Government Printing Office here and lives on K street northwest. She told attaches at the hospital yesterday that she held nothing against her husband, and that she would do anything she could for him. He is in a semiconscious condition at the hospital.

Broker Files Bankruptcy Plea.

Grain Leader Pleads Bankruptcy.

Abraham Kline, of 1124 Florida avenue northeast, who describes himself as a retail dealer in hay, grain, feed and gasoline, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt. He lists liabilities of $2,868.85 and no assets.

CAMPBELL GUN TEST SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Defense Expert to Come to Capital From New York State to See Pistol.

OTHERS TO BE PRESENT

Examination of the pistol which the Government alleges was used by Herbert M. Campbell in the murder of Mary E. Baker will be made next week by Albert H. Hamilton, of Auburn, N. Y., ballistics expert for the defense.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins yesterday directed a letter to Chief Defense Counsel Charles Henry Smith acceding to his request for gun tests by the defense. Mr. Collins, however, declined permission for Mr. Hamilton to view the other Government evidence, which consists of clothes, a pair of men's gloves and some cheap jewelry which were found in a trap basin a mile from the place where the girl's body was found.

Mr. Smith, upon receipt of Mr. Collins' letter today, will communicate with Mr. Hamilton to have him come to Washington for the tests. Mr. Collins will have present, Dr. Wilmer Souder or Lieut. John Fowler, local ballistics experts, while the tests are being made.

Columbus U. Law School Resumes

Largest Student Body in History Present at First Assembly.

The largest student body in the history of the institution was present last night for the opening assembly of Columbus University Law School. Regular class sessions will commence tonight.

William E. Leahy, dean of the school, stressed the value of legal training in his welcoming address to the students. "We are living in an age of widespread unrest," he said, "and a legal education is of great value to the individual so that he may know his own rights and not transgres sthose of others."

The purpcses of the school, which is conducted under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, were outlined in short addresses by President Charles W. Darr and William G. Feely, chairman of the board of trustees.

$5,000 Bond Assessed In Bogus Money Case

Charged with passing counterfeit money, Aaron Trachtenberg, of Massachusetts avenue northwest near Second street, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and ordered held under $5,000 bond pending hearing on removal proceedings next Monday.

Trachtenberg is said to be wanted in Baltimore on the charge. He already is under bond in the District in connection with an alleged assault last week on Policeman V. V. Vaughn, of the Traffic Bureau. Vaughn was sent to the hospital as was another man as the result of the alleged encounter, which arose over a parking violation.

RAZING AUTHORITY EXTENSION URGED

350 CONDEMNED IN 1929

Amendment of existing law so as to extend authority of the District to raze buildings which have been condemned as delapidated and unsanitary was urged by the board for condemnation of unsanitary buildings in its annual report, submitted to the District Commissioners yesterday.

Under cour decisions, the board said, owners of property compelled the District to pay for old delapidated and unsanitary buildings, he corporation counsel has drafted an amendment to the law which will permit the board to proced "more expitiously," the report said.

The report was signed by Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, as chairman; Dr. William C. Fowler, health o%cer; Col. John W. Oehmann, building inspector, and A. S. J. Atkinson, inspector.

There were 350 buildings condemned in the last fiscal year, of which 76 were in alleys, the board reported. Of those condemned, 205 weer razed, 120 were repaired and the status of the remaining 25 was pending at the close of the year. There are 308 buildings awaiting future action. The value of repairs made to save condemned buildings was given as $58,175.

Girl Bride Asks Court To Annul Her Marriage

Ann Elizabeth McDaniel, of Gallatin street northwest, near Sixth street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to annual her marriage to DeLaney DeSales McDaniel, of Takoma Park, Md.

Mrs. McDaniel, who says she is 18 years old now, states that she married McDaniel last January 21 and that she was under age and that he also was. She also asserts that McDaniel told her he had a substantial bank account, but that she discovered he did not. Attorney P. C. King, jr., appears for the woman.

Smoke Screen Use Is Charged to Man

Coombs Believed Driver of Car Which Led Police in Wild Chase.

A warrant charging the use of an automobile smoke screen yesterday was served on Glenroy Horace Toombs, 31 years old, Oates Street near Montello Avenue northeast.

Toombs is believed to have been the driver of an automobile which led members of Sergt. George M. Little's liquor squad on a wild chase through the southeast section of the city several weeks ago.

He was taken into custody by G. C. Deyoe and locked up at the Fifth precinct police station. Toombs gave his occupation as a chauffeur.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

IN the old days, the male of the species did the spending for the family; rather recklessly, sometimes, it's true; but the man usually held control of the finances. Nowadays, according to Luella, eighty-five per cent of all salaries in the country are spent by women.

"What does that mean?" I asked, "and where did you get your figures."

"You've asked me two questions, which do you want answered?"

"Both."

"All right, if you want to know about this new situation, it means that women have at last become financies——"

"Financiers? You think it takes a financier to spend money?"

"You can't spend money unless you've got it," she snapped.

"No? What about all these charge accounts? It doesn't take money there. You just 'charge it'."

* * * *

SHE shot me a crushing glance.

"You asked me where I got my figures, showing that eighty-five per cent of all salaries in the country are spent by women."

"Figures," I sneered; "They're sometimes a lot of poppycock——"

"Why poppycock——"

"Because figures lie."

"Oh, no," she corrected, "figures don't lie—liars figure."

Either way, it's all nonsense trying to figure out who spends the money. As a matter of fact there isn't much money to spend." With that shot I turned to the financial pages to see the latest fluctuations in the market. The bears are about to devour the bulls.

* * * *

SUDDENLY my eye caught a statement from a leading financier, to wit: "Last year feminine financiers invested $700,000,000 in fraudulent securities. It is the fault of their husbands, brothers, sons and fathers, who do not take time to teach them sound finance."

Ho! Ho! So that was it.

GAS RATE DECISION BY UTILITIES BOARD IS EXPECTED SOON

Commission Members Ask More Time to Discuss New Schedule.

STRAIGHT ACCEPTANCE OR VETO IS UNDECIDED

Minimum Bill for Small Consumer Is Point to Be Scanned With Care.

Brief discussion by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday failed to develop a decision on the gas rate schedules proposed by the Washington Gas Light Co. for the District.

Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired, chairman of the commission, said that a decision will be reached soon, probably on Thursday, when the commission will hold its next regular executive session. Members of the commission, Gen. Patrick said, are studying various questions involved in the rate case and want additional time to reach their individual conclusion.

Whether the legal situation surrounding the tender of new rates by the gas company is such that the commission must accept or veto the schedule as submitted has not been finally determined in the commission's mind, Gen. Patrick said.

Small Consumers Object.

Objection has been raised against the schedule submitted by the company to the effect that it will increase the monthly bills of approximately 28,000 small consumers, and Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, sought at the public hearing last week to commit company representatives to a modification of this household schedule so as to provide for no increase for this class of consumers.

Company officers, however, were loath to agree unless they were shown how such a m odification would result in sufficiently increased business to make up the loss.

The rate schedules submitted by the company would cut its revenues by $500,000 in the first year they are in effect, company experts estimated, but the minimum bill provisions covering the small household consumer would cut this prospective decrease in revenues by something like $150,000, which would be the amount the small consumers would pay above the amount they now pay under the rate of $1 per 1,000 cubic feet without a minimum bill.

Minimum to be Scanned.

Persons who used 2,200 cubic feet gas a month would get the same bill as now and those who used more would pay less and less as the quantity used mounted.

The minimum bill for the small consumer is one point which the utilities commission is expected to scan carefully, wilh an I to reducing it.

On the other hand the commission may decide that the rate of 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas for household heating purposes is too low.

Capital Judge Hits Overactive Police

Hitt, in Fining Car Driver on Minor Traffic Charge, Makes Statement.

If one out of every four inhabitants of the District of Columbia is arrested once a year it is due to overzealousness on the part of traffic policemen.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday virtually made that statement when he took the personal bond of Charles G. Doomis, of Georgia avenue northwest near the District Line, on a charge of passing through a safety zone at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The judge, however, held that the car operator had failed to show a permit and fined him $2 on that count.

In criticizing the police, Judge Hitt declared: "Records show that nearly a quarter of the population of Washington were arrested last year. A large number of these cases were traffic. I dare say a large number of these cases should not have occurred and would not have occurred if police had been less anxious to make small cases, shown more courtesy and endeavored to apprehend the more important violators of the law."

Gold Star Group Greeted by Hoover

Missouri Unit Departs for Home After Sojourn in Capital.

A formal greeting at the White House by President Hoover and a visit to the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon concluded the two-day sojourn here of several score Gold Star Mothers of Missouri.

Stopping off in this city en route to their homes after a pilgrimage to the graves of their sons in France as guests of the Government, the delegation journeyed to the grave of the Nation's first President to lay a wreath.

Immediately upon their return at noon they were received at the White House, where President Hoover on the south lawn posed with them for photographers.

Former Will Be Named to Succeed Capt. Sanford in Fifth Precinct.

LATTER TO MOVE UP ONE GRADE IN RANK

Shifts May Be Made So as to Place Younger Man in No. 1 Post.

Lieut. James F. Beckett, of the First Police precinct, and Sergt. James C. Holmes, of the Harbor precinct, are expected to be promoted by District Commissioners this week.

Lieut. Beckett will be made a captain to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement, effective October 1, of Capt. Sanford, veteran commander of the Fifth precinct, who is retiring at his own request.

Holmes For Beckett.

Sergt. Holmes will be made a lieutenant to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Lieut. Beckett, but it is not certain just where Mr. Holmes will be assigned and it is possible that there may be some shifts in assignments of lieutenants and a younger man sent to be second in command of the First precinct.

Lieut. Beckett was born in Maryland on January 13, 1883, and was appointed to the police force on August 8, 1907. He was assigned to duty in the Sixth Precinct. He was made a sergeant on August 10, 1919, and assigned to the First Precinct where he has served since. He was promoted to lieutenant on January 16, 1922. He has been several times commended for his police work.

Veteran in Department.

Sergt. Holmes is a veteran in the department. He was born in New York on August 9, 1867 nad was appointed to the police force here on December 2, 1892. His first assignment was in the Second Precinct and later he was on duty in the First and Eleventh Precincts. He was a horse patrolman in the latter precinct.

Commended several times for apprehension of criminals, he was promoted to sergeant on September 1, 1902. He was assigned to duty in the harbor precinct a few weeks ago.

Y. M. C. A. Outlines Fall's Activities

Extension of Participation in Athletic Events Is Scheduled.

Extension of its activities, notably in the active participation of its athletic teams in local and intercity contests, will be undertaken this fall by the Washington Y. M. C. A. under a program adopted last night by its managers, committeemen and staff officers at the Blue Triangle Hut.

The policy of the physical department in sports will extend to basket ball, handball, volley ball, swimming, bowling, wrestling and track events.

A policy of "closer personal relationship between instructor and student" has been adopted for the "Y" institutions, including Southeastern University, Washington Preparatory School and the Woodward School for Boys. Cooperation with churches in religious education, employment and welfare work, promotion of clubs among high school students, and other activities are included in the program.

Motorization of Police To Be Club Debate Topic

Motorization of police precincts, and the question of whether it will increase efficiency, will be debated before the Junior Citizens Alliance tonight in the offices of the Washington Board of Trade.

The affirmative will be upheld by Charles Scott Sykes, Samuel Lightman and Miss Elizabeth Hammett. The negative side will be taken by Luther B. Keen, Paul E. Keen and J. Mark Trice. Judge Mary O'Toole, of Municipal Court, will act as chairman of the debate. Rufus S. Lusk will address the club on public speaking.

District's Fiscal Study Date Set

Monetary Relationship of City With U. S. Will Be Analyzed.

The congressional investigation of the fiscal relationship between the District of Columbia and the Federal Government will begin about the middle of November, Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, announced yesterday.

The committee will seek to determine what is a fair sum for the Federal Government to contribute toward the support of the local government, and it is likely that it will recommend a new system of taxation here.

Fireman Injured in Explosion.

Autoist Pays $5 on Failure To Give Way to Pedestrian

The pedestrian came into his own at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday, where Policeman H. D. Johnson, of the Traffic Bureau, firmly set about enforcing the statute which requires motorists to give right of way to persons on crosswalks. One arrest resulted.

Kingsley Albert House, 28 years old, a musician, of College Park, Md., who was charged with failure to give right of way to a pedestrian, forfeited $5 collateral on the charge.

The traffic policeman was nearly as severe with "jaywalkers." Although the edict against "jaywalking" has been thought to be nonenforceable, a Post reporter who elected to take the short cut diagonally across the intersection yesterday afternoon found his way blocked by the minion of the law.

"Go to the corner, please. No jaywalking here," was the command. It was obeyed.

CAUTIOUS BURGLAR KNOCKS NEXT DOOR

Finds When Owner Will Be at Home and Then Goes Leisurely to Work.

LOOTS SEVERAL HOUSES

A number of Washington homes have recently been ransacked by a jimmy thief who has adopted a novel method of operation.

Police report that before forcing entry the robber makes inquiries of neighbors to ascertain the habits of his prospective victim. He is thus able to be sure that his work will be uninterrupted.

Patterson told the police that the maid at the apartment next door reported a call from a white man who inquired as to when Patterson would be at home.

As the work of jimmy thieves has been causing many complaints in the Northwest section in recent weeks, police are concentrating on plans for his apprehension.

Grocer Pays $9.23 For Racket Lesson

Delivery Boy Gives Change for $10 to Apartment "Patron" Who Flees.

The latest victim of the change trick which has mulcted many local merchants in recent weeks is Oscar Gildenham, 2216 Eighteenth street northwest, who yesterday reported to police that his delivery boy was fleeced of $9.23 by the scheme.

Gildenham received a phone call to send groceries amounting to 77 cents and change for a $10 bill to an Eighteenth street apartment. The boy making the delivery was met at the door by a young man, who took the money and disappeared.

The janitor of the building reported that the thief had previously asked to look at a vacant apartment in the building.

Humphries Must Face Charges in New York

William Mayo Humphries, alleged confidence man, was ordered returned to New York City yesterday to face an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud.

Humphries who has been under indictment in New York for some time and who was apprehended here more than a week ago made only a desultory fight against his removal, when brought before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. The man had appeared before the commissioner last week and was unable to post bond of $20,000.

$150 Ring Theft Reported.

SMITH FIRM PLEAS WILL BE EXPEDITED

INDICTMENTS ARE HIT

In an effort to pave the way for the Department of Justice to obtain a speedy trial of all criminal charges against the F. H. Smith Co., its officers, directors and subordinates, it was announced yesterday that a special hearing on pleas in abatement to the various indictments will be held tomorrow.

The action came immediately after the Department of Justice had announced that it would seek trial on the indictments beginning October 8 and after an additional plea in abatement had been filed to the indictment in which G. Bryan Pitts and others are charged with conspiracy to embezzle funds of the Smith Co.

In attacking anew the grand jury which returned the conspiracy indictment, defense attorneys questioned the right of Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, to present the case, claiming that the special assistant did not file his credentials with the clerk of the court. It also is alleged that another special assistant, Henry W. Syfrig, was permitted to enter the grand jury room and take stenographic notes of proceedings without first filing his commission with the clerk.

The indictment has been attacked on many other grounds, but the United States attorney's office, according to Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, plans to vacate the new plea with the statement that it was filed more than four months after the return of the indictment.

Capital Group Leaving For Trade Conference

A delegation of Washington trade executives will leave this afternoon for Niagara Falls to attend the annual convention of the American Trade Executives Association. The convention will continue all this week.

The Washington delegation will include Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association; Philip Gott, D. A. Skinner, E. W. McCullough and H. P. Baker, of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Abram Myers, former Federal Trade Commissioner; George A. # $29,502,800 STREET AND BRIDGE REPAIR PROGRAM PLANNED

$24,170,850 to Be Spent Within Next Five Years, According to Plan.

WHITEHURST SUBMITS DATA TO CITY'S HEADS

Scheme Calls for Extensive Widening of Principal Traffic Lanes Here.

A highway and bridge improvement program extending over a period of years and calling for expenditures of $29,502,800 was submitted to the District Commissioners yesterday by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, highway engineer.

The program calls for an expenditure of $24,170,850 for specified street and bridge projects in the next five fiscal years. An additional improvement program was outlined for the five succeeding years calling for expenditure of $5,332,000 more.

an adopted but flexible program of

"The advantages to be secured from public improvement is quite apparent," Capt. Whitehurst said in submitting the program, which is the most exhaustive and thoroughly prepared ever put together by District highway officials.

"Will Prevent Duplication."

The program, Capt. Whitehurst said, "will allow the department to plan and execute continuous and systematic improvements over a period of years; it will permit the execution of large projects over several seasons in the proper and logical sequence, including acquisition of right of way. It will prevent duplication and undoing of prior work; it will permit other departments of the District as well as utility companies to properly prepare and plan in accordance with the program in advance of highway improvement and be the means of effecting throughout the engineed department economies otherwise impractical through year to year planning and operation."

The program calls for an extensive widening of the principal streets in all sections of the city. The main highways of the city have not kept pace with the development of the city or the traffic demands, Capt. Whitehurst said, and added that "it is believed highly desirable for many reasons and in some cases absolutely necessary for economic reasons to adopt a program of street widening."

Replacement of Bridges.

Many of the city's bridges "have outlived their usefulness and are totally inadequate for the present day loads and volume of traffic," the report said. "Replacement of bridges should in most cases precede the undertaking of any out-and-out new projects."

Elimination of grade crossings has been considerably delayed because of failure to get necessary legislation in advance of authorization fo the actual work of eliminating a crossing, it was said.

A hint of a future Washington in which vehicular traffic would flow over and under street intersections was contained in Capt. Whitehurst's simple statement that "To date little if any thought has been given to grade separation of major highways." Right of way for street projects should be obtained before the District is ready to begin actual work of opening, widening or otherwise improving a highway, the report declared.

Officers Elected By Veterans' Band

Maj. Harvey L. Miller Named Commander of Official V. F. W. Organization.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Overseas Military Band, the national band of the organization, yesterday elected the following officers for the coming year:

Commander, Maj. Harvey L. Miller; First Lieut. and Musical Director, Arthur E. Harper; Quartermaster, Harry P. Volkman, jr.; Adjutant, Joseph B. Gerdella; Assistant Adjutant, H. A. Church; Drum Major, William E. Freeman; First Sergeant, R. A. Windsor; Color Sergeant, Christian Scheible; Color Corporal, William I. Snyder; Sergeant Major and Assistant Leader, Alvin I. Loric; Sergeant Major and Instructor, Bernard S. Bladen; Honorary Colonel, Miss Thelma Bonini.

Sergeants: William H. Herrmann, Alfred L. Mallone, F. E. Starr, Irving H. Silverberg, Chas. W. Jones, John A. Johnson, Marion Stone, Jos. Clements, Roy Beasley, Jack Lynch.

Dabbs, Frank Topasch, Sid M. Lawrence, W. J. Cavanaugh, Norman Volkman, W. I. Joyce, R. A. Keithley, C. A. Gasch, Joseph B. Ginalle.

Extension Again Asked In Fare Raise Appeal

The Public Utilities Commission and the people's counsel yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to give them until October 11 to perfect their appeal from the action of Justice Jennings Bailey in giving the two traction companies the increase over the old 8-cent fare.

The original order signed by Justice Bailey gave the commission and Mr. Keech twenty days from July 12 in which to perfect the appeal. Since then the corporation counsel's office and Mr. Keech have asked for successive delays. As in the former petitions for more time, the petitioners claim that there is a quantity of stenographic matter which must be gone into and examined by them and opposing counsel.

Police Seek Nine Lads From Training School

Police are searching for nine Negro youths who early yesterday morning escaped from the National Training School for Boys on the Bladensburg road by jumping from a window.

The break was led by John Williams and Theodore Jackson, both 18, who were recently sent to the school after serving a year at Occoquan for an automobile theft. With them were Herman Norman, 19, of Birmingham, Ala.; Cecil Campbell, 18, of Cleveland, Ohio; Alvin Graves, 18, of Kansas City, Kans., and Merrill B. Easton, 17; Hosea Brown, 16; Elmer Olden, 16; George Gaither, 16, all of this city.

TIME CHOSEN CALLED MERELY COINCIDENCE

Seventeenth of a series of articles by the former prohibition administrator of the Eastern New York district.

MAJ. MAURICE CAMPBELL

The twenty night club raids of June 28, 1928, the night Al Smith was nominated, have been commonly and erroneously called the Willebrandt raids.

The obtaining of evidence and the raiding was all done under my direction and on my own initiative, with out-of-town investigators lent to me by Commissioner Doran.

The coincidence with Al Smith's nomination was a coincidence and nothing more. I might have raided sooner, but wanted to have my civil service appointment before I faced hostile sentiment in New York. And the timing of these raids was too ticklish a matter to be influenced by anything but necessity.

Mrs. Willebrandt did give me valuable assistance and support, for which I was most grateful. I conferred with her several times before the raids. She personally came to New York and arranged to have a Federal judge instead of a United States Commissioner sign the search warrants, because I had found that word of search warrants sometimes leaked out. She gave me special prosecutors who did what I considered to be the only effective prosecution my enforcement efforts ever got.

Promised Full Support.

Mrs. Willebrandt told my enforcement assistant, William D. Moss, that she wanted to get behind me fully in this matter because she felt that I had not been supported by United States Attorney Tuttle in the Helen Morgan case, of which I told yesterday. Moss reported to me that she said she particularly wanted to make amends for this. As a matter of fact, after my clash with Tuttle, she had suggested that I make a new Helen Morgan case. At one time she intended to prosecute the cases herself, but she was unable to do so.

The prosecutions in these 20 cases against 98 defendants resulted in fines totaling $18,660; forfeitures of $4,000; actual jail time totaling 125 months and 10 days; suspended jail time totaling 138 months; probation totaling 59 and one-half years. Out of 18 defendants who stood trial, 15 were convicted.

The credit for this prosecution goes to Norman J. Morrison and Leslie Salter, the special assistant attorneys general assigned from Washington. Mr. Tuttle prosecuted the first case, against the Ferndale Club (it was the only prohibition case I ever knew him to take part in, but he insisted on it as his right) and obtained convictions. But his office balanced the effect of this when Robert B. Watts, his assistant, was held to have given immunity to the chief defendant in another case; so in that there was no conviction.

Got Night Club Reputation.

It would have been no use trying to use my own men for an undercover investigation of the night clubs. The first man I selected was James L. White, from Denver, who was attached to the Detroit office. He came with his wife and registered at the Hotel Astor, cashed checks on Denver, got himself into a newspaper as a big broom-corn man from Denver. He soon learned his way around the night clubs; and, though he knew he was being watched and

GARBER IS REFUSED PLACE ON BALLOTS

Putnam, of Tenth Virginia District, Also Ruled Off by Judge's Decision.

FAILED TO GIVE NOTICE

Richmond, Va., Sept. 23 (A.P.).—Circuit Judge Julien Gunn, of Richmond, today denied and dismissed the applications of Representative Jacob A. Garber and M. J. Putnam for a writ of mandamus requiring their names to be placed on the November election ballots as congressional candidates in the Seventh and Tenth districts, respectively.

Judge Gunn overruled the contention of the complainants that the Virginia election law requiring convention nominees to give 60 days' notice of their candidacies is merely directory, unreasonable or unconstitutional. Instead, he held, the law is mandatory, reasonable and does not conflict with either the States or Federal constitutionals.

Mr. Garber and Mr. Putnam appealed to the court after Peter Saunders, secretary of the Commonwealth, ruled them ineligible to have their names placed on the November election ballots. They failed to give Secretary Saunders the 60 days' notice prior to the date of election required by law.

Mr. Garber previously has said that in event of an adverse decision from Judge Gunn he would appeal to the Supreme Court of Appeal of Virginia.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 23 (A.P.).—Continuing his unbroken march of triumph for the year, Bobby Jones today captured the qualifying medal in the national amateur golf championship with a record—equaling the score of 69,73—142, in a battle that witnessed the downfall of the defending champion, Harrison R. ("Jimmy") Johnston, of St. Paul, and produced unprecedented carnage among other favorites.

Pitch darkness finally overtook and halted the hectic struggle over the historic east course of Merion after Jones emerged the victor by a single stroke over George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, who finished the two-day 36-hole test with 73, 70—143; after Johnston had been eliminated by a single shot, despite a gallant comeback, as he scored 83, 73—156; and after no less than eleven players, with scores of 155, had started but failed to complete a play-off battle for the eight places remaining in the list of 32 qualifiers for match play, starting tomorrow.

Johnston's tragic failure to earn the right to defend his crown at match play marked the second time in the 34-year history of the national amateur tournament that a champion had not qualified.

Gardner Failed in 1909.

"Robert A. ('Bob') Gardner, of Chicago, after capturing his first championship in 1909, was not among the qualifiers for the defense of his crown in 1910, when William C. Fownes, of Pittsburgh, was the winner."

Seventeen years ago Jerome T. Travers was forced to play off to enter the man-to-man struggle and he went on to win the title, but Johnston just missed even this opportunity as he saw what looked like a safe total surpassed by an eleventh-hour outburst of low scoring among a flock of unheralded competitors.

So sensational were the upsets that cluttered up the premises throughout the last half of the qualifying round, participated in by more than 160 players, that three of the first ten seeded entries and seven of the first twenty favored names were abruptly removed from the tournament.

Six former American title holders, including Johnston, Jesse Guilford, Chick Evans, Chandler Egan, Davidson Herron and Mar Marston, were eliminated, along with the big British star, Cyril J. H. Tolley. Another former American and British champion, Jess Sweetser, was among the half-dozen who must continue the play-off tomorrow to decide the occupants of the five remaining places in the draw.

Moe Fails to Qualify.

Says: Oftentimes leisure can be profitably employed. While there are some people out of work who are well educated, there are many others who were displaced because they were not sufficiently trained to hold their places. When the time comes to reduce the force, those go first who can not compete with their more skilled fellow workmen. As our industrial life becomes more complex and requires more and more technical knowledge, it will be increasingly difficult for the unskilled to find and hold employment. High wages require a high earning capacity.

With the present school facilities for the young this situation will come to take care of itself. But the condition would be very serious for those who have already reached maturity without such advantages, except for the opportunity that is afforded by the night schools and university extension.

These are practically free, and correspondence school courses cost but little. Our people will find not only their present earning capacity but their chance of future permanent employment greatly increased by serious application to some of these sources for intellectual training. The main value of a wage earner is his mind.

300 PER CENT RATE SET IN WATCH LOAN

Post Reporter Visits Second-Hand Shops to Pledge Gold Timepiece.

LEGAL CURB IS SOUGHT

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

If there were some elixir of life to animate the statue of Benjamin Franklin at Tenth and D streets northwest, the old philosopher would be shocked to see upon what unfertile ground his axioms of thrift have fallen.

Nearby the old sage is the place where the pawn brokers, under the guise of second-hand dealers, ply their trade of taking jewelry as security for loans, and do as they please about returning the pledge.

There might be slight consolation to Old Benjamin, whose teachings were the synthesis of thrift, to know that the dealings are carried on behind his back; but District authorities soon hope to terminate them by having legislation enacted to permit the return of pawn brokers.

To test the manner in which these pawn brokers operate a reporter made a canvass of dealers, trying to "hock" his watch, or rather the gold timepiece which was purchased by the office for the occasion, the reporter having not reached that state of affluence which affords ownership of such valuables.

The purpose of the visit was to determine whether these merchants really bought a piece of jewelry or whether they follow the same procedure as a licensed pawn dealer. There are no licensed brokers in the District.

Max Zweig, of 937 D street northwest, was the first merchant whose place was visited. In the window was a sign, "Drastic reductions on all revolvers. Our line of shotguns is complete. Look 'em over."

The clerk at this place probably noticed that the patron was in need of money and offered to lend him $4 on the watch and promised him it could be redeemed within ten days for $5 or at the rate of 900 per cent interest a year.

This didn't seem such a good bargain, so Tendler's at 913 D street, a few doors away, was next visited. Here the offer was a little better. The client was offered $6. After ten days it could be redeemed at $6.50. If it remained a month interest of $1 would be charged and 50 cents for each additional month. No business on this deal.

For the sake of variety Ninth street was next visited. At 414 Ninth street the prospective patron was told that the proprietor conducted a place at 434 Ninth street, where money would be lent on jewelry.

While at 414 Ninth street an enterprising young salesman sought to interest the patron in some old socks and old hats. Since the reporter had several pairs of old socks and one

DIARY HIDES SECRET OF ANDREE'S DEATH

Three Swedish Professors Unable to Decipher Handwriting.

EXAMINE OTHER PAPERS

Stockholm, Sept. 23 (A.P.).—The final chapter of the tragic story of Salomon August Andree and his two companions is believed to have been written by Andree himself shortly before they died on White Island a third of a century ago. But it is in writing that thus far has defied deciphering.

Three Swedish professors who have been examining the relics of the balloon expedition that met with ill luck over the frozen wastes in 1897, today declared that a mouldering document to which they refer as "Andree's second diary," probably recites what another Andree diary already published has left untold. The "first diary" carried the story up to October 2, 1897, when a sudden break-up of the ice floe on which the explorers were encamped shattered their prospects of returning to civilization. How they landed on White Island remained a mystery and there has been no suggestion as to the immediate cause of death. The experts will endeavor to decipher the document known as the second diary, although they have some fear that the meaning of its writing may remain hidden forever.

An inventory of all the documents found in the encampment of the Andress expedition was announced today by the committee of three professors.

The documents in addition to the second diary, which have been examined by Professors Lithberg, Gunnar Anderson and Ahlmann, are:

Salomon August Andree's own diary covering the period from July 11 to October 2, 1897, the resume of which has already been published.

Notes and an almanac that had belonged to Nils Strindberg, one of Andree's two companions, containing short sporadical notes made between July 11 and October 10, 1897, with two pages full of observations during the period between July 11 and 19, 41 pages of short notations made between July 11 and 15, and also some short notes which have not yet been transcribed.

The logbook kept by Strindberg between July 15 and September 4, consisting of 120 written pages in octavo, containing chiefly astronomical observations; also the end of a little book containing menus and similar data.

Another logbook by Strindberg for the period between September 5 and October 2 consisting of 14 written pages containing astronomical observations, some figures, and at the end nine pages referring to the time between July 21 and 31 in shorthand that has not been deciphered.

GRAIN MARKET CRASHES UNDER FALSE REPORTS

SEARCH FOR AUTHOR OF MESSAGES BEGUN

Wires, Declaring Canada Pool Insolvent, Send Wheat to 77⅞.

TRADE BOARD STARTS INVESTIGATION TODAY

Specific Information Given by Hyde; Fish Opens Quiz Monday.

Chicago, Sept. 23 (A.P.).—Already confounded by short-selling investigations and unmeetable world competition by Russia, the sagging grain market today bent further under the weight of false reports from Canada.

Hastily denied and corrected, the reports, which alleged insolvency of the Canadian Growers' pool, nevertheless sent wheat, corn and every other grain tumbling to unimagined lows, unmatched in 24 years. September wheat reached bottom at 77⅞ cents.

The incident added a third investigation to the market. The business conduct committee of the Board of Trade and the United States grain futures administration began immediate inquiry to find the author of the forged messages. They were signed with the name of a prominent Winnipeg broker. A telegraph company joined the search.

Board Inquiry Today.

The board of trade committee tomorrow will reopen its investigation into Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde's charges that Russia abused grain hedging facilities here to depress wheat prices. The committee has received the specific information it requested Hyde to furnish.

Representative Hamilton Fish, who said he suspected a Communist plot behind the short selling of wheat by Russia, will bring his congressional investigation to Chicago next Monday. Officials of the Board of Trade have promised to appear and several brokers, it is understood, will be subpenaed.

Russia's activities abroad continued confounding to the local situation. The Soviets undersold North American wheat in Europe and announced vessels had been chartered to carry out 55,000,000 bushels of grain, most of it wheat.

Further bearish news was that the world's stock of wheat in sight increased 27,322,000 bushels last week, bringing the total to the staggering figure of 413,343,000 bushels. Last year at this time the world's visible supply was 393,493,000 bushels.

Hyde Held Mistaken.

The Hyde charges against Russian participation in the local market continued to furnish gossip for traders. It was said by some of them that Hyde's statement to the effect Russia could "obviously not import wheat over our 42-cent tariff" was not pertinent to short selling on the Chicago market, inasmuch as it would be possible for Russia to hedge here as insurance against transactions abroad.

The world prices of wheat remain at joint levels on all markets for the most part, considering the differences caused by freight and insurance, they argued.

Still others defending the legality of the Russian transactions pointed to the Grain Stabilization Corporation's holding of 60,000,000 bushels of wheat

OFFICIAL KILLS RAILWAY HEAD AND ENDS LIFE

VICE PRESIDENT THEN FIRES INTO OWN BODY

BYERS AND GRAY RIFT HAD BEEN OBSERVED

"That's Obvious," Is Reply of Dying Executive, Asked Who Did Shooting.

Lower—DUDLEY G. GRAY.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 23 (A.P.).—Behind the locked doors of his office, Maxwell C. Byers, president of the Western Maryland Railway Co., was shot and killed today by Dudley G. Gray, vice president in charge of traffic, who then fatally wounded himself.

At odds for months, the two men engaged in a quiet conversation shortly before noon, their voices not being heard by stenographers and other employes through a partition that separates the president's offices from a general office in a downtown building.

Then came a burst of firing, and an employe who forced his way into the room found Byers dead and Gray dying. He succumbed after 4½ hours at the nearby Mercy Hospital. Coroner Otto M. Reinhardt gave a verdict of murder by Gray and suicide. He said no inquest would be held.

Gray died with but two cryptic words of explanation. Asked by the clerk first in the room "who did this?" he muttered:

"That's obvious."

Byers Shot Eight Times.

By his side was found a .32-caliber automatic pistol, with five bullets unexploded. At the hospital a similar weapon, with one bullet, was taken from Gray's clothing.

Byers was shot eight times, once through the heart. Gray was shot twice, a bullet near his heart causing his death at Mercy Hospital this afternoon.

Three minutes before the startled office workers heard the shots, J. W. Stringer, a special representative of the railroad president, walked out of the president's office shortly after Gray was announced and came in, he said:

He said the two started to converse quietly and seemed on the most amiable terms.

Controlled by B. & O.

Byers, who was 52 years old, became a prominent railroad figure in 1922 and again in 1925 when he adopted an uncompromising attitude toward striking shopmen and engineers of his road.

He was a native of Pittsburgh and is survived by his widow and five sons.

Byers had been president of the Western Maryland, which derives much of its revenue as a coal carrier from the fields of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, since 1920. He had also been chairman of the board since 1926.

The road operates 877 miles of trackage, 543 of which are owned outright. It is controlled by the Baltimore & Ohio, but under the consolidation plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission would be a part of the Wabash-Seaboard Air Line system.

Had Noticed Antagonism.

Gray, born at Columbus, Ohio, in 1869, had been connected with the Western Maryland since 1913. His widow, who was Catherine Gertrude Leonard, was reported to be visiting at Columbus today. Mrs. Byers arrived at the hospital soon after the shooting and collapsed when told her husband was dead.

The two men had been associated even before their service with the

LOSS ELIMINATES ROBINS

Baker Bowl, Philadelphia, Pa. Sept. 23 (A. P.).—Connie Mack and his Athletics looked over the St. Louis Cardinals as they played the Phillies here this afternoon, and left Baker Bowl somewhat confused as to whether they must play baseball or cricket in the world series.

When the two teams finally drew wickets in the mellow September sunset, the Cardinals had pasted out 26 hits for a 19 to 16 victory, and increased their lead to three full games over the idle Cubs. It gave them four out of five for the series. The victory also eliminated the Robins, who bowed to the Giants, 8-2.

The Cards started off by running up an 11 to 0 lead off Fidgety Phil Collins and Elliott, and the Phils retaliated by hammering out eight runs off Rhem and knocking him from the box.

Tony Rensa gave them their first bunch of tallies by hitting a home run into the left field bleachers with the bases full in the fourth.

The Cardinals piled up more runs off Benge and the Phils finished up Lindsey in the seventh. They had three runs in, the bases full and none out in that inning when Bill Hallahan marched in and retired the side on two easy pop flies and a strike out.

He was socked for five runs in the

Woman Called Clara Bow Denies Her Gambling Debts

CLARA BOW

Actress Denies "Any One Has Rightful Claim" Against Her.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 23.—The Reno Gazette says today that a young woman with flaming red hair, introduced as Clara Bow, motion picture actress, played roulette and other games of chance for high stakes at a resort at Calneva, Nev., last week and gave checks aggregating $13,500 to cover her losses. The management of the resort said the checks had been returned marked "payment stopped." George B. Thatcher, member of a Reno firm acting for the resort owners, said he had laid the matter before B. P. Schulberg, of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Studios at Hollywood.

There were four checks, according to the attorney, dated September 11.

Coste, Balked by Rockies, Is Driven Back to Denver

French Fliers Will Try Once More Today to Cross Divide.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 23 (A.P.).—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who flew westward across the Atlantic without faltering, found the backbone of the Rocky Mountains less to their liking tonight and were back in Denver after snow clad peaks and adverse weather had thwarted them in attempted flight to Salt Lake City today.

The delay was the first of the Nation-wide tour of the transatlantic fliers. They plan to leave Denver again at 5 a. m. tomorrow in a second attempt to conquer the Rockies.

JEALOUS MATE SHOOTS MAN IN EARLE THEATER

Wife of Wounded Navy Yard Worker Did Not Know of Attentions to Another.

Sylvester L. Fornwald, 39 years old, of G street near Fourteenth street northeast, is thought to be in a dying condition in Emergency Hospital after he was shot three times by Parker Bowie, 47-year-old corpenter living in Croissant place, near Seventh street southeast, in the Earle Theater yesterday shortly before noon.

The shooting occurred soon after the first performance of the moving picture house started. Fornwald was seated about midway in the theater with Bowie's wife when Bowie entered and stalked up and down the aisles, finally locating the couple.

"I've got my man now," he is declared to have said, and without a warning to the other persons seated nearby he whipped out a revolver and rapidly fired three shots. The first one hit Fornwald in the head just over the left ear, while the other two were fired into his back as he slumped over in the seat.

Confusion Seizes Audience.

Confusion reigned in the theater. Mrs. Bowie, seated by Fornwald's side, fainted as the wounded man crumpled over with a low groan, bleeding profusely. Other persons in the house started screaming, and one usher who was present later declared: "We thought the theater was becoming a madhouse." There were more than 1,000 persons in the audience.

Three policemen off duty were attending the performance, and, with the aid of theater attaches, Bowie was quickly seized and taken to the First Precinct, while the injured man was rushed to the hospital in their ambulance. The policemen were W. T. Hayden and W. T. Murphy, of the Ninth Precinct, and Private L. P. Bell, of the Fifth Precinct.

Late last night Fornwald's condition was still unchanged, and very little hope was entertained for his recovery. A blood transfusion was resorted to as a means of prolonging his life and to aid him in regaining enough strength to undergo an operation to remove the bullet from the base of his brain.

Bowie Tells of Warnings.

At the police station where Bowie was taken, he told a story of repeated warnings to his wife that her going with another man was going to bring trouble to their home.

Mrs. Fornwald, the injured man's wife, was first told of the tragedy by a Post reporter. Although it was a great shock to her, on her way to the bedside of her husband she unfolded the story of how she had fought a battle to keep the affections of her husband, and how, until yesterday, she thought she had won.

"He was so good to me that I can't realize such a thing has happened," she declared. "There was nothing that I wanted which he would not get or do for me. Why—" and she wiped a tear from her cheek—"only a little while ago he asked me if I did not want a new car, and when I told him that I would like it, I had it before three days had passed.

Married for 15 Years.

"A few years ago," she continued, "I thought that he was going around with another woman, perhaps more than one woman, but I thought that he had gotten over that infatuation, and that he was surely the model husband. About four years ago we had a little quarrel or two about the Bowie woman, but I had entirely forgotten about her, and I was under the impression that he had also."

They had been married for almost 15 years, she disclosed, and during that time they had not had one serious quarrel. Just a few little ones which were quickly forgotten, and not even one of those for a long time.

"He was so good to me!" she constantly repeated on the way to the hospital.

According to the wife, Fornwald has lived in Washington for about 19 years, coming here from Reading, Pa. He had been employed at the Navy Yard for several years, and at the time of the shooting he was a night crane operator in the gun factory there.

Had Little Time Together.

His hours, Mrs. Fornwald said, were so different from her own that they were with each other only for a few hours each night. He worked on the 12 midnight to 8 o'clock-in-the-morning shift, causing him to have to leave the apartment each night about 11 o'clock. She is employed in a local laundry, and went to work each morning before her husband returned from his job.

"I have no idea what he did during the morning hours," she said yesterday, "but I certainly did not think that he would go out with other women." And then, with a sigh, she resignedly added, "but men are so uncertain, aren't they?"

Bowie will be held at the First Precinct station pending the recovery or death of Fornwald. Mrs. Bowie will be questioned later in connection with the shooting, police say, but she was not held yesterday.

Mrs. Fornwald will probably go to her mother, Mrs. Martha E. Mangum, who is employed in the Government Printing Office here and lives on K street northwest. She told attaches at the hospital yesterday that she held nothing against her husband, and that she would do anything she could for him. He is in a semiconscious condition at the hospital.

Broker Files Bankruptcy Plea.

Grain Leader Pleads Bankruptcy.

Abraham Kline, of 1124 Florida avenue northeast, who describes himself as a retail dealer in hay, grain, feed and gasoline, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt. He lists liabilities of $2,968.55 and no assets.

CAMPBELL GUN TEST SET FOR NEXT WEEK

OTHERS TO BE PRESENT

Examination of the pistol which the Government alleges was used by Herbert M. Campbell in the murder of Mary E. Baker will be made next week by Albert H. Hamilton, of Auburn, N. Y., ballistics expert for the defense.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins yesterday directed a letter to Chief Defense Counsel Charles Henry Smith acceding to his request for gun tests by the defense. Mr. Collins, however, declined permission for Mr. Hamilton to view the other Government evidence, which consists of clothes, a pair of men's gloves and some cheap jewelry which were found in a trap basin a mile from the place where the girl's body was found.

Mr. Smith, upon receipt of Mr. Collins' letter today, will communicate with Mr. Hamilton to have him come to Washington for the tests. Mr. Collins will have present, Dr. Wilmer Souder or Lieut. John Fowler, local ballistics experts, while the tests are being made.

Columbus U. Law School Resumes

Largest Student Body in History Present at First Assembly.

The largest student body in the history of the institution was present last night for the opening assembly of Columbus University Law School. Regular class sessions will commence tonight.

William E. Leahy, dean of the school, stressed the value of legal training in his welcoming address to the students. "We are living in an age of widespread unrest," he said, "and a legal education is of great value to the individual so that he may know his own rights and not transgres sthose of others."

The purpcses of the school, which is conducted under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, were outlined in short addresses by President Charles W. Darr and William G. Feely, chairman of the board of trustees.

$5,000 Bond Assessed In Bogus Money Case

Charged with passing counterfeit money, Aaron Trachtenberg, of Massachusetts avenue northwest near Second street, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and ordered held under $5,000 bond pending hearing on removal proceedings next Monday.

Trachtenberg is said to be wanted in Baltimore on the charge. He already is under bond in the District in connection with an alleged assault last week on Policeman V. V. Vaughn, of the Traffic Bureau. Vaughn was sent to the hospital as was another man as the result of the alleged encounter, which arose over a parking violation.

RAZING AUTHORITY EXTENSION URGED

350 CONDEMNED IN 1929

Amendment of existing law so as to extend authority of the District to raze buildings which have been condemned as delapidated and unsanitary was urged by the board for condemnation of unsanitary buildings in its annual report, submitted to the District Commissioners yesterday.

Under cour decisions, the board said, owners of property compelled the District to pay for old delapidated and unsanitary buildings. he corporation counsel has drafted an amendment to the law which will permit the board to proced "more expitiously," the report said.

The report was signed by Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, as chairman; Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer; Col. John W. Oehmann, building inspector, and A. S. J. Atkinson, inspector.

There were 350 buildings condemned in the last fiscal year, of which 76 were in alleys, the board reported. Of those condemned, 205 weer razed, 120 were repaired and the status of the remaining 25 was pending at the close of the year. There are 308 buildings awaiting future action. The value of repairs made to save condemned buildings was given as $58,175.

Girl Bride Asks Court To Annul Her Marriage

Ann Elizabeth McDaniel, of Gallatin street northwest, near Sixth street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to annual her marriage to DeLaney DeSales McDaniel, of Takoma Park, Md.

Mrs. McDaniel, who says she is 18 years old now, states that she married McDaniel last January 21 and that she was under age and that he also was. She also asserts that McDaniel told her he had a substantial bank account, but that she discovered he did not. Attorney P. C. King, jr., appears for the woman.

Smoke Screen Use Is Charged to Man

Coombs Believed Driver of Car Which Led Police in Wild Chase.

A warrant charging the use of an automobile smoke screen yesterday was served on Glenroy Horace Toombs, 31 years old, Oates Street near Montello Avenue northeast.

Toombs is believed to have been the driver of an automobile which led members of Sergt. George M. Little's liquor squad on a wild chase through the southeast section of the city several weeks ago.

He was taken into custody by G. C. Deyoe and locked up at the Fifth precinct police station. Toombs gave his occupation as a chauffeur.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

IN the old days, the male of the species did the spending for the family; rather recklessly, sometimes, it's true; but the man usually held control of the finances. Nowadays, according to Luella, eighty-five per cent of all salaries in the country are spent by women.

"What does that mean?" I asked, "and where did you get your figures."

"You've asked me two questions, which do you want answered?"

"Both."

"All right, if you want to know about this new situation, it means that women have at last become financies——"

"Financiers? You think it takes a financier to spend money?"

"You can't spend money unless you've got it," she snapped.

"No? What about all these charge accounts? It doesn't take money there. You just 'charge it'."

* * * *

SHE shot me a crushing glance.

"You asked me where I got my figures, showing that eighty-five per cent of all salaries in the country are spent by women."

"Figures," I sneered. "They're sometimes a lot of poppycock——"

"Why poppycock——"

"Oh, no," she corrected, "figures don't lie—liars figure."

Either way, it's all nonsense trying to figure out who spends the money. As a matter of fact there isn't much money to spend." With that shot I turned to the financial pages to see the latest fluctuations in the market. The bears are about to devour the bulls.

* * * *

SUDDENLY my eye caught a statement from a leading financier, to wit: "Last year feminine financiers invested $700,000,000 in fraudulent securities. It is the fault of their husbands, brothers, sons and fathers, who do not take time to teach them sound finance."

Ho! Ho! So that was it.

GAS RATE DECISION BY UTILITIES BOARD IS EXPECTED SOON

Commission Members Ask More Time to Discuss New Schedule.

STRAIGHT ACCEPTANCE OR VETO IS UNDECIDED

Minimum Bill for Small Consumer Is Point to Be Scanned With Care.

Brief discussion by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday failed to develop a decision on the gas rate schedules proposed by the Washington Gas Light Co. for the District.

Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired, chairman of the commission, said that a decision will be reached soon, probably on Thursday, when the commission will hold its next regular executive session. Members of the commission, Gen. Patrick said, are studying various questions involved in the rate case and want additional time to reach their individual conclusion.

Whether the legal situation surrounding the tender of new rates by the gas company is such that the commission must accept or veto the schedule as submitted has not been finally determined in the commission's mind, Gen. Patrick said.

Small Consumers Object.

Objection has been raised against the schedule submitted by the company to the effect that it will increase the monthly bills of approximately 28,000 small consumers, and Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, sought at the public hearing last week to commit company representatives to a modification of this household schedule so as to provide for no increase for this class of consumers.

Company officers, however, were loath to agree unless they were shown how such a m odification would result in sufficiently increased business to make up the loss.

The rate schedules submitted by the company would cut its revenues by $500,000 in the first year they are in effect, company experts estimated, but the minimum bill provisions covering the small household consumer would cut this prospective decrease in revenues by something like $150,000, which would be the amount the small consumers would pay above the amount they now pay under the rate of $1 per 1,000 cubic feet without a minimum bill.

Minimum to be Scanned.

Persons who used 2,200 cubic feet gas a month would get the same bill as now and those who used more would pay less and less as the quantity used mounted.

The minimum bill for the small consumer is one point which the utilities commission is expected to scan carefully, wilh an I to reducing it.

On the other hand the commission may decide that the rate of 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas for household heating purposes is too low.

Capital Judge Hits Overactive Police

Hitt, in Fining Car Driver on Minor Traffic Charge, Makes Statement.

If one out of every four inhabitants of the District of Columbia is arrested once a year it is due to overzealousness on the part of traffic policemen.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday virtually made that statement when he took the personal bond of Charles G. Doomis, of Georgia avenue northwest near the District Line, on a charge of passing through a safety zone at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The judge, however, held that the car operator had failed to show a permit and fined him $2 on that count.

In criticizing the police, Judge Hitt declared: "Records show that nearly a quarter of the population of Washington were arrested last year. A large number of these cases were traffic. I dare say a large number of these cases should not have occurred and would not have occurred if police had been less anxious to make small cases, shown more courtesy and endeavored to apprehend the more important violators of the law."

Gold Star Group Greeted by Hoover

Missouri Unit Departs for Home After Sojourn in Capital.

A formal greeting at the White House by President Hoover and a visit to the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon concluded the two-day sojourn here of several score Gold Star Mothers of Missouri.

Stopping off in this city en route to their homes after a pilgrimage to the graves of their sons in France as guests of the Government, the delegation journeyed to the grave of the Nation's first President to lay a wreath.

Immediately upon their return at noon they were received at the White House, where President Hoover on the south lawn posed with them for photographers.

Former Will Be Named to Succeed Capt. Sanford in Fifth Precinct.

LATTER TO MOVE UP ONE GRADE IN RANK

Shifts May Be Made So as to Place Younger Man in No. 1 Post.

Lieut. James F. Beckett, of the First Police precinct, and Sergt. James C. Holmes, of the Harbor precinct, are expected to be promoted by District Commissioners this week.

Lieut. Beckett will be made a captain to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement, effective October 1, of Capt. Sanford, veteran commander of the Fifth precinct, who is retiring at his own request.

Holmes For Beckett.

Sergt. Holmes will be made a lieutenant to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Lieut. Beckett, but it is not certain just where Mr. Holmes will be assigned and it is possible that there may be some shifts in assignments of lieutenants and a younger man sent to be second in command of the First precinct.

Lieut. Beckett was born in Maryland on January 13, 1883, and was appointed to the police force on August 8, 1907. He was assigned to duty in the Sixth Precinct. He was made a sergeant on August 10, 1919, and assigned to the First Precinct where he has served since. He was promoted to lieutenant on January 16, 1922. He has been several times commended for his police work.

Veteran in Department.

Sergt. Holmes is a veteran in the department. He was born in New York on August 9, 1867 nad was appointed to the police force here on December 2, 1892. His first assignment was in the Second Precinct and later he was on duty in the First and Eleventh Precincts. He was a horse patrolman in the latter precinct.

Commended several times for apprehension of criminals, he was promoted to sergeant on September 1, 1902. He was assigned to duty in the harbor precinct a few weeks ago.

Y. M. C. A. Outlines Fall's Activities

Extension of Participation in Athletic Events Is Scheduled.

Extension of its activities, notably in the active participation of its athletic teams in local and intercity contests, will be undertaken this fall by the Washington Y. M. C. A. under a program adopted last night by its managers, committeemen and staff officers at the Blue Triangle Hut.

The policy of the physical department in sports will extend to basket ball, handball, volley ball, swimming, bowling, wrestling and track events.

A policy of "closer personal relationship between instructor and student" has been adopted for the "Y" institutions, including Southeastern University, Washington Preparatory School and the Woodward School for Boys. Cooperation with churches in religious education, employment and welfare work, promotion of clubs among high school students, and other activities are included in the program.

Motorization of Police To Be Club Debate Topic

Motorization of police precincts, and the question of whether it will increase efficiency, will be debated before the Junior Citizens Alliance tonight in the offices of the Washington Board of Trade.

The affirmative will be upheld by Charles Scott Sykes, Samuel Lightman and Miss Elizabeth Hammett. The negative side will be taken by Luther B. Keen, Paul E. Keen and J. Mark Trice. Judge Mary O'Toole, of Municipal Court, will act as chairman of the debate. Rufus S. Lusk will address the club on public speaking.

District's Fiscal Study Date Set

Monetary Relationship of City With U. S. Will Be Analyzed.

The congressional investigation of the fiscal relationship between the District of Columbia and the Federal Government will begin about the middle of November, Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, announced yesterday.

Representative Mapes is chairman of the committee, which was created at the close of the last session of Congress, following a long battle over the District appropriation bill.

The committee will seek to determine what is a fair sum for the Federal Government to contribute toward the support of the local government, and it is likely that it will recommend a new system of taxation here.

Fireman Injured in Explosion.

An exploding oxygen tank yesterday sent Fireman John R. Ghean, 41 years old, of the fire, rescue squad, Emergency Hospital for treatment of lacerations about the face and hands. Ghean was filling the tank when it burst. The accident occurred at No. 2 Engine House in the 700 block of Twelfth street northwest.

Autoist Pays $5 on Failure To Give Way to Pedestrian

The pedestrian came into his own at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday, where Policeman H. D. Johnson, of the Traffic Bureau, firmly set about enforcing the statute which requires motorists to give right of way to persons on crosswalks. One arrest resulted.

Kingsley Albert House, 28 years old, a musician, of College Park, Md., who was charged with failure to give right of way to a pedestrian, forfeited $5 collateral on the charge.

The traffic policeman was nearly as severe with "jaywalkers." Although the edict against "jaywalking" has been thought to be nonenforceable, a Post reporter who elected to take the short cut diagonally across the intersection yesterday afternoon found his way blocked by the minion of the law.

"Go to the corner, please. No jaywalking here," was the command. It was obeyed.

Finds When Owner Will Be at Home and Then Goes Leisurely to Work.

LOOTS SEVERAL HOUSES

A number of Washington homes have recently been ransacked by a jimmy thief who has adopted a novel method of operation.

Police report that before forcing entry the robber makes inquiries of neighbors to ascertain the habits of his prospective victim. He is thus able to be sure that his work will be uninterrupted.

The burglar yesterday ransacked the home of Merlin B. Patterson, 1000 Rittenhouse Street northwest, obtaining a quantity of jewelry, including baby rings, lockets, an amethyst ring, a coral and jade ring, one opal ring, several gold pins set with diamonds, a pair of antique gold earrings, a watch and other articles.

Patterson told the police that the maid at the apartment next door reported a call from a white man who inquired as to when Patterson would be at home.

As the work of jimmy thieves has been causing many complaints in the Northwest section in recent weeks, police are concentrating on plans for his apprehension.

Grocer Pays $9.23 For Racket Lesson

Delivery Boy Gives Change for $10 to Apartment "Patron" Who Flees.

The latest victim of the change trick which has mulcted many local merchants in recent weeks is Oscar Gildenham, 2216 Eighteenth street northwest, who yesterday reported to police that his delivery boy was fleeced of $9.23 by the scheme.

Gildenham received a phone call to send groceries amounting to 77 cents and change for a $10 bill to an Eighteenth street apartment. The boy making the delivery was met at the door by a young man, who took the money and disappeared.

The janitor of the building reported that the thief had previously asked to look at a vacant apartment in the building.

Humphries Must Face Charges in New York

William Mayo Humphries, alleged confidence man, was ordered returned to New York City yesterday to face an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud.

Humphries who has been under indictment in New York for some time and who was apprehended here more than a week ago made only a desultory fight against his removal, when brought before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. The man had appeared before the commissioner last week and was unable to post bond of $20,000.

$150 Ring Theft Reported.

SMITH FIRM PLEAS WILL BE EXPEDITED

INDICTMENTS ARE HIT

In an effort to pave the way for the Department of Justice to obtain a speedy trial of all criminal charges against the F. H. Smith Co., its officers, directors and subordinates, it was announced yesterday that a special hearing on pleas in abatement to the various indictments will be held tomorrow.

The action came immediately after the Department of Justice had announced that it would seek trial on the indictments beginning October 8 and after an additional plea in abatement had been filed to the indictment in which G. Bryan Pitts and others are charged with conspiracy to embezzle funds of the Smith Co.

In attacking anew the grand jury which returned the conspiracy indictment, defense attorneys questioned the right of Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, to present the case, claiming that the special assistant did not file his credentials with the clerk of the court. It also is alleged that another special assistant, Henry W. Syfrig, was permitted to enter the grand jury room and take stenographic notes of proceedings without first filing his commission with the clerk.

The indictment has been attacked on many other grounds, but the United States attorney's office, according to Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, plans to vacate the new plea with the statement that it was filed more than four months after the return of the indictment.

Capital Group Leaving For Trade Conference

A delegation of Washington trade executives will leave this afternoon for Niagara Falls to attend the annual convention of the American Trade Executives Association. The convention will continue all this week.

The Washington delegation will include Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association; Philip Gott, D. A. Skinner, E. W. McCullough and H. P. Baker, of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Abram Myers, former Federal Trade Commissioner; George A. Lilly, of the American Dental Manufacturers Association; Junius Owens, of the Carbonated Beverages Association; Wilson Compton, of the Lumber Mamble, of the Dyers and Cleaners Instiufacturers Association! Paul C. Trimtute; Harold R. Young, of the National Retail Dry Goods Association; John Devinney, United Typothetae; Alice Edwards, Home Economics Bureau; J. R. Boyd, M. G. Hough and T. V. Brumbaugh.

Boys Club to Present Shield to F. R. Jelleff

Members of the Boys Club of Washington will dedicate a clubroom and present a silver shield to Frank R. Jelleff, president of the organization for the past nine years, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Boys from the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia will attend.

$29,502,800 STREET AND BRIDGE REPAIR PROGRAM PLANNED

$24,170,850 to Be Spent Within Next Five Years, According to Plan.

A highway and bridge improvement program extending over a period of years and calling for expenditures of $29,502,800 was submitted to the District Commissioners yesterday by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, highway engineer.

The program calls for an expenditure of $24,170,850 for specified street and bridge projects in the next five fiscal years. An additional improvement program was outlined for the five succeeding years calling for expenditure of $5,332,000 more.

an adopted but flexible program of

"The advantages to be secured from public improvement is quite apparent," Capt. Whitehurst said in submitting the program, which is the most exhaustive and thoroughly prepared ever put together by District highway officials.

"Will Prevent Duplication."

The program, Capt. Whitehurst said, "will allow the department to plan and execute continuous and systematic improvements over a period of years; it will permit the execution of large projects over several seasons in the proper and logical sequence, including acquisition of right of way. It will prevent duplication and undoing of prior work; it will permit other departments of the District as well as utility companies to properly prepare and plan in accordance with the program in advance of highway improvement and be the means of effecting throughout the engineed department economies otherwise impractical through year to year planning and operation."

The program calls for an extensive widening of the principal streets in all sections of the city. The main highways of the city have not kept pace with the development of the city or the traffic demands, Capt. Whitehurst said, and added that "it is believed highly desirable for many reasons and in some cases absolutely necessary for economic reasons to adopt a program of street widening."

Replacement of Bridges.

Many of the city's bridges "have outlived their usefulness and are totally inadequate for the present day loads and volume of traffic," the report said. "Replacement of bridges should in most cases precede the undertaking of any out-and-out new projects."

Elimination of grade crossings has been considerably delayed because of failure to get necessary legislation in advance of authorization fo the actual work of eliminating a crossing, it was said.

A hint of a future Washington in which vehicular traffic would flow over and under street intersections was contained in Capt. Whitehurst's simple statement that "To date little if any thought has been given to grade separation of major highways." Right of way for street projects should be obtained before the District is ready to begin actual work of opening, widening or otherwise improving a highway, the report declared.

Extension Again Asked In Fare Raise Appeal

The Public Utilities Commission and the people's counsel yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to give them until October 11 to perfect their appeal from the action of Justice Jennings Bailey in giving the two traction companies the increase over the old 8-cent fare.

The original order signed by Justice Bailey gave the commission and Mr. Keech twenty days from July 12 in which to perfect the appeal. Since then the corporation counsel's office and Mr. Keech have asked for successive delays. As in the former petitions for more time, the petitioners claim that there is a quantity of stenographic matter which must be gone into and examined by them and opposing counsel.

Police Seek Nine Lads From Training School

Police are searching for nine Negro youths who early yesterday morning escaped from the National Training School for Boys on the Bladensburg road by jumping from a window.

The break was led by John Williams and Theodore Jackson, both 18, who were recently sent to the school after serving a year at Occoquan for an automobile theft. With them were Herman Norman, 19, of Birmingham, Ala.; Cecil Campbell, 18, of Cleveland, Ohio; Alvin Graves, 18, of Kansas City, Kans., and Merrill B. Easton, 17; Hosea Brown, 16; Elmer Olden, 16; George Gaither, 16, all of this city.
